LEADERS WARN DEMOCRATS TO SHUN DRY ISSUE

National Committee, Due to Gather Thursday, May Avoid Row.

ONLY CONVENTION CAN ACT, ASSERTS SMITH

Nonpartisan Conclave Set Next Week to Discuss Vital Problems.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

There were strong indications last night that the Democratic national committee will take no action on the prohibition question when it meets here Thursday.

For the past several days, there have been rumors that the wet element of the party would attempt to have the committee adopt a resolution urging State control of the manufacture and the sale of liquor.

It still is possible, of course, that some of the wet committeemen will make such a move. If they do, however, they may find themselves in a row with that most eminent of all Democratic wets—Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

Lacks Authority, Says Smith.

In a statement at Raleigh, N. C., yesterday, Mr. Smith, his party's nominee for President in 1928, pointed out that the Democratic national committee lacks the authority to act on national political issues; that such authority is reserved to the Democratic national convention.

In the meantime, the New York members of the Democratic national committee were advised by the Democratic State organization to avoid any discussion of national party policies at Thursday's meeting here. In other words, they were advised to guard against a row on prohibition.

If former Gov. Smith feels that national political policies should be banned at Thursday's meeting, it is fairly certain that John J. Raskob, the chairman of the national committee, will feel the same way about it, for the two of them had a talk over the week-end.

Will Discuss $800,000 Debt.

Thus, it appears that the agenda of the committee's meeting will be limited pretty much to a discussion of how the party is going to wipe out that $800,000 debt that now burdens it.

The Tennessee Democrats in Congress, joining with other Southern delegations, yesterday protested against any discussion of prohibition at Thursday's meeting. In a message to the Tennessee national committeeman, the members of the delegation said:

"We, the Tennessee Democratic members of both branches of Congress, state that in our judgment the Democratic national committee has no authority to prescribe policies for the Democratic party, and any effort to do so would be very unwise. In the interest of our party, we respectfully, but earnestly request you to vigorously oppose any such action being taken.

New Party Not Intended.

Next week Washington is to be the scene of another important political conclave—a nonpartisan gathering of members of both the Republican and the Democratic parties. The call for the conference was issued yesterday

Calvin Coolidge Says:

In that systematic and organized way which is their national characteristic, a considerable body of German writers have made a systematic response to the men of letters in France who had appealed to them to promote a better understanding between the two countries.

This action might well be supplemented by all the agencies of the press and extended to the whole world. Of course, there is room for argument as to whether criticism of foreign nations produces dislike of them or whether it merely caters to a dislike already existing. Probably both elements are present. Yet if such criticism could be avoided the result certainly would be beneficial.

In our own case the State Department always tries to be fair to foreign countries. If our domestic press attacks the attitude of our Government it greatly encourages foreign antagonism to our country. If it attacks the foreign attitude it increases our antagonism to foreign countries. Governments are almost always sincerely attempting to conduct themselves so that their people can maintain friendly intercourse with each other. All nations want good will, security and peaceful commerce. They are rivals mainly in world service. In these efforts they ought to have the support of the public press.

Duce Praises Hoover For Naval Accord Aid

Mussolini Also Says Italy Has Done Full Duty for World Peace.

Editor's note—The United States is credited with exerting a highly helpful influence toward the new British-Franco-Italian naval accord in the following statement by Premier Benito Mussolini, written exclusively for the Associated Press. He adds that President Hoover initiated the present phase of the movement toward peace, and also regards Italy as having done fully her duty to the world in this at a considerable sacrifice.

By BENITO MUSSOLINI
(Premier of Italy).

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

Rome, March 2 (A.P.).—The agreement reached on the naval questions which were left unsolved at the London conference is a great international event.

It will have large and beneficial repercussions, not only on the Italo-French relations, but also on those of the five great naval powers which thus see consolidated the results so ardently desired by their peoples as a means of avoiding a ruinous armament competition.

It is reasonable to hope for favorable influence on the world economic crisis that so greatly harasses peoples with painful manifestations, of which the most evident is unemployment.

For these and for other reasons the happy results of this agreement may be felt by all the peoples of the world, and so is made a fortunate beginning of this year of preparation for the general disarmament conference.

Italy has not hesitated for the sake of this high ideal to take the initiative of considerable sacrifices. I can affirm with a clear conscience that Italy in this matter has done her duty toward civilized nations.

It pleases me to recall that the United States have always exercised, in the interest of the agreement that now has been reached, an effective and objective action that the people and the government of Italy have appreciated highly. I am glad also to remember that this new phase of world pacification was begun by the clear and firm declaration President Hoover made in assuming office.

I can say that the American program for the reduction of armaments is also the program of Italy, and I hope firmly that Italy and the United States may cooperate in the realization of this aim.

SMITH IS UNCERTAIN RUM WILL BE ISSUE

Democracy's 1928 Leader Addresses Legislators in North Carolina.

Raleigh, N. C., March 2 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, of New York, today expressed the opinion that the meeting of the national Democratic executive committee to be held in Washington March 5 "has no power to do anything about a political issue; that is the right of the convention."

Otherwise the titular head of the party refused to discuss the meeting called by Chairman John J. Raskob and which has resulted in a widespread opposition, especially from Southern quarters, to any proposal that the committee take a stand on the prohibition issue.

He reiterated his opinion, expressed previously, that "no living man can tell" whether prohibition will be an issue of the 1932 campaign.

Gov. Smith termed talk that Mr. Raskob, national Democratic chairman, would resign if the next national Democratic platform did not include a wet plank, "newspaper gossip."

Promotion of the public welfare was described by the former governor as "the main function of the Democratic party."

"When it ceases to be," he told a joint session of the North Carolina Legislature, held in a downtown theater, "we cease to exist."

His address dealt principally with advocacy of simplification in State government and the welfare of women and children in industry.

The presidential candidate in 1928 said "it was too early" to talk about issues and candidates for the 1932 election, but added that he thought "the country is seeking leadership and there is no doubt that he needs leadership." He did not mention the name of President Hoover.

Asked if he would again be a candidate for the presidential nomination, he replied:

"To answer that question would be

"I'M ALONE" CASE IS REOPENED AGAIN

U. S. Will Cite Contentions to Canada in Renewed Settlement Effort.

(Associated Press.)

After nearly two years of silence the I'm Alone case became active again last night between the Washington and Ottawa governments.

Submission by Canada to the State Department of its points of contention completed the first step in bringing the question before arbitration commissioners appointed by the two governments to settle it, after diplomatic correspondence showed a wide difference of opinion.

The case grew out of the sinking by a Coast Guard vessel of the rum-runner I'm Alone more than 200 miles off the Louisiana coast. The vessel was of Canadian registry, although claims that it was American-owned have been advanced. A French sailor lost his life when the rumrunner was sunk.

The Canadian contentions were submitted to the department for transmission to the American agents before the commissioners by Hume Wrong, Canadian Charge d'Affaires in Washington.

The next step in the arbitration, a statement by the State Department said last night, will be the submission by George Wharton Pepper, of Philadelphia, American agent, of the Mother Slays Son, 8, Then Tries to Kill Self

McCrory, Ark., March 2 (A.P.).—A few hours before she was to have been taken to the State Hospital for nervous diseases today, Mrs. R. B. Chappell, widowed mother of six children, slashed the throat of her 8-year-old son, Woodrow, while dressing him for school and then attempted to kill herself.

An older son rushed into the room and took the razor from her. The boy died instantly.

92 Members in Lame-Duck Session to Quit Tomorrow

Permanent Retirement Awaits Many as 71st Congress Ends; Others Will Advance to Senate From House; Three Women on Expiring List.

Ninety-two members of Congress, three of them women, will walk into temporary or permanent political retirement tomorrow. Some of them will bide their time for a chance to return to power; many are leaving Washington forever.

The list includes 14 senators, 80 representatives and 1 delegate from Alaska. But three of the House members were made senators in the November election which retired so many others. Some retired voluntarily.

Senators Charles S. Deenen (Republican), Illinois; Frederick Gillett (Republican), Massachusetts, and Furnifold N. Simmons (Democrat), North Carolina, and Representatives R. N. Elliott (Republican), Indiana; S. Wallace Dempsey (Republican), New York; Louis C. Cramton (Republican), Michigan; Frederick M. Zihlman (Republican), Maryland, and B. M. Carroll Reece (Republican), Tennessee, are powerful figures who are leaving the halls of Congress.

Unique legislators going out include Senators J. Thomas Heflin (Democrat), Alabama; Cole Blease (Democrat), South Carolina, and Representative U. S. Stone (Republican), Oklahoma. Mrs. Pearl P. Oldfield (Democrat), Arkansas, elected to succeed her late husband, refused to run last fall. The other two women are Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick (Republican), Illinois, beaten by J. Hamilton Lewis when she aspired to be the first-elected woman senator, and Mrs. Catherine Langley (Republican), Kentucky, overwhelmed in the Democratic sweep of her State.

Three of the richest senators, Law-

NEW 5-POWER NAVAL PARLEY IS NOW LIKELY

ACCEPTANCE BY U. S., JAPAN ANTICIPATED

Stimson Formally Notified but Maintains Silence on Outcome.

Paris, March 2 (A.P.).—With a tripartite naval agreement reached among France, Great Britain and Italy, and approved today by the French cabinet, the new development tonight appeared to be that another five-power parley now may be necessary.

Although it is admitted that the modifications to existing naval treaties caused by yesterday's three-power accord no not affect directly the vital interests of the United States and Japan the other powers which attended the London Naval Conference last spring—the Associated Press was informed tonight of the likelihood of the five-power meeting.

This was laid to the supposition it may be difficult to incorporate the modifications without a formal meeting of all the powers which signed the Washington treaty of 1922.

Nevertheless, all circles are confident the United States and Japan will accept the new accord.

Reports were denied tonight that France, Great Birtain and Italy are proposing to the United States and Japan a reduction in tonnage of individual battleships from 35,000 tons—the maximum set by the Washington tretay—to 23,000 or 26,000. The three European powers, it was explained, wish to do nothing that would radically alter existing treaties.

Henderson Is Silent.

London, March 2 (A.P.).—Arthur Henderson and A. V. Alexander, who bridged the apparently impassable Franco-Italian naval gap, came home today and talked to reporters about anything but the terms of the agreement.

Mr. Henderson is expected to discuss the pact in the House of Commons tomorrow but today he would say only that the negotiators of both France and Italy had performed signal service not only to the home countries but to the world.

It is generally felt here that formal acceptance of the new agreement by Japan, the United States and the other nations concerned is only a matter of time, permitting resumption of disarmament discussions at Geneva next year on the basis of a five-power pact instead of on the three-power London treaty.

The only angle Mr. Henderson would discuss was that the agreements negotiated in Paris and Rome deal only with matters left open by the London conference.

"The immediate effect," he said, "is

SENATORS ASK FOOD CONTROL INQUIRY BY U.S.

Tendency to Monopolize Cited by Committee Making Quiz.

CUT IN BREAD PRICE IS URGED BY GROUP

Larger Bakeries Blamed for Not Conforming to Drop in Wheat.

(Associated Press.)

Investigations by the Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department of "tendencies toward monopolistic control of the Nation's food supply" were recommended to the Senate yesterday by its food price investigating committee.

Reporting on its inquiry into the prices of bread, meat, sugar, milk and other foods, the committee headed by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, said it had found "an alarming tendency toward the monopolistic control of the food of the Nation by a small group of powerful corporations and combinations."

It said this tendency was "particularly true" in regard to bread and milk and recommended "a complete and exhaustive investigation of the distribution of milk and dairy products by the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice."

Amazing Rapidity Cited.

"Within the past few years," the committee said, "the absorption of independent bakers and milk distributors by gigantic Nation-wide corporations, holding companies, merger and chain enterprise, has been carried forward with amazing rapidity.

"The committee recommends the careful scrutiny of this development by the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice. If existing laws are not sufficient to control these mergers and combinations in the public interest the agencies above named should recommend to the Congress such remedial legislation as they deem necessary."

Asserting its investigation had proved retail prices of bread have not declined proportionately with the price of wheat, the committee said there should be an immediate reduction throughout the country of 1 cent a pound in the wholesale price of bread and at least that much in the retail price.

Big Bakeries Blamed.

Responsibility for the failure of the price of bread to decline, the committee said, rests with the large wholesale bakery companies which have failed to pass on to the consumer the recent reductions in the cost of its ingredients.

"The cost of selling and distributing bread is too high and should be reduced," the report said, adding that "some evidence" had been found of "a combination in restraint of trade endeavoring to fix and maintain the retail price."

It added this evidence was "too in-

Gandhi-Viceroy Peace Pact Expected Today

Strife and Bitterness Which Have Cost Thousands of Lives and Millions of Dollars in Past 20 Years Now Believed Near End.

New Delhi, India, March 2 (A.P.).—All signs indicated tonight that Mahatma Gandhi and Viceroy Lord Irwin would sign a truce tomorrow, thus bringing an era of peace to distracted India.

The strife and bitterness which have torn the country intermittently for 20 years and especially last year—costing thousands of lives, millions of dollars and untold misery, will, it is believed, cease at last.

Gandhi and his host of Nationalist rebels will be free to devote themselves to the task of constructing a new and united India.

This turn of events, following indications Saturday that there was little hope for the viceroy and Gandhi agreeing, tonight was regarded as the most momentous period in India's history since Great Britain took possession of the great peninsula 150 years ago.

Things looked black Saturday after the working committee of the all-India Nationalist Congress voted to reject the viceroy's offer for a compromise. The viceroy was said to be determined not to meet the Nationalist demand that Indians be permitted to manufacture their own salt or that Indians be permitted to boycott British goods.

The Nationalists threatened to quit the conference and that was said to have decided Lord Irwin on further meetings yesterday. A conference was held, and prospects grew brighter, gaining still further today.

Should the Mahatma and the viceroy sign a truce just now it would be near the first anniversary of the civil disobedience campaign. It was on March 12 last that Gandhi began his historic march to the sea, upholding the contention that Indians had the right to make their own salt instead of paying a government tax.

The program also included the boycotting of British goods and liquor shops, the evasion of land taxes and other forms of noncooperation.

Thousands were jailed, including Gandhi and members of the congress working committee. The leaders were released early this year for conferences with authorities following the London round-table conference, which proposed a qualified dominion status for India.

Perhaps no stranger scene has occurred in modern history than the spectacle of the half-naked Gandhi last night walking haltingly, by the aid of a stick, through the mouldering ruins and decaying monuments of Delhi's forgotten empires in the moonlight.

He had come from a historic seven-hour peace talk with the viceroy and refused to ride in a car, trudging shiveringly along the 5-mile road to his house with a handful of American newspapermen in his wake. His teeth chattered as he said: "I think we shall have peace."

Certainly no plenipotentiary of international peace ever before had moved in such weird and uncanny surroundings or was dressed in more grotesque attire.

HOOVER TO SIGN BILL GIVING U. S. WORKERS HALF-DAY SATURDAY

Actress-Flier Found Dazed From Injuries

Edna May Cooper Found After Week's Absence From Hollywood.

Monterey, Calif., March 2 (A.P.).—Miss Edna May Cooper, movie actress by profession and aviatrix by avocation, was located here today after she had been mysteriously missing for a week from Hollywood.

Miss Cooper was in the Monterey Hospital, under guard, recovering from head and body injuries. How she obtained the injuries mystified physicians and police.

It was learned Miss Cooper had been registered at a local hotel several days under the name of Caroline Hope, of Los Angeles. She showed signs of illness yesterday and Dr. Hugh Dormody was called by hotel employes. He found she had an abrasion, "possibly a week old," on the back of her head and bruises and contusions on her body, especially on the right thigh.

Miss Cooper was removed at Dr. Dormody's orders to the Monterey Hospital, where she was identified by Mrs. Ruth Morris, wife of Gouverneur Morris, the author, as Miss Cooper.

EDNA MAY COOPER.

Mrs. Morris said she knew Miss Cooper a few years ago on the Lasky lot at Hollywood.

How Miss Cooper got here was as much a mystery as was how she ac-

RELIEF, UNSECURED, VOTED BY SENATE

Applications for Drought Aid Loans Are Ready to Be Received.

(Associated Press.)

A resolution to permit drought-stricken farmers without security to obtain part of the $45,000,000 fund voted by Congress was adopted yesterday by the Senate.

A little later it was notified by Secretary Hyde the Agriculture Department was ready to give loans on the $20,000,000 supplemental fund.

Virtually without debate, the Senate approved and sent to the House a resolution by Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, to authorize $5,000,000 of the original $45,000,000 fund for loans to farmers who have no security to offer.

The information from Secretary Hyde was demanded by the Senate last week in a resolution by Mr. Caraway asking him to explain the delay in making the loans.

As the Senate broadened the scope of the drought relief program, Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, urged adoption of his program for a $100,000,000 fund for relief of the unemployed.

He has introduced a resolution proposing to place such a fund at the disposal of the President. Senate leaders indicated, however, there was little chance of its consideration in view of the short time before adjournment.

Mr. Caraway, urging the Senate to make the loans available to those without security, said many men of high character were unable to meet the requirements set up by Hyde.

The Arkansas senator exhibited a pair of tattered and patched overalls to demonstrate the plight of farmers in his State as a result of the drought.

"A farmer down there has sent me his overalls," Mr. Caraway said, referring to charge of exaggeration of distress, "and I think they do not

GEN. EDGAR JADWIN DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

Panama City, March 2 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, 65, former chief of engineers of the United States Army, died unexpectedly of a cerebral hemorrhage in Gorgas Hospital at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Gen. Jadwin came here February 25 in connection with a meeting to determine whether a Nicaraguan Canal shall be built to relieve interoceanic commerce or whether the Panama Canal shall be fitted out with a new set of locks.

The body will be sent to the United States on the transport St. Mihiel tomorrow. The body of Maj. Gen. George Leroy Irwin, who died recently, will be on the same vessel.

Gen. Jadwin sailed February 18 for Panama to preside over a commission composed of S. B. Williamson, former division engineer of the Panama Canal; Dean Anson Marston, of the Iowa State College of Agriculture, and Ray G. Finch, former State engineer of New York. He had presided at several meetings since his arrival.

(Associated Press.)

The death of Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin occurred yesterday at the place where he had spent four of the busiest years of his life.

Word of his death at Panama City recalled that he had been one of the active figures in construction of the Panama Canal from 1907 to 1911. He served as an assistant to the builder of the canal.

Gen. Jadwin retired as chief of Army engineers in August, 1929. He was in Panama as a member of a commission to determine whether the Panama Canal should be enlarged or another constructed through Nicaragua.

After his retirement as chief of Army engineers, following nearly two score years of public work, Gen. Jad-

Fear of Accused Men Bared In Slain "Butterfly's" Diary

Notes Made by Vivian Gordon, Strangled Vice Inquiry Witness, Often Assert Her Lawyer and His Alleged Henchmen Sought Her Death.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—The hitherto closely guarded secrets—sketchily penned hopes and fears of Vivian Gordon, strangled Broadway butterfly and vice inquiry witness—as revealed in her diary, were made public late today by District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin.

They revealed that she realized better than anyone else the flame with which she had been playing would eventually sear out her life. They showed also that she knew her death had been planned at least once before and she lived in daily fear of the end.

The girl named as the men she feared most her own attorney and another as "the man who was to knock me off last winter."

Sam Cohen, the latter, is described as a henchman of John A. Radeloff, both held in $50,000 bail each in connection with the slaying.

"J. A. R. here—again hinted about my getting killed," the diary notes. "He said, 'I better get my collars and shirts out of here; if you should be killed, they'll look for me.'"

And again, "S. C. has been in to see him in the past week. Sam Cohen is the one who was to knock me off last winter. I guess J. A. R. is seeking his services for that deed. J. A. R. would stoop to anything. J. A. Radeloff is the only enemy of mine because of certain things I told his wife in retaliation for all the rotten things he had done to me—he was just using me for a good thing—treating me for a good thing—because he knew he could borrow money from me because I have a $11,300 mortgage due to close October 30. Measure to Become Law Immediately, After Long Fight in Congress.

SPEAKER SUSPENDS RULES TO AID VOTE

Act Includes Employes in District; Postal Aids and Others Excepted.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

President Herbert Hoover will sign today the bill providing for a four-hour work day on Saturdays throughout the year for Government employes.

The measure becomes law immediately it is signed by the President, and that means the Saturday half-day will be legally compulsory, beginning Saturday.

Congress passed the measure yesterday with a rapidity which gave the lie to Congressional delay and inefficiency of legislative red tape.

House Rules Suspended.

Speaker Longworth recognized Representative Lehlbach (Republican), New Jersey, chairman of the House civil service committee, under a suspension of the rules to present the measure to the House. The required two-thirds vote was easily got and the measure was sent to the Senate.

Even while newspaper reporters were dictating to their papers the action of the House, the Senate received the bill and, on motion of Senator Jones (Republican), Washington, concurred in the House amendments.

For a moment it seemed as if there might be trouble when Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, rose, but after Senator Jones had explained the purpose of the bill Mr. Reed sat down and the job was done, after months of fight, and in the closing hours of Congress, at a time when most persons believed the legislation would not be enacted.

District Workers Included.

The bill affects all Government employes of both the Federal and District governments, except those in the field service of the Interior Department and employes in the Panama Canal Zone in the postal service.

The measure provides that four hours' work, exclusive of time for luncheon, shall constitute a day's work on Saturdays throughout the year, with pay for the day the same as on other days when full time is worked.

As introduced, the measure simply made the half-day Saturday applicable to laborers, skilled and semiskilled workmen and mechanics of the Federal Government. This was amended in the civil service committee and reported by Mr. Lehlbach providing for extension of the Saturday half-holiday to all Government employes, with the exception noted, whether on hourly, per diem, piecework or annual pay basis.

Overtime Work Covered.

Department heads are authorized to hold employes overtime on Saturdays where it is decided they can not be spared from their work because of pressure of Government business, but employes worked more than four hours on Saturday are entitled, under the bill, to a four-hour day some other day of the week. Neither shall the shortening of the Saturday work-day deprive or reduce leave or other privileges, the bill specified.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, played a major part in the passage of the measure. Throwing himself into the fight for the bill, Mr. LaGuardia last Saturday presented to Speaker Longworth a petition carrying the names of 75 members of the House asking that recognition be given Mr. Lehlbach, under suspension of the rules, to call the bill up for consideration.

Although Speaker Longworth refused to commit himself publicly on the question at the time, he agreed to the request and in the course of the session yesterday afternoon recognized Mr. Lehlbach.

The bill had originally been passed by the Senate, providing only for four-hour work day on Saturdays for laborers and mechanics and semi-skilled employes.

Representative Lehlbach's House civil service committee extended provisions of the Senate bill to include all Government employes last May, and the measure has been more or less dormant ever since with chances for its enactment seemingly becoming less and less as the end of the Congress approached.

Congress recently passed a measure providing a 44-hour work week for employes of the Postal Service. That act will mean that many additional postal employes must be hired.

Wood Leads Opposition.

Though there was not much opposition to the bill passed yesterday, when it was called up in the House several members expressed some dissatisfaction, protesting that it meant that many Government employes would work only a 39-hour work week under its provisions as against the 44-hour work week provided for postal employes.

Representative Wood (Republican), Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee, spoke against the bill. Mr. Wood was responsible for the elimination from the annual appropriation bills the amounts approved by the President for pay increases for Government employes who are receiving less than the amount specified for their jobs under the classification law.

Mr. Wood did not carry his opposition to the bill to the point of voting against the measure. He said that any Government employe should be willing to work 44 hours a week, whereas "this bill means they shall work only 39 hours a week." He said that in order to remove inequalities the House should pass a 39-hour work week law for postal employes.

that the three countries will enter the coming disarmament conference in close friendship and without making any pact whatsoever against any other country. It has been suggested that the result of this agreement migh be a combination of three countries against a fourth, but I want to emphasize the thought that no Mediterranean pact or any other pact has been mentioned throughout the discussions.

Vatican City, March 2 (A.P.).—The newspaper Osservatore Romano greeted the three-party naval agreement as an expression of a new civilization which is willing to put aside economic and political considerations in order to have better relations among nations.

"Every step toward better relations among nations," the newspaper said, "every step toward disarmament, every step toward peace, is now greeted with applause. We have another proof of this in the naval agreement, the conversations of Reme which led to the naval accord had first the spontaneous attention of the world, and then the profound expression of a common satisfaction."

Stimson Is Notified.

(Associated Press.)

Formal notification of the successful conclusion of the British-French-Italian naval negotiations was given Secretary Stimson yesterday by Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador.

After the conference with the ambassador, the Secretary said he still lacked sufficient details and would maintain the silence on it he has held since the negotiations began. State Department officials said the text of the agreement had not begun to arrive by cable.

In view of the information they have so far, American officials thought that the agreement would not have to be submitted to the Senate.

If it was found that it does not concern the United States directly or effect changes in the London naval treaty Senate action might not be required.

U. S. to Use Wyoming As Ship for Training

(Associated Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday ordered the Philadelphia Navy Yard to begin the work of converting the battleship Wyoming into a training ship, in accordance with the London Naval Treaty.

The conversion is to be accomplished by May 20 so the ship may be ready for the midshipmen's practice cruise.

indicate that our stories of want have been overdrawn."

Mr. Hyde told the Senate administration the supplemental fund had been delayed in order to set up the administrative plan but that "there exists now no reason why applications for loans may not now be received and payment made shortly thereafter."

He said the Department has found it necessary to set up State committees in order to provide for the widest possible distribution of the funds, but that instructions and printed forms were forwarded yesterday to these committees.

Mr. Wheeler said the millions of dollars appropriated for public construction would be "a mere drop in the bucket" if the depression continues.

"Nobody knows when conditions will improve," he said, "and yet here is Congress about to adjourn for nine months without doing one thing to take care of the great mass of unemployed."

Bill Would Punish Selling of U. S. Data

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Colton, of the House lands committee, yesterday introduced a bill providing penalties for Federal employes who sell or publish information from Government files. It was requested by Secretary Wilbur as the result of charges brought by Ralph S. Kelley, former land office employe, in a series of published articles accusing Interior Department officials of maladministration of oil shale leases.

The bill provided for a fine of $2,000 and prison sentence of not more than three years, or both, where employes sold or published information without permission of Congress or of the head of their bureau or department.

SHOALS BILL VETO IS EXPECTED TODAY

Lengthy Outline of Views by Hoover Anticipated by Senators.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover is expected to send a veto message on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill to the Senate soon after it convenes today.

The War Department, to which the bill was referred when it came to Mr. Hoover's desk, has made its report.

The President is understood to be contemplating a message of considerable length, which will not only deal with Muscle Shoals proper but which probably will outline his views on the power question.

Senate leaders anticipating the veto were carefully checking yesterday to determine whether they had enough votes to sustain it.

The conference report on the bill, proposing Government manufacture and distribution of hydroelectric power from the Muscle Shoals plant, was adopted in the Senate by a vote of 55 to 28, one short of the two-thirds which would be required to override a veto.

Advocates have not announced whether they will attempt to override it, but opponents of the measure were preparing to meet such an attempt.

Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, in a reply in the Senate to the President's statement on the bill Saturday, said the bill had become "a symbol of whether power companies would be able to profiteer on power produced at Government expense or whether the power would be turned over to the people at somewhere near cost."

Henry Ford Refuses To Submit Shoals Bid

Montgomery, Ala., March 2 (A.P.).—Henry Ford is "no longer interested in Muscle Shoals," Gov. B. M. Miller was advised today in a telegram from the automobile manufacturer's general secretary, E. G. Liebold.

Replying to Gov. Miller's request that Mr. Ford place his bid for the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant, Liebold said:

"Your telegram of February 28 received during Mr. Ford's absence from city. In reply you are advised that he is no longer interested in Muscle Shoals."

"I am very sorry to hear it," was Gov. Miller's only comment on reading the telegram.

The Alabama chief executive and the State Legislature both have urged President Hoover to approve the bill now before him, providing for lease of the huge nitrate plants on the Tennessee River at Muscle Shoals and for Government operation of the hydroelectric plant at Wilson Dam. The wartime project, costing approximately $150,000,000, has been idle for ten years.

Norris Offers to Quit And Take Shoals Post

(Associated Press.)

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, yesterday disclosed that he had offered to resign if the administration would permit enactment of his Muscle Shoals bill and his constitutional amendment and appoint him to manage the Muscle Shoals power plant. The Nebraskan said, however, it looked like all bets were off.

The constitutional amendment he sponsored, fixing a new meeting time for Congress, has died in conference. President Hoover has been described as prepared to veto the Muscle Shoals measure Senator Norris sponsored. Senator Norris said he made his proposal "to a party who is a friend of mine and a friend of President Hoover," but he said that person had refused to submit it to the President.

Court Upholds Census Head in Atlanta Suit

Unless the Director of Census acts arbitrarily or capriciously, his decisions can not be controlled by the courts, the District of Columbia Court of Appeals ruled yesterday in the Atlanta, Ga., census case.

The opinion of the appellate court, written by Chief Justice George E. Martin, upheld action of the District Supreme Court in denying mandamus proceedings by which the Georgia city sought to compel the Director of the Census to credit it with a greater population. Atlanta sought a population of 360,691 instead of 270,366, claiming that under an act of the Legislature it had absorbed several surrounding cities and communities.

Clashes With Senate Mark Administration of Hoover

Has Won Most of the Major Engagements With Legislators, But Never-Ending Battle Is Held to Indicate More in New Congress.

This is the last of a series of three stories by Kirke Simpson, Washington reporter of the Associated Press, outlining the problems and national emergencies that have faced President Hoover in his two years as President.

By KIRKE SIMPSON.
(Associated Press.)

None of the last five Presidents to occupy the White House has wholly escaped clashes with the Senate.

Yet of them all, with the possible exception of President Wilson in his second term, none has had such frequent and sharp conflicts with the inhabitants of the north wing of the Capitol as Herbert Hoover.

For the first two years of his administration President Hoover knew hardly an hour when he could look with reasonable certainty for Senate support of his legislative or administrative policies.

Nominally, his party was in substantial, unquestioned control of both Senate and House. Actually, a Senate coalition composed of Democrats and of irregular Republicans openly hostile to Hoover policies dominated that body.

The record of the first two Hoover years must be scanned in the light of this limitation upon fulfillment of the hopes and plans he may have had when he entered the White House.

Nor can Mr. Hoover reasonably expect to escape perhaps even greater opposition in the new Congress. Republican majorities in both houses all but vanished in the 1930 elections. The Senate Republican irregular bloc, the anti-Hoover group, sustained no losses. It was administration Republicans who were swept out of office.

The contest with the Senate began almost before Mr. Hoover had well warmed up to his task as President. It arose over farm debenture, and in conferences with party leaders in the Senate to pave the way for the extra congressional session he had pledged himself to call for farm relief purposes.

Avoided "Big Stick."

Into the campaign addresses of the new President had been read a determination on his part to avoid a course that would bring upon him charges of attempted legislative dictatorship. He was represented as believing that a strict line of demarcation ran between the functions of the President and Congress, and that across that line he did not propose to step.

Hardly more than twenty days after Mr. Hoover took office, an Associated Press story told of resentment among congressional leaders at his determination "to refrain from writing an agricultural measure and imposing it on Congress."

"Some farm leaders take the position that since Mr. Hoover led the fight before the country for a (farm) relief measure omitting the equalization fee principle * * * he should play the principal part in framing the legislation to carry it out," that story added.

Mr. Hoover stuck to his guns. As the farm bill took shape in the House in the extra session which opened in mid-April, 1929, there was no debenture substitute for the equalization fee plan. In the Senate, however, this export debenture feature was evolved over protest of Mr. Hoover.

Ultimately the House declined, under administration pressure, to accept the debenture feature, the vote being 250 to 113, sustaining administration views against the Senate.

The farm bill was soon in effect thereafter, and the Farm Board membership appointed and confirmed after further violent conflict with the Senate over some appointees. But Mr. Hoover had not heard the last of export debenture; nor of the charge of lack of leadership.

Tariff Brings New Tilts.

The tariff revision aspect of the special session followed, to drag on for months in the Senate. Immediately the President found himself beset with demands that he take the initiative in translating the "limited revision" for which he had assembled the legislators into concrete schedules.

Item by item the warfare raged between the farm-tariff-only group and those who demanded a share in increased duty rates for industry.

Senator Borah, of Idaho, supporter in chief in the farming regions of the West of the Hoover presidential campaign, the advisor who urged Mr. Hoover to make his preelection pledge to call the special farm-relief session, broke with the White House on that issue, never to realign himself with the President in the months that followed.

Export debenture thrust itself into the tariff picture, to be defeated again by an administration-controlled House. For a time a Democratic-insurgent Republican coalition dominated the Senate, only to be finally unhorsed by a counter coalition of Democrats and regular Republicans which sent the bill to the President in its final form.

Silent on Schedules.

Throughout the exhausting tariff battle the White House maintained silence on specific schedules or rates of duty.

Mr. Hoover demanded, however, retention of presidential authority to operate the flexible provisions of the bill, which the Senate sought to eliminate; and exerted his influence in the House to block the debenture rider added in the Senate.

He won both contests, but at the price of further alienation of the Western Republican bloc in the Senate.

The aftermath of these conflicts between Senate and White House was evident throughout the regular sessions of the seventy-first Congress.

The last session of the seventy-first Congress found drought and unemployment relief the major legislative items to be dealt with, the latter shading off into the question of veterans' bonus legislation.

And on both these issues the White House and the Senate at once locked horns again. In the judgment of most Washington political observers, only the decision of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, to accept a compromise saved Mr. Hoover from the politically hazardous necessity of vetoing a measure for direct Federal food relief to drought sufferers, or retreating from his stand.

In the face of his open challenge for reasons of Government fiscal policy, House and Senate swiftly and overwhelmingly liberalized the loan status of veterans' bonuses, adding new Treasury burdens as to the probable total of which dispute raged.

So ended Mr. Hoover's first two years of dealings with the Senate as President. It was a never-ending battle, seemingly merely postponed at the end of the Seventy-first Congress until the Seventy-second shall convene.

The President won most of his major engagements with the legislators, but at a political cost to himself and perhaps to his party not yet to be calculated.

Now come the last two years of his term, complicated by the approach of the conventions of 1932.

Navy Dirigible Circles Over City

Los Angeles Arrives Safely at Lakehurst on Return From Canal Zone.

Lakehurst, N. J., March 2 (A.P.).—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles arrived at its home flying field at 5:15 p. m. today, returning from the annual war games, held in the Canal Zone.

The big ship circled the airport preparatory to being put in its hangar during a lull in the wind.

The dirigible Los Angeles circled over the White House yesterday on its return trip from Panama to Lakehurst, N. J.

Bond Refinancing Passes Congress

Final Congressional Action Taken Increasing Issue Under Plan.

(Associated Press.)

Final congressional action yesterday was given the administration's proposal to increase the second Liberty loan bond issue from $20,000,000,000 to $28,000,000,000. The House accepted the Senate amendment striking out a provision which would exclude the bonds from surtaxes. It now goes to the President.

The measure is designed to permit the Treasury Department to refund certain issues of first and fourth Liberty loan issues maturing within the next two years. It does not increase the public debt.

Secretary Mellon recommended the proposal, pointing out the Treasury would be able to refinance the maturing securities at a lower rate of interest. He also recommended the bonds be excluded from surtaxes. About $18,500,000,000 of the second Liberty loan bond issue is outstanding.

New York Judge Dies At Hotel in Palm Beach

Palm Beach, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—Judge Amedeo A. Bertini, 48, of general sessions court in New York, died at a hotel here today of pneumonia. He came to Palm Beach a week ago in ill health and was stricken with pneumonia two days later.

Accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Lou Bertini, the body will be taken to New York tonight. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church. Other survivors are a son, Edwin B. Bertini, and a daughter, Marguerite.

Snow Over Europe Hinders Progress

Railroads Are Blocked and Highways Impassable; 16 Thought Dead.

London, March 2 (A.P.).—Railroads were blocked, highways were impassable, communication lines were down in many parts of Europe tonight as a bitter wind blew snow across the continent from Russia to France.

Sweden and Denmark were under heavy drifts; in England the snow was two or three inches deep in the south, seven or eight inches in the north with deep drifts in the mountains of Scotland, Wales and Ulster.

The gale made bad weather in the channel and the North Sea. Sixteen men were believed to have drowned off Frazerburgh, Scotland, when a Dutch trawler went down and heavy seas prevented rescuers from going out in small boats. One body was washed ashore.

Briton's American Wife To Aid New Party Fight

Former Cynthia Leiter, Chicago, Eschews Title and Will Take Stump in England to Support Husband, Sir Oswald Mosley, in Drive.

London, March 2 (A.P.).—Lady Cynthia Mosley (she prefers to be called Mrs. Oswald Mosley) is going to be her husband's "right-hand man" in the building of the new political party which Sir Oswald has launched.

This granddaughter of Levi Leiter, of Chicago, has, in the past few years made a mark in British politics comparable with that of her husband, a dashing figure who has sat in the House of Commons as Conservative, Independent, Laborite, and now has broke away from the Labor party.

When she deprecated her title, joined the Labor ranks and described herself as a "pink" but not a "red," she faced and endured the snubs of British society with rare good humor. Now both she and her husband face even more severe ostracism, for the combined forces of British politics, with the embittered Laborites in the lead, are aligned against her.

Jim Thomas, Labor M. P., recently gave an example of what they are in for. Replying to Sir Oswald's attack in the House on Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Thomas in a scorching speech delivered in his cockney accent, declared that "if Ramsay MacDonald has committed any crime it was in raising Sir Oswald from obscurity to notoriety." He twitted Mosley on everything from his economics to the mark of Harrow in his speech.

Several years ago Sir Oswald and Lady Cynthia visited the United States where she spoke at several socialist meetings, encouraging American workers to look to their rights against the encroachments of capitalism.

As a political force, the Mosley party is still a babe in arms with only a half-dozen members, and the lobby jokers are saying it will need all the mothering Lady Cynthia can give it.

Among the old hands there is more regret than anger with Sir Oswald, because it is feared that the young man, admittedly a man with a brilliant future, has turned his back on his best chances to take the long, hard road of building a new party.

They estimate that to finance the 400 candidates he has appealed for, Sir Oswald would need $1,000,000 or more and that despite his own wealth and Lady Cynthia's American millions, the financial burden would be more than they can carry.

To begin with the Mosleys must set themselves right with their own constituencies, and if they are outlawed by the Labor party their constituents may demand their resignation so official Labor candidates can oppose them in the new bye-elections.

Both will have to do their campaigning largely from public platforms, but Lady Cynthia will be able to hold her own, for she has been through the rough and tumble of campaigning before and has the ready wit so popular with British audiences.

On the whole, however, such is the current confusion of party politics that the defection of the Mosleys has not received so much attention in England as it has abroad.

Lady Mosley has been asked to attend a special meeting of the Labor party in her constituency to state her plans for the future.

The invitation was contained in a note from the political council in Stoke Fenton, asserting that the council was dissatisfied at the reported attitude of its representative in the House of Commons, and asking Lady Cynthia to give serious consideration to her proposed resignation from the labor party.

GOVERNMENT LOSES $1,846,340 IN TAXES

Supreme Court Hands Down Opinions in Six Cases; Reviews Others.

(Associated Press.)

One of the two opinions handed down by the Supreme Court yesterday cost the Government $1,846,340 in taxes. The other held that the citrus fruit industry was free to use borax as a wash to prevent blue mold. The court disposed of six cases without written opinions, granted reviews in seven cases and refused reviews in 31 others.

In the tax case it held that trust estates created by Nettie Fowler McCormick and Ellen L. Van Schaick, of Chicago, and by Edgar M. Morsman, of Nebraska, were not subject to Federal estate taxes on their deaths.

The reviews granted included four challenging the oil conservation policy of President Hoover, closing public lands to prospecting.

The validity of the California statute prohibiting the display of a red flag in promoting seditious propaganda, challenged by Yetta Stromberg, convicted near Los Angeles, will be passed upon. The court set the case for hearing on April 13.

Nine appeals from Philadelphia, challenging an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission prohibiting certain warehouse companies there from receiving allowances from railroads, was set for argument on April 13.

The court also announced it would decide whether Sheriff Thomas W. Cunningham must come to Washington, D. C., for trial under an indictment charging him with contempt of the Senate for refusing to answer questions about the campaign of William S. Vare for the Senate.

Bill on Maternity Aid Near Passage

Senate's Approval of Report by Conference All That Is Needed.

(Associated Press.)

The conference report on the Jones-Cooper bill to provide Federal aid for maternity, infancy and rural health work was adopted yesterday by the House. It went to the Senate for final congressional action.

Chairman Parker, of the House interstate commerce committee, said the dual program would provide reasonable settlement of a conflict between the Public Health Service and the Children's Bureau.

Under the measure, the Public Health Service would administer Federal aid in country health programs, with authorizations for annual appropriations increasing from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000 over a period of five years.

Florida Man Rescued From Open Boat at Sea

Miami, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—Officials of the Tropical Radio Telegraph Co. here reported today they were advised George O. Wilson, of West Palm Beach, had been picked up from an open boat by the United Fruit Co.'s ship Harboe Jessen, bound for Philadelphia.

The message from the Harboe Jessen, signed by Capt. A. Tallefsen, said Mr. Wilson was found early this morning about 30 miles east of Hollywood, Fla., and would be taken to Philadelphia.

New Divisions Open At Public Library

Opening of the enlarged fine arts and sociology divisions of the Public Library on the second floor of the central building at Eighth and K streets northwest, was announced yesterday by Dr. George F. Bowerman, librarian.

The divisions will occupy quarters vacated by removal of the acquisitions, catalog and bindery divisions to the municipal annex in the old Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. The departments will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. daily, but will be closed Sundays.

Action Due Soon On Phone Stock

Opinion Nears Completion on Legality of Issuing $2,000,000.

An opinion on whether or not the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. had a legal right to issue $2,000,000 worth of stock last year without permission of the Public Utilities Commission will be completed within the next few days, Special Assistant Corporation Counsel William A. Roberts said yesterday.

Attorneys for the telephone company are also understood to be preparing a brief explaining its contention that the stock did not come under the control of the commission, because it was authorized in New York before the utilities body was created.

The corporation counsel's office has been conducting a thorough research into previous cases dealing with similar instances, but has found few that may be applied to the present situation.

IMMIGRATION CUTS ARE VOTED IN HOUSE

Reduces Quotas of Europe 90 Per Cent; Senate Unlikely to Act.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to the Jenkins bill to restrict immigration for two years as an employment aid crumbled in the House yesterday and the measure passed by 295 to 83.

It was sent to the Senate, where there is considerable doubt whether it will receive favorable consideration this session.

The measure would reduce quota immigration from European countries 90 per cent. Entrants from Western Hemisphere countries would be limited to 10 per cent of those coming in the fiscal year 1929.

This is the first time immigration from North and South American countries has been legislated against. The State Department, however, has been refusing visas to many Latin Americans since last fall under the provision which prevents entry of those who might become public charges.

Measure Is Compromise.

The measure is in line with the recommendations of the State Department. It is a compromise between those who desired to bar all immigration and opponents to further restriction.

It was passed under suspension of the rules. Although the passage was comparatively quiet, when consideration got under way Saturday night Speaker Longworth was charged with unfairness for recognizing a motion to suspend the rules.

He answered the charges yesterday with an explanation that there was much business to be completed before adjournment, and that he had resorted to the course to expedite action on important legislation.

"Tempers Little Ragged."

Longworth said the tempers of the members were "a little ragged" and on "mature consideration and deliberation they will withdraw the charge that the chair was unfair on Saturday."

The Speaker was applauded.

In the short debate, Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee said 90 per cent of the people wanted to bar all immigration.

Representative Dickstein (Democrat), New York, and a number of Metropolitan members declared the measure would break up family ties by not permitting alien wives, children and parents of American citizens to join them in this country.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, author of a similar bill on the Senate side, tried to get up the Jenkins measure on the floor late today, but Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, objected.

Senator Reed served notice he would move later to suspend the rules to discharge the immigration committee from further consideration of the House bill.

Temporary Engineer Named by Utility Body

Ira L. Reynolds, valuation engineer of the Public Utilities Commission, was made temporary chief engineer yesterday to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Bert Peck, who yesterday assumed his post with the Washington Gas Light Co.

Approximately 50 applications for the job have been filed with the commission, according to Mr. Hartman, but all have not yet been considered.

HOUSE VOTES ORDER FOR INDUSTRY PROBE

Broad Investigation of Oil, Lumber, Manganese and Other Lines Favored.

(Associated Press.)

The House passed the Hawley resolution calling for a broad investigation of oil, lumber, manganese, asbestos and agricultural industries by its ways and means committee.

The proposal goes to the Senate where a two-hour filibuster by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, secured a place on the calendar of business for the Nye resolution directing an inquiry into the oil business by a select Senate committee.

An objection blocked House approval of the Garber resolution ordering the tariff commission to investigate relative costs of oil between the United States and countries from which 2,000,000 barrels or more have been imported during the past two years.

Both Proposals Approved.

The ways and means committee had approved unanimously both the Hawley and Garber proposals. Democratic Leader Garner supported Hawley's measure as "advisable if carried out in good faith." He said Secretary Mellon and John D. Rockefeller, jr., should be the first witnesses on oil.

"This ought to be entitled a resolution to save the face of the speaker and the Republican organization," Mr. Garner said. "Its purpose is the protection of the Republican party in this House."

Mr. Garner reviewed recent events in the oil fight, including Speaker Longworth's special call on ways and means committee Republicans to reopen the oil case after it had been shelved and the bolt from the Republican caucus of five Kansas regulars.

Investigation Is Opposed.

No further investigation is needed to show the justice of an oil tariff, he said, "for the independents made the case so strong that nine out of ten socalled free trade Democrats on the committee voted for a duty. Every Republican knows the case is made."

Mr. Garner said New England Republicans, protesting against Longworth's action in reopening the oil case, told him "we too have some votes" on House organization.

"Six years ago," he said of Longworth, "he was a monarch shaking his mane to the world; now, looking over the slim margin he has to support his crown, he is like a four-months-old puppy."

..... Protection Is Resented. .....

Representative Hoch (Republican), Kansas, who led four of his colleagues in refusing to attend the House party caucus, said, "We resent the sectional application of the policy of protection that we have supported."

"I don't want the impression to go out to the country that the Democratic is a high protection party," contended Representative O'Connor (Democrat), New York, after Garner's speech.

"Some of us still oppose a high protective tariff and will oppose this resolution as a forerunner of a high duty oil oil that will inure to the benefit of the large companies."

Representative Ayres (Democrat), Kansas, retorted that "some of us don't care how high you make it."

Mr. Hawley told the House committee, if authorized to make the investigation, would not go to Russia, against whose products a general embargo has been advocatde.

Meantime, the Senate agriculture committee approved a resolution by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, calling for a full inquiry inot agricultural conditions.

Postmaster General In Britain Gets Post

London, March 2 (A.P.).—H. P. Lees-Smith, present postmaster general, will succeed Sir Charles Trevelyan as minister of education, it was announced tonight.

Sir Charles resigned as a protest against the action of the House of Lords in killing Labor's education measure, raising the school age. Maj. Clement R. Atlee, the present chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, will succeed Mr. Lees-Smith as postmaster general.

HOOVER'S OIL CURB WILL BE REVIEWED

Supreme Court to Examine Order Closing Lands for Prospecting.

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover's oil conservation policy, closing public oil and gas lands to prospecting, will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

Four cases assailing the policy, supported by the States of New Mexico, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado, will be considered on their merits by the highest court. The oil policy was made effective under an order by Secretary Wilbur in March, 1929.

Ethel M. McLennan had a permit to prospect near Sacramento, Calif., and H. H. Simpson and W. P. Pyron also desired to prospect for oil in that State. Roy G. Barton wanted to search for oil in New Mexico.

All contended that the President had set aside an act of Congress, and Secretary Wilbur's order was attacked on the ground that the President had issued no formal proclamation.

The fiveStates complained that the effect of the closing of public lands to oil prospecting would materially lower their revenues by depriving them of a fruitful source of taxation.

The District of Columbia Supreme Court, where approximately 200 other similar cases are pending, decided in favor of the prospectors, but the Court of Appeals reversed that action and sustained the order.

Merchants Ask Speed On Car Tracks Work

A petition was filed with the Public Utilities Commission yesterday afternoon by twelve merchants along Eleventh street, between L and N streets northwest, asking that the Washington Railway & Electric Co. be compelled to speed up its renewing of tracks in these two blocks.

Declaring that they were each losing from $5 to $10 a day because of the blocking of traffic, the merchants said that the work, which had started last fall, had been postponed once and has since "languished woefully." H. E. Young appeared as attorney for the merchants.

B. F. SAUL'S ESTATE TOTALS $5,533,725

Former Realtor's Property Is Left in Trust for Widow and Children.

An estate valued at $5,533,725.36 was left by the late B. F. Saul, former president of the B. F. Saul Co., local real estate brokers, according to the petition for the probate of his will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. Mr. Saul died February 1.

Under the terms of the will, filed February 4, Mr. Saul left the bulk of his estate in trust with the provision that his widow was to enjoy one-third of the income for life, and that his five children—Rose Saul Montgomery, Teresa Saul, John Saul, Bernard Saul and Andrew Saul—were to have the remaining two-thirds. Additional provision was made that when each of the children reaches the age of 25 years he is to receive one-half of his share and the other half when the age of 35 is attained.

The American Security & Trust Co. and Attorney G. Percy McGlue were named as trustees and executors, and were cautioned to invest the estate in a conservative manner.

Mr. Saul, according to the petition for probate, owned real estate valued at $200,000, stocks and bonds estimated to be worth $5,300,000, household effects appraised at $20,000, and $13,725.36 in cash. His debts totaled $589,209.

Copyright Measure Sidetracked in Senate

(Associated Press.)

Prospects of final passage of the Vestal copyright bill before adjournment Wednesday faded last night when the Senate laid it aside to take up the House bill proposing a tax of 10 cents a pound on yellow oleomargarine.

Senator Townsend (Republican), Delaware, made the motion to sidetrack the copyright measure, which was the Senate's unfinished business, it carried 43 to 32.

British Government Plans To Control Farm Products

Bill Now Pending in Commons Provides for Minister of Agriculture to Expend $2,000,000,000 Fund to Purchase and Regulate Crops.

London, March 2 (A.P.).—Britain's Labor government is getting ready to go into the food business.

A bill makes Minister of Agriculture Christopher Addison, former lecturer on anatomy, potential dictator of a $2,000,000,000 farm industry.

Vigorously opposed by the Conservatives, who protest against its elements of compulsion, this agricultural marketing bill has passed its second reading in the House of Commons due to the fact that the Liberals used their balance of power in behalf of the government.

The bill provides for setting up boards to regulate various farm products by a sort of factory system under which the farmers' work is completed with the harvest. From that point the boards take over, having complete charge of grading, marking, storing, advertising, transporting and marketing.

In each district the initiative for the formation of a regulating board has to be taken by the farmers themselves, but it need not be taken by all the farmers or even by a majority in order to become binding on all. If a request for a board is made by any group which the minister of agriculture considers "representative" he can go ahead.

From men recommended by the petitioning farmers he nominates members for a board and from that number the members are elected by the farmers. Then the board starts work and all farmers in the regulated area come under its rule, whether they approve of the scheme or not. From then on they must sell all their produce to the board even though they be offered more money elsewhere.

By improved methods of marketing the Government believes these boards can eliminate much of the middleman's profits and so give the farmers better prices, at the same time guiding production methods so that eventually Britain will produce all of the $2,000,000,000 worth of food which it consumes annually. At present production is less than half of consumption.

Critics of the bill protest the compulsory element, saying that farmers ought to be allowed to decide for themselves whether they would sell through the Government or through private enterprise.

Products to come under regulation of these Government supervised boards are milk, potatoes, hops, wool, cereals, cheese, cattle, sheep, pigs, poultry, eggs and fruit.

REBELS IN AREQUIPA WITHHOLD SUPPORT

Forces Ready to Treat With New Peru Junta if They Get Offices.

Lima, Peru, March 2 (A.P.).—Luis M. Sanchez Cerro is out as provisional president of Peru and Ricardo Leonico Elias, lately chief justice of the supreme court, is in at the head of a new junta government, but the rebels who hold the southern city of Arequipa have not yet been brought into the fold.

The Arequipa forces are ready to treat with the executive, however, and President Elias has sent emissaries into the south to talk with them.

Col. Ruiz Pravo, who approved the expeditionary force which started south last week to crush the Arequipa rebels, is the army's representative in the new government and the "southern junta" can not forgive him for his intentions of a week ago.

The party in the south informed the new provisional president this afternoon that they would not recognize his government and Pravo's presence was assumed to be the reason for their stand. Six representatives of the new government started for Arequipa by airplane after the ultimatum was delivered to arrange a common ground for agreement.

Lima itself took things calmly. Stores were open, soldiers were out of the streets for the first time in a week and Sanchez Cerro was in his hotel, after having issued a statement to the effect that in the past two weeks of trouble his course had been guided by what he conceived to be the Nation's best interests.

One of the new government's first official acts was to lift the censorship established by Sanchez Cerro when the rebellion assumed serious proportions. And Senor Elias, in a statement outlining his policies, declared his government's first major task would be restoring unity among all the warring political groups.

There were unconfirmed reports that the party at Arequipa had demanded that one of their number be selected as president of the new junta and that three cabinet portfolios be given candidates selected by them.

M'LEAN CONTEMPT ACTION IS DROPPED

Preliminary Injunction Is Given Against Him by Court, However.

Although granting Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean a preliminary injunction to restrain her husband, Edward B. McLean, Washington Post publisher, from divorcing her in Mexico, Justice Jesse C. Adkins in District of Columbia Supreme Court yesterday denied all other prayers of Mrs. McLean, which included a request that he be cited for contempt and that his income be sequestrated.

At the same time, Justice Adkins granted Attorneys Julius I. Peyser and George E. Edelin, who appeared in this instance for Mr. McLean, the right to note an appeal.

Formal orders were signed at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by the justice. As a result Mrs. McLean's attorneys, on her behalf, posted bond of $500 to secure the publisher against any loss he may suffer as a result of the temporary restraining order.

No Surety Is Posted.

Justice Adkins fixed the appeal bond for Mr. McLean at $100 surety or $50 cash, but it was not posted, since there was no precipitous need.

The injunction order restrains Mr. McLean from going through with the divorce action he instituted in Mexico some time ago, and which is scheduled for action on March 15.

Mrs. McLean, immediately after being served with the divorce papers, countered with local action, declaring the Mexican divorce had been filed in an effort to evade payments of $7,500 a month guaranteed under a separation agreement.

At the hearing yesterday, however, the American Security & Trust Co., which, with the publisher, is trustee of the estate of the late John R. McLean, father of Mr. McLean, and a defendant in Mrs. McLean's suit, made report that there had been no income from the John R. McLean estate since the court ordered the local publisher to pay his wife $7,500 a month as maintenance. At that point counsel for Mrs. McLean withdrew their application for a contempt citation against Mr. McLean.

Ask for Dismissal.

Attorneys for Mr. McLean asked that the petition for injunction, sequestration of property and income and contempt be dismissed. The lawyers pointed out that Mr. McLean was not in default as to the maintenance decree, since he had no income, and alleged that prosecution of his divorce in Mexico could not affect the settlement payments, since the trustees of his father's estate were to make the payments.

The attorneys also pointed out to the court that Mr. McLean, in his Mexican divorce action, had specifically stated in his application that there would be no "controversy regarding pensions for support." This, his attorneys told Justice Adkins, meant that he expected the separate maintenance decree to be carried out.

Attorneys Nelson Hartson and Albert W. Fox appeared for Mrs. McLean and presented the order to the court, which was amended as to appeal by Mr. McLean's attorneys.

conclusive to warrant a definite finding."

The committee said the baking industry "is dominated by a few extremely large corporations" whose profits "have been excessive and have been capitalized and recapitalized until, in at least two instances, the result is a grossly inflated volume of securities."

Profits Pointed Out.

It cited the General Baking Co. as one instance of this, declaring common stock of this company on which the bid price was $2 a share in 1916 has earned dividends during the past three years ranging from $195.39 to $146.97.

"When such profits occur in an industry vitally necessary to the well being of every one they must be carefully scrutinized, particularly when all the evidence points to the fact that the profits are made possible by an overcharge in an all-important article of food," the committee said.

"This is especially true when there is some indication, as there is in this case, of a concerted action to regulate prices and to interfere with free competition."

Head of Bakers Replies.

Chicago, March 2 (A.P.).—Henry Stude, president of the American Bakers Association, issued a formal statement tonight in comment on the recommendation of the Senate food price investigating committee that there be an immediate reduction in the wholesale and retail price of bread. It said:

"The average price of bread of the highest quality and highest food value produced under the highest standards, is at its lowest price since the war.

"The American food standards are high. The American wage scale is high. The 20,000 bakers competing for the business of 20,000,000 housewives are unwilling to reduce either the standard of ingredients they put into their bread or the standard of wages they pay their employes.

"All bread is not alike. Those who want low-priced bread can get it, and are getting it today. But the baking industry, highly competitive, does not believe that the American housewife wants the quality of her bread reduced and we are sure that the American workman does not want his wages cut. And those are the only two ways of further reducing the price of bread without impairment of its quality."

GIRL MAY CLEAR UP VICE DEATH PUZZLE

Masseuse, Acquaintance of Noose Murder Victim, Appears in Quiz.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—A Cuban masseuse, around whom police threw a cloak of mystery, was picked up today in the belief she may restore order to the chaos of fact and fancy surrounding the murder of Vivian Gordon.

The girl, who appeared voluntarily at Mount Vernon police headquarters, used to give daily massages to the slain demimondaine. On the night of the murder she was seen entering an automobile in Manhattan in which two men were already seated. After Miss Gordon was garroted with a rope and thrown from a motor car into a Bronx thicket, the girl appeared nervous, friends told police.

Three separate agencies today strove to solve the murder. Referee Samuel Seabury, investigator of corruption in courts and police stations, summoned the slain woman's girl friend—diminutive Cassie Clayton—from Erie, Pa.

It was to Seabury's assistants Miss Gordon wrote offering to tell how she was "framed" on a vice charge eight years ago.

Miss Clayton received the last letter Miss Gordon wrote before her death. She came here willingly when told she might have information which would help avenge her friend.

Eighty-five detectives questioned 150 persons today, but Commissioner Mulrooney said: "We're up against a stone wall of silence."

District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, of the Bronx, started a grand jury investigation.

John Bischoff, Miss Gordon's former husband, went before the grand jury to deny the woman's charge that he and Patrolman Andrew J. McLaughlin, just home from a Bermuda cruise, railroaded her to the reformatory on a vice charge in 1923.

Al Marks, who was arrested for maintaining a disorderly house at the time of Miss Gordon's arrest, presented himself for questioning. He offered an alibi for the time of the killing.

Soldier Jailed for Year For Shooting His Wife

Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday sentenced Porter Umbler, Negro soldier, stationed at Fort Humphreys, Va., to serve one year in jail on an assault charge.

The Negro is alleged to have shot his wife in the wrist Sunday following a quarrel which climaxed marital difficulties. The soldier pleaded guilty, but said he had come to Washington to investigate reports that his wife was planning to remarry. The couple had been separated but not divorced, testimony revealed.

CAPITAL TERMINAL URGED FOR RAILWAY

Commerce Chamber Body Asks E Street Entry for Mount Vernon Line.

Continued operation of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway and the establishment of a terminal on E street, or some other point north of Pennsylvania avenue, was urged yesterday by the committee on transportation of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Directors of the Washington Board of Trade referred the railway issue to its committee on public utilities for study and report, after William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel, explained developments leading up to the decision of Federal and District authorities to abandon the railway in the triangle and reimburse the owner.

The Chamber of Commerce committee voted to oppose abandonment of the utility, after hearing a report from a subcommittee, headed by Arthur C. Smith, that had studied the matter. The committee voted to ask the Public Utility Commission to reconsider its action forbidding the street railway to cross Pennsylvania avenue. The route recommended by the committee for the railway is across the Avenue and down E street.

The committee recommended that the Sixteenth street entrance to the city be named Blair place, in honor of the late Montgomery Blair, Postmaster General in the Lincoln Cabinet.

The committee will ask the director of traffic to institute an investigation of traffic conditions on Nineteenth street between E and D streets. A subcommittee report submitted by J. E. Hamill on the bridge building program for the District was approved.

92 IN LAME-DUCK SESSION TO RETIRE

rence Phipps (Republican), Colorado; William E. Brock (Democrat), Tennessee, and Arthur Gould (Republican), Maine, are going.

Senator Guy D. Goff (Republican), West Virginia, well known as a constitutional lawyer, and William H. McMaster (Republican), South Dakota, are figures whose absence will be felt. Mr. McMaster and Senator W. B. Pine (Republican), Oklahoma, are losses to the Western independent bloc. Democrats beat both of these.

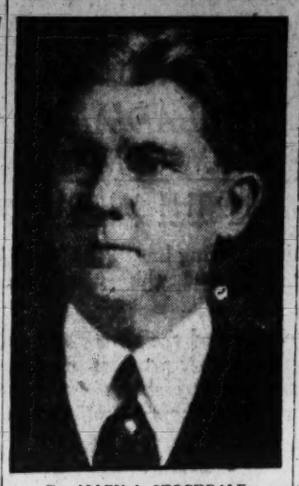
Quieter senators who are dropping out are Daniel F. Steck (Democrat), Iowa, youthful and white haired, and Ben Williamson (Democrat), Kentucky, who was elected only for the session just completed. Another is that legislative veteran and flood-control expert, Senator Joseph E. Ransdell (Democrat), Louisiana.

The departing ones include three men under indictments charging Federal crimes—Representatives H. E. Rowbottom (Republican), Indiana, charged with accepting money for postoffice appointments; Frederick N. Zihlman (Republican), Maryland, charged with real estate frauds, and M. A. Michaelson (Republican), Illinois, charged with liquor law violation. Another, Representative Stanley Kunz (Democrat), Illinois, has been in difficulties involving the criminal law in Illinois during his expiring term.

Others are Representative John Box (Democrat), Texas, who agitated widely for restriction of Mexican immigration; Representative Charles H. Sloan (Republican), Nebraska, who recently made a speech disapproving the name "lame duck" and claiming the defeated ones were "stricken lions," and Representative Charles A. Jones (Republican), North Carolina, whose nomination as United States attorney failed to be acted upon in the final session of the Senate judiciary committee today.

Promoted from the House to the Senate in the next Congress are vigorous, white-haired L. J. Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, a farm bloc leader; Wallace White (Republican), Maine, an expert on merchant marine and radio problems, and Cordell Hull (Democrat), Tennessee, former Democratic party chairman and author of the income tax and inheritance tax laws.

NEW PASTOR



Dr. ALLEN A. STOCKDALE.

DR. A. A. STOCKDALE ACCEPTS CALL HERE

Former Chicagoan to Begin First Congregational Duties April 1.

Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, former pastor of Rogers Park Church, Chicago, yesterday accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Congregational Church here, according to an announcement. He has been supplying the pulpit at that church during January and February of this year.

Dr. Stockdale is succeeding Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, who has resigned as the pastor to accept the pastorate of the Collegeside Church and the chair of homiletics in Vanderbilt University School of Religion, Nashville, Tenn.

A graduate of Boston University School of Theology, with the honorary degree of doctor of divinity conferred on him in Berea College, Kentucky, Dr. Stockdale has been a pastor in Boston for four years, where he was pastor of Berkley Temple, which later united with Union Church. From Boston he went to Toledo as pastor of the First Congregational Church there and, in addition, he has had a sabbatical year of foreign study in Oxford University, England.

He is a 32d-degree Mason and is widely known throughout the country on the lecture platform as a college speaker, having delivered the Simpson lectures at DePauw in 1927, and as an editorial writer and contributor to leading magazines in the country. He is also a writer of verse.

In 1928 Dr. Stockdale became pastor of the Rogers Park Church in Chicago, and it was the only short pastorate that he has served, being there only two years. However, this ministry was a highly specialized one, mainly in refinancing the church building. He will begin his pastorate here April 1.

Maryland Postmasters Nominated.

President Hoover yesterday sent to the Senate the nomination of Thomas E. Brian to be postmaster at Ellicott City, Md.; George W. Nichols, to be postmaster at Hurlock, Md., and Philip E. Huntt, to be postmaster at Waldorf, Md.

GEN. EDGAR JADWIN DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

win was offered the post of chairman of the power commission by President Hoover.

He declined the position, however, and George Otis Smith was appointed instead.

Gen. Jadwin probably was best known for his plan of controlling the Mississippi floods.

Word of his death was received with sorrow last night by his intimate friends in the War Department and elsewhere.

Official notification of the general's death was received at the department by Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bridges, the adjutant general.

Regrets Are Expressed.

Gen. Bridges communicated immediately with Secretary Hurley, general staff officers and other high ranking department officials.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, who succeeded Gen. Jadwin as chief of Army engineers, expressed "the most heartfelt and deepest regret."

"Gen. Jadwin was a fine soldier and an engineer of vision and inestimable value to the Nation," he said. "His death comes in the midst of his work as chairman of the Inter-Oceanic Canal Commission.

"He was in the Canal Zone to study the question of further improvement to the Panama Canal and the alternative feasibility of the construction of a canal through Nicaragua.

"It is unfortunate that his death came before he was able to embody his recommendation and the results of years of experience as an engineer in the commission's report."

Born in Pennsylvania.

Gen. Jadwin was born at Honesdale, Pa., August 7, 1865. He put in two years at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., then went to West Point where he graduated at the head of his class in 1890.

He was a first lieutenant when the Spanish-American War broke out and he emerged from the conflict as lieutenant-colonel of volunteers. By 1913 he had attained that rank in the regular Army, was a temporary brigadier general in the World War and achieved his major-generalship when made chief of the Engineer Corps. He became a lieutenant-general upon his retirement in 1929.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States, made a Companion of the Bath by Great Britain and a commander of the Legion of Honor by France.

Gen. Jadwin was married October 6, 1896, to Miss Jean Laubach, whom he met while he was a student at Lafayette College.

Inquest Is Called Into Man's Death

Charles Nauck Is Found Unconscious on Street; Dies in Hospital.

An inquest will be held today into the death of Charles Nauck, 45 years old, who died in Emergency Hospital yesterday several hours after he was found unconscious in front of a house on D street, near Sixth street northwest, where he roomed.

An autopsy performed yesterday at the Morgue showed that death had been caused by an internal hemorrhage and a fractured pelvis. Police found that a window on the third floor had been broken and was stained with blood.

After his admission to the hospital Nauck was unable to give any statement to detectives. It was learned that Nauck had $500 on Saturday, which he obtained from a real estate transaction. Of this amount $400 had been deposited in a bank.

Police were unable to learn whether he had fallen from the window or had been injured in the room and made his way to the street. He is a brother-in-law of Capt. Charles Wolz, of the Fire Department.

KEMPTON CADILLAC CORPORATION

Cadillac-La Salle Distributors

FOR WASHINGTON AND NEIGHBORING TERRITORY

R. M. Kempton, President . . . C. B. Amorous, Vice Pres. & Gen. Mgr.

SALESROOM: 1140 CONNECTICUT AVENUE

SERVICE: 1222 TWENTY-SECOND ST., N. W.

To its many owners and friends in Washington, the Cadillac Motor Car Company announces, with pleasure, appointment of the Kempton Cadillac Corporation as distributors of Cadillac and La Salle cars.

Since Cadillac holds in high regard the good-will of its customers, great care has been exercised in selecting this Washington representative.

This new association places Cadillac-La Salle merchandising and service with an organization well equipped to assume the responsibilities. At the head, as president, is R. M. Kempton. Associated with him, as vice-president and general manager, is C. B. Amorous, for many years intimately associated with retail distribution in the fine motor car field.

Mr. Kempton and Mr. Amorous head an organization composed of men fully able to carry out Cadillac's basic plan of building good-will and assuring satisfaction to its owners. In this, they will be aided by the Cadillac factory program of providing outstanding value in its products, and offering a service policy of unique benefits.

A cordial invitation is extended to you to make the acquaintance of this organization—and to inspect and drive the new La Salle V-8, the Cadillac V-8 and those ultra-luxurious examples of multi-cylinder motoring, the Cadillac V-12 and V-16.

TEARS HALT TRIAL IN 'BRIDGE' MURDER

Mrs. Mrytle Bennett Sobs When Mother Tells of Husband's Shooting.

Kansas City, Mo., March 2 (A.P.).—Tears interrupted the trial of Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett for the alleged "Bridge-game" murder of her husband today, after Mrs. Alice Adkins, 67, mother of Mrs. Bennett, was called to the stand.

Visibly affected by the ordeal to which her mother was to be subjected, Mrs. Bennett tried to restrain herself. Her sobs became audible when James A. Reed, her chief counsel, asked the witness her name. She was crying without restraint when the mother answered.

Tears welled to the eyes of the former United States senator when, after vainly attempting to start another question several times, he appealed to the court for a recess.

Watches Her Daughter.

Mrs. Adkins, who sat quietly, but watching her daughter with concern while friends quieted her tears, presently was able to continue testimony, in which she helped develop the theory of the defense that the shooting of Mr. Bennett was accidental.

Mrs. Adkins was still on the stand when court adjourned for the day. Defense attorneys said Mrs. Bennett would follow her mother to the witness chair tomorrow.

The mother said she awoke in her bedroom the night of the trouble when the light was turned on, and saw her daughter rummaging in the drawer in which Mr. Bennett's pistol was left for Mrs. Adkins' protection when he was not traveling.

Mother Asks Question.

"What are you doing?" she asked.

"Jack wants his gun. He is going to St. Joseph," her daughter replied, according to her testimony.

"Did she seem to be worried about something?" the attorney asked. "Yes, she did appear troubled," replied Mrs. Adkins.

Pistol shots rang out a moment later, the witness said, and she ran into the living room where her son-in-law was staggering near a doorway and her daughter was "paralyzed by fear." Both women rushed to the wounded man as he slumped to a chair, she said.

"Oh, Jack, I couldn't help it," Mrs. Adkins quoted her daughter as saying.

Victim Tries to Talk.

"He said 'mother——' and seemed to be trying to explain something to me," Mrs. Adkins testified, "but I could not understand him."

"Myrtle was crying 'Jack, Jack, talk to me,' and later said 'if Jack is gone, I want to go too.'

"She wanted the pistol, but I said 'don't let her get that gun.'"

Mrs. Mayme Hofman, who was a participant, today told again the story of the contract bridge hand which led to words between the Bennetts, the slapping of Mrs. Bennett, and in the prosecutor's reconstruction, the deliberate slaying of Mr. Bennett by his wife.

Gun Expert Testifies.

Edward Hickman, a gun expert, gave testimony in support of defense counsel, asserting that bullet holes in Bennett's clothing indicated the shots were fired at extremely close range.

Numerous witnesses pictured Bennett as a man who gave way to violent fits of temper, whether at play, at work, or at home.

Two of them, Guy R. Baker, a paperhanger, and Nelson W. Duff, a builder, told of seeing Bennett become so enraged he struck his wife severe blows, once because he could not find a shirt, and once because a necktie was "spotted."

SEVERAL 'CONFESS' AT RUSSIANS' TRIAL

German Social Democrats Inspired New Party, Accused Testify.

Moscow, March 2 (A.P.).—Further "confessions" marked the second day of the trial of fourteen leaders of the outlawed Social Democratic or Menshevix party before the special sessions of the supreme court, which may sentence the men to face a firing squad.

Little public interest is being shown in the proceedings and there were many vacant seats. Several of the defendants rose to oratorical heights as they told of their activities in plotting to overthrow the present government by sabotage and foreign intervention. All have pleaded guilty.

Led by the brisk cross-examination of the Soviet prosecutor, N. B. Krylenko, the accused detailed the formation of the Menshevik organization. All testified that the formation of the party was inspired by the Social Democrats in Germany.

Today's most fervent speech was made by the defendant, Michael Yakupovich, a former official of the supplies section of the trade commissatriat.

"We were undoubtedly trying to change the policy of the government by illegal means and sabotage," he shouted. "My only excuse was that I was influenced by others."

Yakurovich declared those in the plot connected with the supply department of the trade commissariat "shipped more food supplies to the country and less to the city, thus creating a shortage in urban centers which caused great discontent with the government."

All the witnesses testified the Mensheviks honestly thought at one time that the Communist policy was wrong for the country, but most of them had changed their minds when "it was seen that the industrialization policy would be a success."

The general opinion seems to be that few, if any, of the guilty will be executed, although they may be sentenced to death and then reprieved by the central executive committee.

Campbell's Death Accidental.

Alexandria, Egypt, March 2 (A.P.).—Accidental death was returned today by a coroner's jury investigating the death last Wednesday of Colin Campbell, British shipping magnate, who was fatally wounded by the discharge of a revolver belonging to B. Bethlehem Stock List Being Sought Writ of Mandamus Is Asked by One of Men Quizzing Bonus Plan.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—A writ of mandamus to compel the Bethlehem Steel Corporation to divulge its list of stockholders, so they may be circularized for opposition to the Bethlehem executive bonus plan, has been asked in Supreme Court by Samuel D. Hopkins, as stockholder.

Mr. Hopkins is a member of the Midvale committee of Bethlehem stockholders, formed to investigate the bonus plan after payments to President Eugene Grace and other executives had been revealed in the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. merger suit. Mr. Grace testified in that trial he received a bonus of more than $1,600,000 in 1929 in addition to salary.

Roger Q. Williams And Wife Divorce

Aviator Says Mate Hit Him Frequently and Held Disgust for Men.

Los Angeles, March 2 (A.P.).—The divorce of Roger Q. Williams, transatlantic flier, and Mrs. Carrie Williams was disclosed in the superior court today. It was obtained last week by the aviator.

Williams alleged his wife hit him frequently and told him she regarded men as "the most disgusting things." He is living in Los Angeles and developing plans for an airplane flight around the world. She is living in Long Island, N. Y.

When he came to California a year ago, Williams said, she refused to leave New York. He charged she made exorbitant demands for money and refused to have a family. Williams, with Lewis Yancy, gained aviation fame in a three-stop flight from New York to Rome.

Most of Colleges In Spain Reopen

Madrid, Saragossa Schools, However, to Resume Later in Week.

Madrid, March 2 (A.P.).—Most of the important universities in Spain, with the expection of those at Madrid and Saragossa, reopened today without trouble after a month's closure following student disorders.

Fear that some trouble might ensue prevented resumption of classes at Madrid University today, but it was later announced that it would reopen on Thursday and the University of Saragossa tomorrow.

Authorities expressed themselves as hopeful that the students, now that a new government has been formed and conditions have become more stabilized, would go quietly about their work and would not resume political demonstrations.

like trying to cross a bridge 17 miles before you get to it."

Former Gov. Smith attacked night work for women and children.

Terming the practice injurious to the health and welfare of the people of the United States, he cited the experiences of New York State in prohibiting night work, saying "no industry moved out of New York and some moved in" following passage of a law prohibiting such work.

The former governor said he believes in the principal of reorganization of State government and added that a State should have only three elective officers—governor, lieutenant governor and auditor.

"If the governor is to have the responsibility as the head of the State, he should have the corresponding power to discharge the responsibility."

"Throughout the United States," he said, "there seems to be a fear, a reactionary attitude toward anything new in government," and cited the action of the lower House of Congress in five times defeating the Senate action to abolish "the properly so-called lame duck session of Congress."

by four senators and a senator-elect—Norris (Republican), of Nebraska; La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin; Cutting (Republican), of New Mexico; Wheeler (Democrat, of Montana, and Senator-elect Costigan (Democrat, of Colorado.

"This conference is not called to form the basis of a new party," Senator Norris declared.

Invitations have been sent out to members of Congress, governors and other prominent in politics or in economics.

Five Topics Are Listed.

Five topics have been listed for discussion: Unemployment and industrial stabilization; public utilities; agriculture tariff and return to representative government.

It is understood that among the governors who have been invited are Roosevelt of New York, Pinchot of Pennsylvania, La Follette of Wisconsin, Olson of Minnesota, and Meier of Oregon.

Representative La Guardia (Republican), of New York, said he had invited sixteen members of the House to attend the conference.

Six of them are Democrats—Allgood and Patterson, of Alabama; Crosser and Mooney, of Ohio; Ludlow, of Indiana, and Rainey, of Illinois. Nine are Republicans—Christgau and Selvig, of Minnesota; Englebright and Welch, of California; Campbell, of Iowa; Freer and Schneider, of Wisconsin; Lambertson, of Kansas, and Sinclair, of North Dakota. The sixteenth man is Kvale, of Minnesota, a Farmer-Laborite.

La Guardia said that the conference had been called to discuss, not politics, but economics.

Bryan Urges Democrats To Discuss Paying Debt

Lincoln, Nebr., March 2 (A.P.).—Gov. Charles W. Bryan, of Nebraska, today said the Democratic national committee will do well to consider eradicating the last campaign debt and leave party plans and issues alone when it meets in Washington March 5.

The governor said he had received numerous inquiries from the East of his views on the impending conference.

ALIENS BARRED OUT.

Representative Jenkins' joint resolution to restrict immigration to the United States for two years was passed by the House Monday by a vote of 295 to 83. The overwhelming vote is a signal victory for American labor. This measure is the most important piece of legislation awaiting consideration by the Senate before the session closes.

The Jenkins resolution would cut existing immigration quotas by 90 per cent for the next two years, providing that no country's quota would be reduced to less than 100. Allowance is made for the immigration of technicians and skilled craftsmen outside of the quotas in case no person of the necessary qualifications can be found unemployed in this country. The resolution does not change the American immigration policy, but merely tightens up the restrictions during the current unemployment emergency.

American labor is just as much entitled to protection against the competition of foreigners as are industry and agriculture. Under present conditions immigrants who come here either displace American workingmen or else become public charges. It is unfair both to American labor and to the immigrants themselves to allow them to come here under those circumstances.

Nearly every nation has taken steps to protect its labor during the business depression. Even such countries as Canada and Australia, which in normal times welcome immigrants, have placed restrictions on the influx of aliens to protect their own workmen. The need for protection of American workmen from the competition of cheap foreign labor is especially great because the standards of living here are higher than in any other country. Unless alien labor is barred it will become a powerful factor in reducing wages and lowering the standards of American life.

The favorable action of the House on the Jenkins resolution gives hope that the House will also pass the King bill for the deportation of immigrants who come into the country disguised as seamen. The immigration committee reported the bill out favorably. It has already been passed by the Senate. Little objection to it can be expected in the House, since it is designed only to prevent evasion of the immigration law. These are probably the most important measures that have come before Congress on the subject of unemployment. Final enactment of both is urgent.

COSTLY DISTRIBUTION OF FOODSTUFFS.

The Senate subcommittee's investigation into food prices was obviously superficial and incomplete. The committee did not have time to delve to the bottom of the subject and expose all the influences that are contributing to the high cost of living. But sufficient evidence was gathered to indicate "an alarming tendency toward monopoly control of the food of the Nation by a small group of powerful corporations and combinations."

The survey has already had a beneficial influence, as may be noted in recent price reductions in such staple products as bread. Special attention has been called to the high prices of bread, milk and meat. The very fact that the public has been informed as to these excessive prices and that the Government is scrutinizing combinations which may put a restraint on trade tends to bring prices into closer relation to production costs.

Yet there is no panacea that can be relied upon to diminish the gap between cost and price. In some instances the wide difference between what the farmer receives and what the public pays is attributed to monopolies. There is a definite remedy in these cases. The committee suggests that the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission apply the antitrust laws to all illegal combinations. These two agencies should need no further bidding. It is their duty to bring action against unlawful combinations in restraint of trade. Rigid application of the Sherman and Clayton acts would make it impossible for huge corporations to maintain exorbitant prices for food.

But the committee found that other factors enter into these high prices. In the case of meat the committee decided that one reason for its high cost is the increase in meat markets. Restraint of trade not enter into the picture. Prices are high because there are "too many dealers competing with one another for the retail meat business." The antitrust laws offer no solution in this case.

The committee's study emphasizes the enormous costs of distribution. Some progress is being made through development of cooperative associations among agricultural producers. Yet only a small percentage of what the consumer pays for foods reaches the hands of the producer. This is an enormous problem for which no solution may be found in lawmaking. It remains for practical business men to build up the efficiency and reduce the waste of the distribution system.

SATURDAY HALF HOLIDAY.

By unanimous consent Congress has provided Saturday half holidays for employes of the Federal and District Governments throughout the year. The measure goes to the President with an overwhelming indorsement, and he may be expected to give it his approval.

Heretofore, weekly half holidays have been granted to Federal employes during summer months only. If the bill which has just been passed becomes law, holiday regulations for Federal employes will be uniform throughout the country, with minor exceptions. Approximately 400,000 employes will be benefited.

This bill does not provide for any additional employes. Congress assumes that the added stimulus that will come from Saturday afternoons of freedom each week will enable Federal employes to do their work in five days and a half instead of six. Experience indicates that the present degree of efficiency can be maintained in all the departments without any extra cost to the Government.

THROUGH THE ARABIAN DESERT.

Bertram Thomas' trip across the southern desert of Arabia is hailed by geographers as one of the greatest exploits of modern times. Thomas entered the "Empty Quarter" from Dhofar, on the Arabian Sea, and emerged at Dohah, on the Persian Gulf, after traversing approximately 650 miles of utterly unknown desert. For 100 years explorers have been trying to penetrate this vast waste without success. Explorers had skirted around the fringe of the desert and penetrated it for short distances at various places, but the absence of water turned them back. Exploration has been hindered also by hostile tribes living on the border, who attacked all invaders.

Since no information about this vast waste has been available many imaginations have invented legends about it. One of these legends concerning a lake in the "dead heart of the desert" proves to be true. Mr. Thomas found a body of salt water seven miles long, but the water was unfit for human consumption. He also brought back with him tales of a lost city now buried beneath the sands, which tend to confirm another legend. Ancient caravan tracks cut deep into portions of the steppe also suggest that the region was inhabited not many centuries ago. Scattered nomads still roam about the edges of the desert, but the principal part of Rubael-Khali seems to be nothing more than empty sky and shifting sands. Nevertheless, Mr. Thomas has opened up to a curious world a region that will be full of interest until its every secret is known.

The average man is probably not so much amazed that Thomas was able to cross the desert as to learn that there is such a vast stretch of utterly unknown land. The Antarctic Continent covers regions that have never been seen by human eyes, and there are large areas in Central Asia, South America and Australia that have not been surveyed. But the general character of these areas is known, and even Antarctica is yielding up its secrets in these days of exploration by air. It seems strange that even a burning desert of 500,000 square miles could remain entirely unknown in this advanced age. The persistence with which explorers are attacking these last vestiges of unknown wilderness suggests that it will not be many years before every nook and cranny of the globe will have been visited.

FOREIGN LOAN POLICY.

Apparently the State Department contemplates no change in its policy of scrutinizing proposed foreign loans, in spite of the Senate's condemnation of this practice. The department considers a check upon foreign loans necessary to prevent any financial arrangements that would conflict with American policy. It has never undertaken, and does not intend to undertake to pass upon the soundness of any foreign bonds that are floated here.

Senator Glass' resolution called upon the department to "desist from the dangerous practice of involving the United States Government in any responsibility of whatever nature, either by approval or disapproval, for foreign investment loans floated in this country." The Senate seems to fear the investors will gain the impression that loans and bond issues to which the State Department does not object are guaranteed by this Government. It is difficult to believe that any investor in foreign bonds would be so naive. But if there is danger of any one believing that the Government stands behind foreign securities sold in this country it would be well again to correct that impression.

Beyond this point there seems to be no occasion for the Senate's criticism. The Government assumed an interest in the export of American capital abroad in 1922, after the United States had taken a prominent position in world finance. In no case does the department express approval of international loans. In a vast majority of the cases submitted to the department, the financiers are simply informed that the department is not interested. In a few cases a frown from the department puts an end to plans for floating foreign bonds in its country. No foreign financing meets with objection except for good reasons. Among those reasons are that the country wishing a loan has not funded its debt to the United States; that such loans would promote foreign monopoly to the detriment of American consumers; and that loans would be used for unproductive purposes, such as the purchase of munitions.

So long as the department exercises this check upon the exportation of American capital the Government is able to minimize the conflict of private finance and public policy in dealing with other countries. The Government is not exercising an arbitrary power over financial agencies, but is only seeking to avoid the use of American capital for purposes detrimental to national interests.

THE OIL EMBARGO SCHEME.

The advocates of the oil embargo bills before Congress are fighting an eleventh-hour battle to force through a measure that is one of the baldest examples of class legislation ever proposed in the name of legitimate protection. These special pleaders are quick to cry "monopoly" and "oppression of big business," though these expressions do not cause the chills they once did.

It is beginning to be a little clearer to the average person that to provide sufficient protection to admit of profitable production of oil from little stripper wells in a limited region is to place a tremendous burden upon the entire country that is unjustifiable. Senator Capper is leading the fight for the relief of the small producer whose pipeline outlet temporarily was cut off. Though that market has been restored, the fight continues.

Senator Capper has stated that 100,000 employes and owners will be adversely affected if the embargo legislation is not passed. He and others who are making such valiant efforts to push the measure through in the closing hours of the session ignore the immediate adverse effect that it would have on the 99 per cent of the population who have no small oil wells.

Likewise the natural advantages of American oil over Venezuelan oil are not discussed. No less impartial authority than the Tariff Commission reports that Venezuela crude oil yields finished products worth $1.15 a barrel. Average American crude oil yields products worth $2.97 a barrel, the American crude, therefore, being worth $1.82 per barrel more than Venezuelan oil. That is some protection.

The tariff act of 1930 includes this provision:

> If the commission finds * * * the duties expressly fixed by statute do not equalize the differences in the costs of production of the domestic article and the like or similar foreign article * * * the commission shall specify in its report such increases or decreases in rates of duty expressly fixed by statute as it finds shown by the investigation to be necessary to equalize such differences.

The difference in the ultimate value of American crude over Venezuelan crude is greater than the difference in the cost of the two; in other words, a barrel of American oil when it has gone through the refinery is worth 67 cents more than Venezuelan oil after the same process. The difference in the values of the two oils is greater than the difference in cost.

The Tariff Commission did not recommend a duty on oil from Venezuela. There were reasons.

GAMBLING IN WHEAT

From the Chicago Tribune.

The Grain Stabilization Corporation has announced its determination to sell up to 35,000,000 bushels of wheat which it holds at Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf ports. It will sell this grain to Europe and Asia in competition with the wheat of other exporting countries. The storage facilities in our ports are filled to overflowing, the corporation announces, and it must dispose of some of its holdings if the new crop is to be accommodated.

The Grain Stabilization Corporation is the Farm Board's agency in wheat purchases. The Farm Board has bought wheat with the money of the taxpayers. No precise statement can be made of the loss which the taxpayers will suffer in consequence of the Farm Board's speculations until the price which the wheat fetches in Europe and Asia is known, but it is obvious that the losses will be heavy. The Farm Board bought wheat from $1.25 a bushel down to the 76 cents at which wheat was pegged in December. It has paid heavy charges for storage and insurance. Perhaps the wheat, when sold, will bring as much as 60 cents a bushel. The taxpayers will suffer a minimum loss of about 15 cents a bushel even if world prices do not decline as a consequence of the Farm Board's announcement that it has wheat for sale, and on some of the wheat to be exported the loss can hardly be less than 65 cents a bushel and probably will be much more.

The losses in all probability will not end with the removal of the 35,000,000 bushels now to be sold. The Government has bought more than 100,000,000 bushels in addition which it still holds and which will have to be sold sooner or later. Only a calamity to the 1931 crop can save the taxpayers from further losses in wheat, and so far as cotton is concerned the situation is quite as menacing.

All of these speculative ventures by the Government were undertaken in good faith in the interest of the farmers. The experiment was tried under most favorable circumstances. It is doubtful if more conscientious management could have been found. Nevertheless the failure to date has been striking and the Farm Board has only begun to liquidate. No more impressive demonstration of the inability of the Government to engage in business could be imagined.

The money which has been lost and will be lost will have been well spent if, as a result of this venture, Congress and the American people come to a firm realization of the limits of governmental action. Despite its enormous financial resources and its power to supervise and coerce conduct, not even the United States Government can overcome the forces of supply and demand. The experiment of our Government in seeking to control the price of wheat has failed as signally as the experiments of the British government in seeking to stabilize the price of rubber and of the Brazilian government in its valorizing of coffee.

The fault was not Mr. Legge's. He did at least as well as could be expected of him. It is doubtful if any private enterprise of equal magnitude could have been conducted with less scandal. Inherent, however, in the situation was this fact: the speculations in wheat were conducted with other people's money. It was precisely because the Farm Board was created with the large and admirable purpose of helping the farmers that the taxpayers' money was employed injudiciously. Gambling with another man's chips is a pleasant diversion, and in this instance it had moral sanction as well. That situation will apply in any future efforts to put the Government in business.

The lesson is plain. But has it been learned?

WINDFALLS.

The wind came up and it shook the tree,
Said an apple plump: "It's too rough for me!
Though I've clung for weeks to this topmost bough
It seems I am due for a tumble now!"
And a sound heart whispered: "Just hang on!"
But the weakling apple to earth had gone.

And all night long with moan and sigh
The windfalls dropped from the branches high.
"Hang on! Hang on!" cried a stout winesap,
But a gust would come and a twig would snap
And the farmer said as he viewed the fall:
"Some apples can't weather a summer squall.

"They looked all right when the wind was still,
Now they're merely food for the cider mill,
For the only fruit that the stores will take
Is the kind that sticks when the branches shake.
But you can't know the sound hearts from the frail
'Till the morning after an autumn gale."

Wearing a Sharpshooter's Medal Won't Help You Much if You Can't Shoot.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are several million young people, now finishing high school, who will get no college training unless they "work their way through."

Many of them are now asking themselves the question: "Can I do it, and is it worth the effort?"

Among the richest and most prominent business men of America are several who profess to scorn colleges and their product. Because they succeeded without formal education, they assume that any young man can do as well if he tries.

Their testimony has little value, however, for they are not average men. They climbed high despite handicaps because they were exceptionally able. Moreover, their careers began at a time when relatively few men were college trained and these few were regarded as impractical dreamers. And, finally, their opinions are influenced by the immemorial conviction that grapes out of reach are sour. They missed the college education they coveted, therefore a college education is worthless.

But a college degree is an advantage in our day, as any youth can discover for himself by observing the younger business men of his community.

College degrees are now so common and so easily obtained that a man who hasn't one feels called upon in certain environment to explain why.

A degree is a social advantage, for the world assumes that a man who has spent four years in an atmosphere of learning and civilized manners can be trusted not to disgrace a hostess. The college man in short is accepted as a gentleman until he demonstrates that he isn't.

Also he is accepted as a possessor of superior mental equipment. He gets the preference when new men are hired or old ones promoted. Without saying or doing anything at all to demonstrate his superiority he gets the choicest plums solely because of his diploma.

But that isn't the whole of the story. It is one thing to get a job and quite another to hold it. The man with a degree may win a job or a promotion denied to uneducated men equally able, but the degree won't save him if he doesn't make good. It may in fact prove a burden, for much will be expected of him because of it.

In other words, a college diploma isn't worth much in the long run unless the man who holds it possesses the knowledge and the intellectual capacity its possession indicates.

And that means a degree isn't worth four years of effort if finally it is obtained by cheating or by imposing on the sympathies of instructors.

The great majority of those who try to work their way through college in four years either flunk their examinations or contrive in devious ways to win a diploma that proclaims an untruth and shames the college that awards it.

Absorbing the education a college offers is work enough for any ordinary youngster. He can't make an honest job of it while devoting eight hours of each day to some other job. If he must work his way, let him work a year and study a year. He will graduate later than others, but he will live up to his sheepskin when the inevitable showdown arrives.

Moral—Keep Good Senators.

Review of Reviews.

It happens that the primary system and the unstable balance of party majorities in New York, Ohio, Illinois and some other large States have a tendency to bring about frequent changes in their Senate seats. This keeps them from winning chairmanships, under the Senate rules. Thus Mr. Morrow, of New Jersey, by reason of his remarkable qualifications, ought to be chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. But, being a new senator, he has to start at the bottom of the list on committees to which he is assigned.

A Test of Senate Power.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

By selecting John W. Davis as its chief of counsel, the Senate makes sure that its suit to oust Chairman Smith of the Federal Power Commission from office will receive plenty of public attention. President Hoover contends that Smith was constitutionally put into office and Attorney General Mitchell will support the President's contention in court. A contest between the former Democratic nominee for the Presidency and the present Chief Executive, who will be represented in court by his Attorney General, is the way the public will view the show.

The case promises to be an historic one. It seems to be agreed that the Supreme Court will be called upon to make the final decision. A new definition of Senate power is to be written in the opinion of the court. The Senate has called for a test of how far it may go in supervising officials of the Government who attain their offices through presidential nomination and Senate confirmation. That is what it amounts to.

Shucks!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Rookies Are the Best Signs of Spring—Old Fans Have the Fever, Just Like Kids.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Post's baseball correspondent, Frank H. Young, recording the arrival of Manager Walter Johnson with a squad of players at Biloxi recently, said:

"For the old-timers in the Nats' party that overran the New Biloxi Hotel, tonight was just the start of another campaign, but the sizable squad of rookies were eager for the morrow to dawn."

To my mind the rookie is the most attractive and welcome forerunner of spring. I do not consider it something to be laughed at if he does have an idea that all the world's a baseball diamond; and, no matter what sort of an actor he may be later, it is just now to his credit that he is a dreamer of dreams.

Like a fisherman who meditates on how tomorrow he will fool the big bass that got away today, the good rookie between times figures out the improvement of his batting stance and sees himself doing hair-raising stunts in the infield or snaring two-baggers off the fence, starting with the crack of the bat to make it look easy. In other words, he has a large amount of the amateur spirit, which is necessary for good work by young or old. It would be a great loss if big leaguers were born full fledged and rookies were never with us to brighten the preseason baseball terrain.

You can depend upon it that the great mass of fans are human enough to envy the rookies. He must, indeed, be a very hardboiled old fan who will not admit that he would like to be a boy again if he could only be a rookie, nursing the ambition to be another Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, Hack Wilson or Cronin; keeping manager and trainers in a stew lest he overstrain himself; anxious to learn, and proud as the proverbial peacock of his sinewy sore arm. HENRY WARD BLEACHER.

Washington Has a Model Smoke Law, But Smudge Discolors Windows and Curtains Just the Same.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: There was a very interesting article in Sunday's Post, in which, among other things, it is stated that Washington's smoke law is so good that the authorities of other cities have sent for copies "so as to model their smoke laws accordingly;" that it has been tested in the courts, including the Supreme Court of the United States, and "not once has been declared invalid," and that "Washington now has the reputation of being the freest of smoke of any large city in the country."

In connection with our desire to be a model city in beauty, as well as other things, this makes pleasant reading. So far as I am concerned, I have never been bothered by the so-called smoke nuisance. But the women folks have for a long time declared themselves disgusted with it, and are not yet satisfied.

It is only since there has been so much talk about too much furnace smoke that I have noticed it. I first gave it special attention during the past dry winter, when, in the absence of real snow, the accumulation of what looked like black snowflakes on the front porch was quite noticeable. The amount of this smoke detritus is not very great, but it is smudgy, and I suppose what, floating in the air, it would not take much of it to discolor window curtains, wall paper, white paint and other things. So the women may, after all, have good reason for their complaints, inasmuch as you can still sometimes see great clouds of bulging black smoke emerging from high chimneys and spreading down into the street in damp weather.

Says American Federation of Labor Makes Good Fight Against the Reds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "Canada Bars the Reds," is, in my estimation, a very great contribution to the information of the complacent public. It is one of several patriotic editorials which you have recently contributed, and I wish to express to you my personal thanks and appreciation.

The last paragraph, however, in which you state that "the American Federation of Labor is asleep at the switch," &c., is hardly fair, it seems to me, in view of the wonderful work which the Federation has done for several years, in successfully keeping the Communist influence out of the Federation, and saving American labor, as a whole, from its insidious doctrines; had you had the privilege, as I had, of hearing Mr. Flynn, vice president of the A. F. L., speak at the meeting of the advisory board meeting of the American Coalition here about a week ago, you would, I am sure, agree with me.

Is it not the case that the employers of labor who have engaged in business deals with the Soviet Republic, are the blameworthy individuals, rather than the workingmen in their employ, who, after all, must work or starve, and who, it may be supposed, were not in a position to know the ethics or the economics of their employment on Soviet business as well as those who employed them?

It is tragic that Congress is failing to do anything about the "dumping" situation, and other aspects of the Red menace. N. H. H.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Host To Notables Of England

Mrs. Winston Churchill and Son, Visiting, Are Entertained.

MRS. WINSTON CHURCHILL, wife of the distinguished British statesman, former chancellor of the exchequer, slipped into town on Saturday to find herself the center of several impromptu fetes. She was accompanied by her son, Mr. Winston Church, jr., who has been in this country several months on a lecture tour. They left Washington yesterday for New York preparatory to sailing for England.

On Sunday Mrs. Churchill and her son were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meyer, jr., at a tea and on Saturday they had luncheon at the British Embassy, where the ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, officiated in the role of host alone, owing to the absence of Lady Lindsay, who is still out of town. During their sojourn in Washington the Churchills stayed at the Carlton.

Mr. Churchill, sr., has not visited the Capital for several years. When he was here, however, he was received with all due pomp and ceremony by the former British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard, and was feted at the White House by the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Spanish Attache and Wife Hosts at Dinner.

The Spanish Ambassador and Senora Padilla were the guests of honor last evening at a dinner given by the Naval Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora Iglesias at the Shoreham Hotel.

The guests were Senora Dona Rosa Padilla, Senorita Dona Maria Padilla, the Commercial Counselor of the Spanish Embassy and Senora de Calderon, the Military Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora Planell, the Attache of the Spanish Embassy and Senora Echegaray, the First Secretary of the Spanish Embassy, Senor Don Jose Gomez Acebo; the Second Secretary of the Spanish Embassy Senor Don Ramon Padilla, and Senor Ricardo Padilla.

Mr. H. von Knipping, the German Minister to Barzil, is at the Willard for a few days, en route for Rio de Janeiro.

Mrs. Walter Brown has gone to New York.

Capt. Samuel S. Sandberg has returned to his apartment at Wardman Park Hotel from Garden City, N. Y., where with Mrs. Sanberg he has been visiting friends. Mrs. Sanberg will return to Washington the latter part of the week.

Monument Held Safe Despite Wear and Tear

While admitting that small pieces of marble have been worn away on the Washington Monument from age and weather, officials of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks declared that the shaft itself is as sound as ever and is likely to remain so for many years.

As the marble forms only a surface on the granite interior, the crumbling has no weakening effect on the obelisk itself. Some plan for preserving the exterior, however, for the sake of beauty will have to be evolved, it was said.

Justice Hitz Mounts Bench in Appeals Court

Justice William Hitz, newly appointed member of the Court of Appeals, sat for the first time yesterday. He was sworn in last month, but did not mount the bench.

Justice Laurence Groner, who will make the fifth member of the appellate tribunal, is expected to reach Washington today from Norfolk, Va., and probably will be sworn in immediately. Justice Hitz and Justice Groner fill the newly created justiceships recently authorized by Congress.

Fine Arts Commission Approves Bridge Pylons

The Fine Arts Commission yesterday formally informed Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, of its approval of the type of pylons placed at the Virginia end of the span for use at the entrances into the District.

A few exceptions were noted in regard to the pylons. Instead of the eagles which grace the bridge pylons, the commission suggested marble tips.

Saber Given Col. Hixon In Farewell

Officers of Washington Squadron of Cavalry Hosts at Dinner.

The Washington Squadron, 306th Cavalry, gave a farewell dinner last evening at the Racquet Club for Lieut. Col. Arthur G. Hixson, who has recently been transferred to a Western post.

Col. Hixson was presented with an engraved saber by Col. John Philip Hill, on behalf of the officers of the squadron, in appreciation for his work while instructor of this group.

Among those present were Col. John Philip Hill, Col. M. S. Jarvis, Maj. Geary F. Eppley, Maj. Humphrey Beckett, Maj. Harry D. Murray, Maj. H. H. Jacobs, Maj. Russell Freeman, Capt. Edward B. Harry, Capt. R. C. D. Hunt, Capt. Albert J. McCurdy, Lieut. Forest F. Bartl, Lieut. Paul A. Chalupsky, Lieut. Humphrey Daniel, Lieut. Lathrop E. Smith, Lieut. Robert H. Chambers, Lieut. Joseph E. Heinrichs, Lieut. Samuel G. Nordlinger, Lieut. Alexander Gow and Lieut. Edward M. Perkins.

Mrs. Charles B. Howry will have as her guest for the week-end Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle, of Philadelphia.

Guest in Capital From Hollywood.

Mrs. W. W. Spaid has returned to her home on Sixteenth street from Tuscon, Ariz., and Hollywood, Calif., accompanied by Mrs. Edward J. Ralph, of Hollywood, who will be her guest for some time.

Mrs. Murrell Lee Buckner, of Dallas, Tex., and Mrs. C. C. Wright, of Philadelphia, who have been the guests of Mrs. James G. Field, have returned to their homes.

Mrs. Elonzo Tyner and her daughter, Miss Peggy Tyner, who have recently come to Washington after passing several months abroad, will leave tomorrow for California.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robert Owen returned to Washington yesterday from their wedding trip to Cuba and are at Wardman Park Hotel, where they will make their home. Mrs. Owen was before her marriage on February 17, Margaret Patton Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patton Craig.

Mrs. James Cousins and daughter, Miss Clara Cousins, of Norwalk, Conn., have arrived at the Powhatan and plan to be there for several weeks.

Mrs. Irenee duPont accompanied by her daughter, Miss Eleanor duPont, Miss Rebecca McFirst, of Charleston, S. C.; and Mr. Philip Rust, of Wilmington, Del., were in Washington for the week-end at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. Joseph P. Brantley will entertain at luncheon today at the Shoreham Hotel, the company later adjourning for bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Whittlesey will entertain at supper this evening in honor of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Whittlesey, who are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Harry Finney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whittlesey, and two grandchildren, Miss Dorothy Whittlesey and Miss Helen Carter will attend the party.

Mrs. Eugene Graves Adams entertained at luncheon yesterday in honor of Mrs. Walter F. George, wife of Senator George, and Mrs. Reginald Mallett, of North Carolina.

Dewey Given French Medal By M. Claudel

Presentation Is Made at Dinner Attended by Notables.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel entertained at dinner last night, having a distinguished group of guests. During the evening the ambassador bestowed upon Mr. Charles E. Dewey the medal of the Legion of Honor for services to France. Mr. Dewey recently returned to this country from Poland, where he served for some time as financial adviser. Mr. Dewey, who was Assistant Secretary of War in 1924, going to Poland three years later, served as aid to Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, commander of the Great Lakes Training Station in Chicago during the World War.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey made a late winter trip in the West Indies, where for a month they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson at their villa near Hamilton, Bermuda.

The guests last night were the Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila; Representative and Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. F. Trubee Davison, Mrs. Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Miller, Mr. Robert P. Kelley, Mr. and Mrs. Orme Wilson, the Counselor of the Polish Embassy, Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski; the Second Secretary of the Polish Embassy and Princess Massalska, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Benning Spencer, Mr. David Finley, Mrs. Eleanor Patterson, Mrs. John R. Williams, Mrs. Clarence Wilson, Miss Mary Patten, Mrs. Rose Merriam, the Financial Attache of the French Embassy and Mme. Monick, and the Counselor of the Embassy, Mr. Jules Henry.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, one of the three women members of the House who will retire from office when Congress adjoins tomorrow, is planning to leave Washington within a week for her farm in Illinois, where she will spend a few days. Her plans for the future include several trips to the West. At the Easter vacation she will take her son Medill from his Colorado school to Mexico, and the last of May or the first part of June she will return to her Illinois farm to remain through the summer.

Despite the manifold demands on time and the interest in a political career, which would have been enough for a less active person, Mrs. McCormick has kept watchful eye on her great dairy farm in Illinois, from which pure milk is supplied to many of the babies of Chicago's teeeming population.

Although Mrs. McCormick will spend much time on her Western estate, she will continue to maintain her charming residence in Georgetown. She has, however, given up the house near The Plains, Va., which she leased from Mrs. Charles Cary Rumsey for the duration of the fox hunting season. She took the place primarily for her daughter, Miss Katrina McCormick, who is an ardent equestrienne and has spent numerous weekends there, where she has taken part in the nearby hunts.

Lieut. Francis D. A. Ford, U. S. N., has returned to Norfolk to rejoin the United States destroyer Biddle, after spending the week with friends. Until last summer Lieut. Ford made his home in Washington, where he was stationed at the navy yard.

The Military Attache of the Japanese Embassy Col. Shohei Washizu, will entertain at a reception this afternoon at the Mayflower from 5 until 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose entertained at dinner last evening at the Mayflower.

Mrs. George Mesta has had as her guest Mrs. Stephen Pell, who returned yesterday to her home in New York. Mrs. Mesta also has as her guest Mrs. Jeanne Smythe, of Oklahoma City, who will go to New York tomorrow for a visit.

Wellers Break Ground Upon Country Tract

Will Make Estate on River Road Their Residence.

Having recently purchased a tract of land on River road, several miles this side of the Congressional Club, the ground has been broken for a country estate, to be the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph I. Weller.

The house will be French provincial, flanked on all sides by a generous stretch of land.

Mr. and Mrs. Weller are living at 2554 Massachusetts avenue, where they will remain until the completion of their new home.

Mr. Weller's daughters are Mrs. Charles Drennon, of Kansas City, the former Katherine Weller; Mrs. Edward Cherrington, of Washington, who was Rita Weller; Mrs. George T. Fulford, of Canada, formerly Miss Josephine Weller, and Nancy Weller, still a school girl.

Mrs. Fulford is in Florida with Mr. Fulford. They have as their guest Miss Dorothy Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hill, of Washington.

Mrs. Benjamin F. Hutchinson entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Shoreham Hotel.

NO OTHER cereal so crisp. Rice Krispies actually crackle out loud in milk or cream. Children love them.

And such flavor! The taste of toasted rice. A different treat for breakfast. Wonderful for the kiddies' lunch. So wholesome and easy to digest. Rice Krispies are handy to use in recipes. Take the place of nutmeats. At grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Let's call him up!"

WHEN plans of any kind are afoot nowadays, the first thing people turn to is the ever-ready, ever-faithful telephone. It's the natural thing to do.

Telephone service has become a vital necessity in the management of our daily affairs. Why? Because this is the day of speed—of rapid transportation, and above all of quick communication. Things must be done at once and by means of the telephone we can get them done at once. It serves a thousand and one useful purposes requiring quick action.

One of the most important reasons for the wide-spread use of telephone service is the extreme reasonableness of the charges. There's a class of service to fit every need and a price to fit every pocketbook.

It is our policy to furnish the most telephone service and the best at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU "PISCES."

IF March 3 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

March 3 is, according to the planetary aspects, a good day for attending to correspondence, and the arrangement of social matters. Financial loss is threatened if speculation or investments are made. Trouble may be anticipated at home either through opposition or uncongenial conditions.

A child born on this March 3 will have a combative spirit, and, though easily led, will never be driven. It will have a strong will and a commanding personality. If not browbeaten, it will achieve maturity with an unconquerable ambition to succeed—and, probably, will do so.

If you were born on March 3, you are very energetic and industrious. You not only do what is expected of you—but always a little bit more. You never grudge the extra effort or the extra time that is often inconveniently asked of you. You always realize that in life it is the little extra bit that counts. This desire to do so much makes up, in a large measure, for what you are lacking in knowledge and learning. Your memory is, unfortunately, not a very retentive one, and this factor has handicapped you in all your studies.

You are not visionary. On the other hand, you are intensely practical. Common sense, in your case, has to serve as a substitute for intellectuality. You are, in addition, a keen judge of "humans," and can analyze their motives, thereby often avoiding the pitfalls that cause trouble to others. You are a fairly good conversationalist and a good "mixer." You never put on airs, and make many friends by your nonpretentious manners and your candor. Your horoscope indicates a fair amount of success, achieved as a result of hard work and painstaking endeavor.

Loyalty to your family and home will always be one of your outstanding virtues and, never flirtatious or changeable in your affections, your home life promises contentment, happy companionship, and enduring peace.

Successful people born March 3:

Alexander Graham Bell, telephone inventor.

William M. Calder, United States senator.

Carl Oscar Borg, artist.

Sir Lazarus Fletcher, director natural history department, British Museum, 1909-1919.

George Pullman, inventor of Pullman cars.

Pork Chops for Dinner.

Baked Pork Chops Baked Potatoes
Escalloped Tomatoes
Biscuit Grape Jelly
Pear Salad French Dressing
Rhubarb Pie Coffee

Baked Pork Chops.

6 chops, cut 2-3 inch thick.
½ cup flour.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
¼ teaspoon celery salt.
1 teaspoon finely chopped onion.
1 cup water.

Sprinkle chops with flour and seasonings. Fit into small baking pan. Add water and cover. Bake one hour in moderately slow oven. Baste frequently during baking.

Escalloped Tomatoes, Serving 6.

2½ cups tomatoes.
2-3 cup rolled cracker crumbs.
1 teaspoon salt.
¼ teaspoon paprika.
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery.
2 tablespoons finely chopped onions.
4 tablespoons butter, melted.

Mix all ingredients. Pour into buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in moderately slow oven. Serve in dish in which baked. Two tablespoons chopped green pepper can be added to mixture if more seasoning is desired.

Pear Salad.

6 halves canned pears.
½ cup cottage cheese.
¼ cup broken nuts.
½ teaspoon salt.

Chill the ingredients. Make balls out of cheese, nuts and salt. Fit into cavities in pears. Place on lettuce and top with dressing. Serve at once.

Rhubarb Pie.

2½ cups flour.
2-3 cup lard.
½ teaspoon salt.
4 tablespoons cold water.

Mix flour and salt, cut in lard and add water. Mix with knife. When stiff dough forms, break off two-thirds of it and fit into deep pie pan. Add rhubarb filling. Roll out rest of dough and cut into strips one-half inch wide. Fit strips criss-cross fashion across top of rhubarb. Bake 35 minutes in moderate oven.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sermabeg

ETIQUETTE
IN THE DAYS OF BEAU BRUMMEL GREAT IMPORTANCE WAS ATTACHED TO THE MANNERS OF PEOPLE AT FUNCTIONS. WHEN THE GUESTS ARRIVED THEY WERE GIVEN A TICKET, WHICH OFFERED SUGGESTIONS CONCERNING PROPER DEPORTMENT. THE FRENCH WORD FOR THESE TICKETS WAS "ETIQUETTE." THE TICKETS WERE THE ADVANCE GUARD OF BOOKS ON THE SUBJECT.
WHEN WE SWEAR
FOR CENTURIES PEOPLE HAD A SUPERSTITIOUS DREAD OF MAGIC WORDS USED FOR INJURING OR DESTROYING ENEMIES. WHEN A MODERN MAN "CUSSES," HE IS MERELY GIVING WAY TO THE PRIMITIVE INSTINCT OF USING DREADFUL MAGIC.
THIS SYMBOL WAS FIRST MADE BY USING THE GREEK LETTERS E AND T COMBINED. THEY SPELLED THE LATIN WORD "ET" WHICH MEANS "AND."

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me whether you consider Chinese witch-hazel a decorative winter shrub. Many persons discourage me about planting this shrub. MRS. JOHN L. M.

The Chinese witch-hazel, hamamelis mollis, is the handsomest of the family, its flowers being large and a clear deep yellow. It is a rapid grower, quite hardy and lends a note of color to the winter landscape. In the fall, its dull green, almost blue, leaves turn a pale yellow. It blooms from January until the middle of February. All forms of witch-hazels are interesting ornamental shrubs and should find a place in every garden scheme.

Please tell me when to expect my breeder tulips to bloom. When they do bloom, will they resemble the Darwins? A friend gave me 25 bulbs. DOROTHY B.

The blooms will greatly resemble the Darwins except that they will have an entirely different range of color, comprising tones of bronze, terra cotta, orange and brown. Breeder tulips are, as a rule, May-flowering, producing blooms of enormous size. They are about the same height as the Darwins. You are sure to like them.

Please tell me why you so often, in your column, say that freezing and thawing is apt to injure plants. I have often thought about this. MARGARET G. L.

It isn't the freezing of the plants above the surface of the soil that does the damage, but the freezing and thawing of the soil itself. This causes an expansion and contraction of the soil, which breaks the roots of the plants, especially of those with a small, weak root system. I hope this is clear.

Recently I purchased a rubber plant in a 4-inch pot. It is a small plant with only six leaves. Do you advise transplanting it at once? Also please tell me something of the care of this plant. MRS. WILLIAM N. T.

Florists usually sell plants in pots large enough for at least eight months, so I would not recommend transplanting it until spring. Keep it in a warm, sunny place where there is plenty of fresh air at all times. Water the plant every day and wash the leaves once each week with cold, soapy water.

Please tell me when the plant of which I am inclosing a flower can be transplanted? MISS ELIZABETH O.

Your plant is a flowering maple. You can transplant it at any season if you are sure that it is potbound.

Please tell me when to transplant cockscomb seedlings. I mean to raise some in my hotbed for use in my perennial border when the season permits planting them in the open. ALICE P. L.

The cockscomb, being an annual, is usually grown from seed sown in the open ground in early May. The seedlings can be transplanted as soon as they are tall enough to handle easily. Sowing them in a hotbed will mean flowers two or three weeks earlier.

Please tell whether, when my Bermuda lily has finished blooming and I plant it on a sunny portion of my garden, it will bloom in the late summer? How long should be bulb be rested? A REGULAR READER.

Rest it from the time it stops blooming until late May. Then if you plant it in the open it should bloom in August.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Would Fight for Love.

DEAR Miss McDonald: For a number of years I have been an interested reader of your column. Many of the problems you have helped to solve have been similar to my own, and at all times I have found great consolation in your sensible wisdom. Never, however, have I written you.

However, try as I may I could not drown the idea of writing in answer to the young lady who inquired if she should walk out of the picture and leave the field clear for her sister, who had for a time won over her boy friend's affection.

To me there is nothing truer than the old adage that says "Anything worth having is worth fighting for." I would fight for him if I wanted him. Many will tell you that would be a foolish thing, but it isn't and I am talking from experience. If you held a position of merit and it was threatened, would you let some one come along and take it from you without offering a struggle? No. You would prove to yourself and the world that you could stand on your two feet and hold what you had worked hard to get your hands on. Your sister does not want him: he was just flattered because most likely she was very friendly toward him. Take any man—be he sage or fool—and a little attention on the part of a woman will set his head whirling. And no one need tell me that they are not all like that. During the time I held a position as secretary to the head of a large publishing house, I came in daily contact with all types of men. Were any of them different where women were concerned? If they were, it was to the extent that some were worse than others.

Overlook the silly infatuation on his part and endeavor to show him that you don't even remember the incident. Treat it as something dead for good, and never revive it. The time will come when he will think of it as a silly act on his part. Now that he is back have things go on the same as ever.

If you doubt the advisability of this let me tell you my experience in a similar incident. My boy friend and I had kept company for four years, during which time we both tried to be honest with one another. Then, out of a clear sky he invited a girl to a dance, and continued these "sly" invitations for a month or more. When I found out, I felt hurt at first and decided that he was seeking a way out and that I would offer it to him. Then, I tried to think of my life without him and everything went black.

The next engagement I had with him we spent at home, per my suggestion. I confronted him with his deceitfulness and pointed out to him how small and cheap it was to try to hurt another. After a two-hour argument we were dearer than ever to one another. He said himself he did not know why he did it, because each time he went with the other girl he felt like a cad. Again it was a case of flattery on the part of the other girl, which I did not hand him. He is now my husband and one would not ask for a finer specimen. Although I never brought up the suggestion, I can't tell you how many times he told me how miserable he felt and how foolish he must have been.

Hold on to him. Fight for him if you want him. Don't mind if others think you are foolish. I know better.

FIGHTER.

Dare Interprets the Mode

A sports tailleur with navy blue jacket, and green and navy blue skirt with red plaid stripes. A black leather belt and scarf complete the ensemble. (Courtesy of Mirande, Paris.)

Paris, March 2.

I WONDER if Suzanne Talbot hasn't got the perfect idea for evening glove elegance? We've been talking it over among ourselves, and have come to the conclusion that she has—that her tiny and exquisitely made gloves, completely fingered and not at all mitten-like, but made of tulle or lace, and therefore transparent, are perfect, no less. They match the gown in material, but unlike the evening glove to which we have lately accustomed ourselves, they are not long—most of them are very short, about three inches above the wrist. And the cuffs of these are stiffened so that they stand out around the hand in a most whimsical way! I don't know how they're stiffened, but I can guess that they must be stiffened by glue and water or some such transparent stiffening. I can also guess that milady coquette might very well give one away as a souvenir to the light of her life the night she wears it, and the other one away to he with whom she is flirting on the side—because, more fragile than a butterfly, they would scarcely last the night, anyway.

And now a straw bathing suit—for the sun only! Honestly, now, you needn't laugh either, because it was the finest, softest, loveliest straw you can imagine, in fact, so fine and soft that you couldn't imagine it was straw until you were told by the mannequin who wore it, who herself evidently didn't think it was anything so very unusual.

The weave was rather crochetted, and one suit was in pink and two shades of green, and the other yellow and green and orange, and the first one had a beach hat of the same straw. These were chez Talbot, too.

Spring lingerie! And spring lingerie with a difference, too—lingerie that is cut differently, trimmed differently, as all the new lingerie is, you know. That's what this week's leaflet is all about, and that's what you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for! A leaflet telling you how to combine crepe satin and georgette into an adorable step-in and teddy—using oh, such a little bit of material! Even if you don't want to make lingerie for yourself, better send for that leaflet and turn it over to your dressmaker—for lingerie that is the very latest from Paris you simply must have—for the sake of your morale, if nothing else.

Plaids have the funniest faces these days! In the tailleur I have sketched for you today, for instance, from Mirande, Paris, there was a plaid skirt and matching scarf, worn with a navy blue jacket, awfully smart. The plaid was big squares of navy blue and, imagine, green—and barred with narrow stripes of red. And there was a black kid belt, and worlds of smartness!

* * * *

Hermes is "the sports wear for women" shop in Paris, where all out-of-door women love to go. And here it is that one finds darling little "gadgets" like the watch I drew for you in the corner—which is the size of a lighter, keeps time in a different sort of a way, and was of navy blue kid with silver bars. Just for fun, the top opens above these bars just like a lighter does—only when opened it shows the works of the watch.

You'll always find interesting items in Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post.

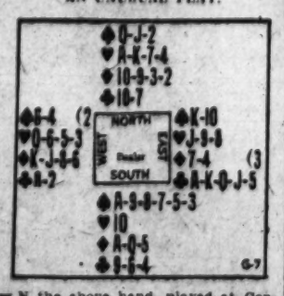
WORK ON BRIDGE

AN UNUSUAL PLAY.



IN the above hand, played at Contract Bridge, South bid one Spade. West passed, North jumped to three Spades and East, feeling sure that South would bid four Spades, wanted to get in a lead-director while he could; so he risked a bid of four Clubs. South did bid four Spades and that ended the contracting.

At Auction Bridge South would have bid one Spade and East would have had a chance to make his Club bid more cheaply; but eventually South would have been the Declarer with Spades the trumps.

When the hand was played West led the Eight of Clubs in answer to his partner's bid, and East won the trick with the Jack. East then led the Queen. West played the Deuce and dummy his last Club. East now led a Diamond up to the weakness in Dummy, South played the Queen and West won with the King. West did not risk a return of the Diamond which would not have been helpful, but led a Heart; dummy won with the King and led the Ace of Hearts. South discarding a losing Diamond. Next dummy led the Queen of Spades, East's King covered the South's Ace won; South returned a Spade and dummy's Jack took East's Ten. After that, dummy was able to ruff a Club and the Declarer made the remainder of the tricks and game.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

East could have saved game by leading a third Club after winning two Clubs and noting that as West played the Deuce on the second, he showed that he had no more Clubs; but instead of leading a winner, he should have led one of his spot cards, forcing West to trump. This would take either the Queen or Jack of trumps from dummy and make East's King-Ten a fourchette, assuring one trick in Spades. A trump trick with the two Club tricks and the King of Diamonds would have saved game.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Hurn" is one of the many variations of "Hearn." When this name is of English origin, it is generally derived from the Old English "hyrne," meaning "the nook" or "the corner of land," and it therefore indicates an original place of residence. However, it not infrequently stands for the Middle English "herne" (from the Old French "hairon") and means "the heron." In such cases it was first applied as a nickname because of some supposed resemblance to that bird, or, as may be proved by old records, it signified "he who lives at the sign of the heron." It will be recalled that in early times it was a frequent practice to display the picture or image of an animal before private dwellings, as well as before inns and taverns, as a means of identification. When the family name "Hearn" is of Irish origin, it may be traced back to two quite different sources. Sometimes it represents the original Irish "O Heachthigheirn," which means "the descendant of the horse-lord." In other cases it has been adopted by Irish families which originally bore the name "O hearain," which means "the descendant of Earadhan." "Earadhan" is a diminutive form of the old personal name "Earadh," meaning "fear" and "dread." The family name "Hurn" occurs frequently in the Hundred Rolls, a famous list of thirteenth century English names. Two of the persons mentioned in that document are Adam in the Hurne and Henry le Herne.

The family name "Walter" (also written "Walther" and "Walthers") is one of the earliest to be recorded in English documents. It is ultimately of Germanic origin, and may be translated "mighty army" or "mighty warrior." Some of its commonest modern German forms are "Walther," "Waldherr" and "Walder."

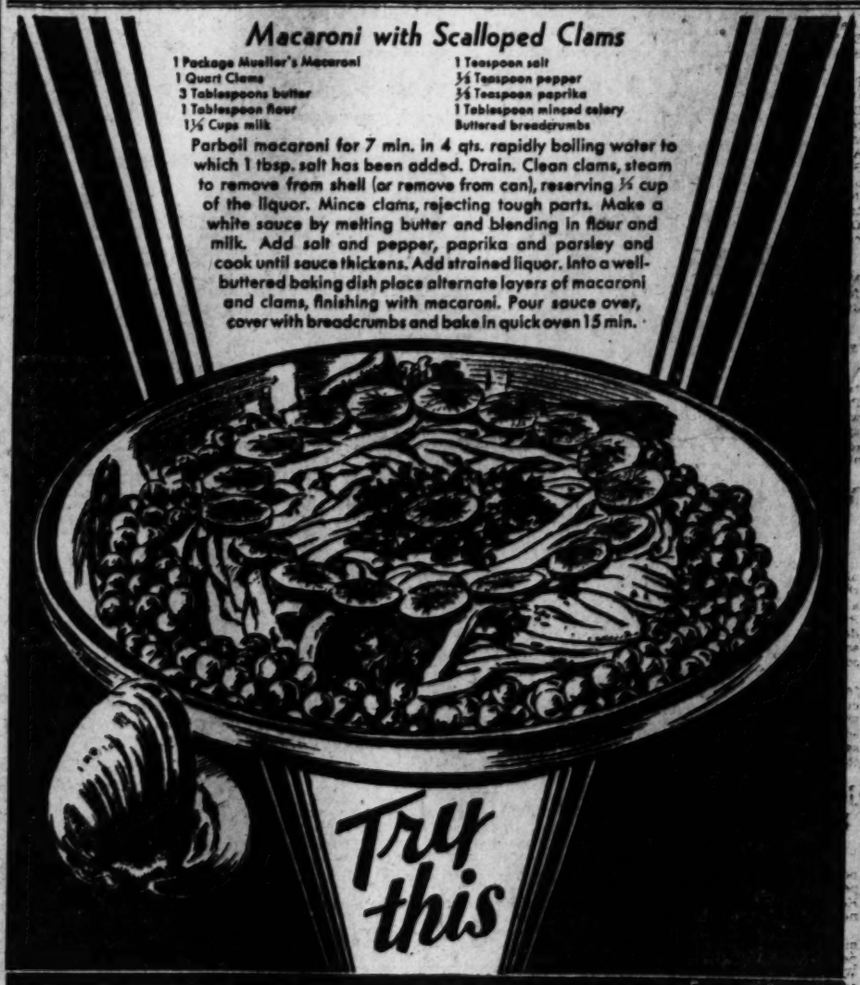
Macaroni with Scalloped Clams

1 Package Mueller's Macaroni
1 Quart Clams
3 Tablespoons butter
1 Tablespoon flour
1¼ Cups milk
1 Teaspoon salt
¼ Teaspoon pepper
¼ Teaspoon paprika
1 Tablespoon minced celery
Buttered breadcrumbs

Parboil macaroni for 7 min. in 4 qts. rapidly boiling water to which 1 tbsp. salt has been added. Drain. Clean clams, steam to remove from shell (or remove from can), reserving ½ cup of the liquor. Mince clams, rejecting tough parts. Make a white sauce by melting butter and blending in flour and milk. Add salt and pepper, paprika and parsley and cook until sauce thickens. Add strained liquor. Into a well-buttered baking dish place alternate layers of macaroni and clams, finishing with macaroni. Pour sauce over, cover with breadcrumbs and bake in quick oven 15 min.



During NATIONAL MACARONI WEEK

During National Macaroni Week, you should certainly ask your grocer for Mueller's. Made from farina, the heart of the wheat, Mueller's Macaroni contains all the elements needed for health and energy in children and adults. Mueller's Macaroni is most tasty, too—especially when prepared in accordance with the many Mueller recipes. One of these is given above. Scores of other recipes may be had by sending

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

A SMART MILKMAN.

WITHIN a few weeks a milkman, at his daily job, rang the back doorbell of a flat building in Chicago. A woman answered. When the driver saw her he made a diagnosis of small pox. He hurriedly handed her the milk her order called for, then turned and hustled down the steps. He made good time. His next customer was a physician. He asked the doctor to call up the health department and report the case. This the doctor did, but he refused to give his name, placing the responsibility on the milkman. Thus he missed his chance of making a diagnosis of smallpox based on the keen observation and general intelligence of a milk driver.

The health department hurried an inspector to the flat. This inspector found that the milk driver knew his onions. The woman had smallpox and presently she was on her way to the smallpox hospital. There she got the best of care and before long she was back at home unscarred. The family and friends were vaccinated. A neighborhood epidemic of smallpox had been stopped by reason of the intelligence of this milk driver.

The writer knows of one instance in which an undertaker made a diagnosis of "black smallpox" where others had fallen down. In this case what might have been a bad epidemic was held to a half dozen cases or less because of the intelligence of the undertaker.

Cancer of the face is ceasing to be an important disease. The number of deaths it causes is on the decline, although cancer of other locations is increasing. One reason is the widespread intelligence on the subject of cancer.

A man with cancer of the face knows that of the people he meets daily, a score or more will spot his eruption as cancer as soon as they see it. Some of them will tell him what they think. There is not much chance that he will remain long in ignorance of the nature of his trouble or that he can long withstand the pressure to do something about it.

A fair proportion of the people know the characteristics of peculiar people, can classify them after a fashion, and tell why they are odd. They know that the very nervous, jerky, instable woman is a thyroid case, and, knowing that, they are more patient and fairer.

Articles in newspapers, magazines and books, and courses of hygiene in schools deserve most of the credit for this. And more good is done than is required to offset the harm done through making people worry about health.

YOUTH SENTENCED IN TRESPASS CASE

Fairfax Judge Imposes Term of 3 Months in Second Offense Charge.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 745, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

James Henderson, giving his address as Charlottesville, Va., was sentenced to three months in jail yesterday by Justice of the Peace C. C. Cockerille, at Fairfax, on a charge of second offense trespassing on railway property.

During the past month railroads in the county have suffered losses of box cars by fire, so a detective was assigned to find the cause of the fires and Sunday evening arrested Henderson when he said he caught him in a box car with a fire in a bucket.

Willard Duncan, of Chesterbrook, was arrested by Sheriff E. P. Kirby and Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity Sunday evening and charged with being drunk, assaulting his wife and assaulting Carlos Besley. He was fined $25 and costs on the drunk charge and was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail on the assault charges by Justice of the Peace Cockerille at Fairfax.

Fairfax County authorities, led by Sheriff Kirby, raided a house near the Penn Daw Hotel on the Washington-Richmond highway and arrested Frank Hurst, Albert Hurst, who gave the house as their address, and Helen Riggs, of North Royal street, Alexandria, and Margie Lane, of King street, Alexandria. They were taken before Judge A. C. Ritchie at Fairfax and charged with misconduct. Following a hearing they were fined $20 and costs each on the charge. The police making the arrests were Deputy Sheriff Henry Magarity and Capt. Heywood Durrer and Arthur Mills, of the county police.

County Clerk F. W. Richardson reports that since the first of this year his office has recorded 350 real estate transactions and for the same period last year only 278 were recorded. This fact indicates, it was stated, that in spite of rumors to the contrary business in Fairfax County is on the increase.

The second quarterly conference of the Southern Methodist Churches of the Falls Church District will be held tomorrow evening in Falls Church, with the Rev. E. V. Regester, of Alexandria, presiding.

The Franconia School and Community League will hold its meeting this evening in the schoolhouse. John Martin and George C. Smith, members of the committee appointed at the last meeting of the league to consult an attorney as to the league's proper course of procedure to secure a new school building at Franconia, will make their report. Following the business session an entertainment program has been planned.

Miss Sarah E. Thomas, Fairfax County home demonstration agent, will meet with the Girls 4-H Club at Burke this morning at the home of Mrs. A. F. Moon to give a demonstration on the economical preparation of meats. Miss Mary Maley will talk to the club on "How to Make Money." Miss Agnes Donaldson will talk on "How to Start a Bank Account" and Miss Lois Johnson on "How to Write and Indorse Checks."

The Fairfax Council Order of Fraternal Americans, will meet tomorrow evening and initiate a class of candidates for the local lodge and for the Herndon Council. Veteran membership certificates, denoting 25 years in good standing, will be presented to eighteen members at that time.

The Pioneer Grange will meet this evening in the Grange Hall at Masonville. The basis of the lecturers' program will be talks on seeds and methods of spring planting, and a paper on the rasing of baby chicks in battery brooders will be read.

The Women's Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal Mission at Baileys Cross Roads will hold its meeting tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Mabel Parsons, who will serve a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock for the benefit of the guild treasury.

The Groveton Community League will hold its meeting this evening in the Groveton Schoolhouse. Mrs. D. J. Garber, chairman of the better homes movement in Fairfax County, has arranged for an address by a Government expert on the beautifying of home grounds. The better homes projejct this year is Nation-wide, and the school leagues are asked to cooperate particularly in the improvement of school grounds.

The Falls Church Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, will meet this evening in the Odd Fellows Hall in Falls Church. Officers will be elected at this time.

The Women's Mission Union of the Columbia Baptist Church at Falls Church will celebrate the "quarterly day of prayer for missions" tomorrow with an all-day session at the home of Mrs. George W. Hauxhurst.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Southern Methodist Church at Langley, will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. Cora Ash, at Balls Hill.

The Fairfax Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, will meet tomorrow afternoon in Fairfax, to discuss plans for the year's work, according to its president, Mrs. Norah V. Allison. The program will include a study of the geneology of the Lee family.

The Fairfax County Red Cross emergency drought relief committee will hold its meeting Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at the Fairfax County Courthouse.

The Lee-Jackson Senior School League has elected Martin T. Webb, of Annandale, as president for the ensuing term. Miss Emma Besley, of the faculty, was elected vice president; Henry Wakefield, of Annandale, secretary, and Earl Saum, of Mount Vernon district, treasurer.

A senior school league has been organized at Chesterbrook with Mrs. V. Humm as president; Mrs. Earle Mutersbaugh, vice president, and Miss Helen Quigg, as secretary. The treasurer and committees will be selected at the meeting this evening.

Robbers of B. & O. Depot Sentenced

Walter Baker and Guy Rotz Decisions Are Rendered at Hagerstown.

Hagerstown, Md., March 2 (Special). Walter Baker and Guy R. Rotz this afternoon were sentenced to six years and five years respectively in the Maryland penitentiary for robbing the Baltimore & Ohio station at Keedysville. Rotz was captured near the scene of the robbery and Baker several days later. Baker's was the heaviest sentence imposed by the court upon nineteen prisoners found guilty of numerous crimes.

Ernest Minor, Harrisburg, Pa., Negro, found guilty of a $2,000 merchandise robbery here, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Walter B. Cushwa, county constable, found guilty of false pretenses, received a suspended sentence until October 1, when he will be sentenced by the court.

Maryland to Get Custody of Driver

New Jersey Motorist Will Be Tried on Charge of Manslaughter.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 2.—With extradition papers signed by Gov. Ritchie and directed to the Governor of New Jersey, State Patrolman A. M. Spioch left here today for Newark to take into custody Betal Lamountain, of 3201 Dillon street, Baltimore, wanted on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal injury of Claude D. Lipford, soldier, of Fort Heyle, on February 21.

Mr. Lipford was struck by an automobile driven by Lamountain at Little Gunpowder Falls.

Lamountain took the injuried soldier to a hospital in his car, but police had been unable to locate him until he was apprehended in Newark. Lipford died in the hospital two days after the accident.

$1,500,000 Is Added To Yorktown Park Bill

(Associated Press.)

The Senate bill to increase the limit of cost for an extension of the Colonial National Park at Yorktown, Va., from $500,000 to $2,000,000, was passed yesterday by the House.

Substituted for a House bill recently passed it now goes to the President.

Wife Says Mate Pulled Her From Bed to Dance

Being pulled from bed in the early hours of the morning and compelled to dance is among the alleged grievances which Marie Agnes Mortimer, of Rhode Island avenue northwest near First street, recites in a suit for limited divorce and alimony filed yesterday in District Supreme Court against Frederick Tarrent Mortimer, of the same address.

The couple was married August 24, 1914, and have on child.

Inquest Is Called in Death.

Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt has ordered an inquest for today into the death of Edward Bowie, colored, 49 years old, of 336 E street southwest, who was found in a shed in the rear of that address early yesterday. The inquest was ordered after police informed the coroner that Bowie's clothes had been partially torn from his body.

Living Model Fashion Review Today and Wednesday at 3 P.M.

Fashion Shops—Second Floor

This is a time of indecision for most women, trying to pick the winning fashions, and make the right choice for Spring. Here's where our Fashion Bureau comes in, with a Living Model review of all the smart, new clothes and their proper accessories.

You Are Invited!

Left:
Sports dress of navy and white jersey, with the very smart poker chip buttons, $16.50.

Center:
Lace and Beauvais embroidery give a lady-like quality to this navy jacket frock, $25.

Right:
Black and white tweed coat, with contrasting white lapin (dyed rabbit) trimming, $39.50.

Watch for:

—the lady-like quality in Spring fashions
—the dramatic note in all the new clothes —color contrast in everything
—the number of black, navy and neutral costumes
—the predominance of the jacket theme
—the importance of white as a costume accessory
—the longer gloves with shorter sleeves
—the lighter shades in hosiery

With NELSON B. BELL

IT would not appeal to me as a wholly supportable statement to say, hot off the bat, that the preponderance of public opinion is on the side of Clara Bow in her most recent adventures in courts and courtships, but there is inescapable evidence that she is not without her enthusiastic following of faithful and unswervable partisans, to whom she is still the queen who can do no wrong. Almost no wrong, at any rate.

This was first borne in upon me last Saturday at the Palace when the trailer announcing her forthcoming appearance in "No Limit" was flashed upon the screen and was greeted with something more than a mere ripple of applause. The impression has since been strengthened by the receipt of letters—not by the bundle, but still plural—urging that the Hollywood hothead be given the benefit of the doubt, justice tempered with mercy and all that sort of thing.

One intercessor urges me to "write of her phenomenal success, all by her lone, little self—no mother to guide her—how wonderful she has been to that dependent father, how trusting and good to everybody. Write of the good and the fine that is in her, ignoring the 'down-sledding' that is given such wide publicity. She is more sinned against than sinning."

Personally, I am inclined to believe that my bromidic correspondent is more right than wrong, but I do not propose to write anything to that effect because from the present outlook it will be hard enough to get into the Palace next week without building up any sympathy campaign on behalf of Paramount's pet temperament.

Speaking of the Palace, the new type of vaudeville revue that is occupying the stage this week and according to advance announcements, is to be duplicated in form next week, resolves itself into a succession of variety acts that bear no relation one to the other, but are loosely bound together by the interpolated contributions of a chorus that travels with the unit. Each turn is separated from the rest by the drawing of the curtains, before and after, and deprived of whatever benefit there ever may have been in being merged, more or less, with a gaudily staged tabloid pursuing, however nebulously, a sketchily defined central theme expressed either in settings or plot.

The new departure, it seems to me, makes a master of ceremonies more than ever essential. Backgrounded by an elaborate production that served also as something of a distraction from the efforts of the individual performers, the various teams were formerly so merged with their surroundings that their identity was not especially important. Now they are the whole thing, and we ought to be permitted to know who they are when they appear.

The important first runs of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production of "The Easiest Way," featuring Constance Bennett and Robert Montgomery, elicited so many complaints against the unsatisfactory ending given the Eugene Walter play in its articulate screen form that the M-G-M executives scurried about and devised a new one to be patched onto the prints currently in circulation. So far as I know, the Tivoli is showing the picture with the new terminal facilities for the first times in Washington today and tomorrow.

Just to make it a little more intricate for the motion picture editors and the general public, the boys are beginning to juggle their opening days again.

The Rialto wishes to apprise those interested that its change of bill will occur this week on Thursday. The new attraction will be Arthur Hammerstein's production of "The Lottery Bride," in which the principal roles are played by Jeanette MacDonald, Joe E. Brown and ZaSu Pitts. This is Mr. Hammerstein's first screen undertaking and boasts a lilting score from the melodious and prolific pen of Rudolf Friml.

At the RKO-Keith Theater, now that the run of "Cimarron" has terminated, the experimental practice that was just being inaugurated when that glorious epic came along will be resumed. That is to say, new features will be introduced to RKO-Keith patrons at the 9 o'clock performance on Thursday night of each week, thus making available two major features for the price of one to all who care to attend at 7 o'clock and sit through both. Those who have seen "Millie"—or will have seen it before Thursday night—and wish only to see "The Last Parade," may do so by presenting themselves at the box office at 9 p. m.

"The Royal Family of Broadway," a month ago, was the last picture to which this innovation was applied. Its resumption will be permanent if the public reacts favorably to it.

Reverting momentarily to the Palace, what made the Messrs. Otto Brower and David Burton, the directors, assume that no dogs would be taken across the continent in that wagon train of eighteen outfits pictured in "Fighting Caravans?" There is one glimpse of one fox terrier in one camp shot, but that is all. Dogs were useful members of those old pioneering outfits.

Well, if that August lily in the corner of the fence hasn't any better sense than to come at this time of the year, it is its own tough luck!

Merchant Files Bankruptcy Plea.

Nathan Friedman, a merchant, of 1010 Seventh street northwest, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday. Liabilities of $5,680.06 and assets of $2,050.20 are noted. Attorney Robert I. Rudolph appears for the bankrupt.

You either feel GOOD or you don't

Chief Connally had both these experiences

"I FELT weak and rundown. My color showed that my blood was very pale. I suffered from poor circulation. A Pathological Laboratory made a test of my blood, and the examination showed it to be 33% below normal. It was then that I decided to take a course of S.S.S.

"In about six weeks' time, after taking S.S.S. regularly, I had another blood test made, and it showed that my blood had been restored to normal. My appetite was greatly improved; so much so, that I could eat pork, and the like, without any discomfort. And to my surprise, my skin and complexion became clear as almost new, and like a child's.

"I think S.S.S. is the most wonderful blood medicine and tonic of its kind on the market today. It has so improved my circulation and the condition of my blood that it has made me feel like a young man again, although I am 56 years old."

C. P. Connally
Asst. Chief of Police, Atlanta.

You, too, will want this NEW STRENGTH

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S.—the purely vegetable tonic—to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength that makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

SCORES BIG VICTORY OVER RIVALS IN ST. LOUIS TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself
Creator of "Believe It or Not"

"We're from Missouri," wired the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Got to prove it to us . . .

"Bring out your black masks . . . and let's see if OLD GOLD can win this 'show-me' town."

Out I went. Bag and baggage. Bought a flock of the four leading brands of cigarettes in St. Louis stores. Concealed the names with black masks.

Then set out. Covered the town from river boats to factories. All told, 1041 smokers . . . sampled all four brands . . . picked the one each liked best.

Result? Not even close! OLD GOLD, 334. Brand X, 264. Brand Y, 237. Brand Z, 206.

More proof that you can't hide OLD GOLD'S better tobaccos; nor its superior throat-ease.

Prizes Announced For Young Artists

Federation of Music Clubs Offers $5,000 in Its Annual Contest.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—The National Federation of Music Clubs today announced purses totaling $5,000 for its twentieth annual young artists' contest.

The girl displaying the most outstanding operatic voice will receive $1,000, auditions with the Metropolitan and Chicago Opera Companies, a New York debut under professional management and an engagement with the American Opera Company.

There will also be prizes of $500 for the best women's high voice of coloratura, dramatic or lyric soprano, best women's low voice of contralto or mezzo soprano, best men's high voice, best men's low voice, and best piano, organ, violin and cello.

Applications for entrance are being made to Mrs. Arthur Holmes Morse, chairman of the national executive contest committee, 263 McGregor avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Early Blooming Foreseen For Cherry Trees This Year

"Cherry blossom time" in the Capital is due earlier than usual this year, according to horticulturists of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks. They predict the first of the Japanese cherry trees will burst into bloom in about three weeks.

Charles Henlock, chief of the horticultural division, said the buds already are beginning to swell and show signs of life. Cuttings will be taken soon and subjected to special tests in an effort to forecast the exact date of the annual festival.

The trees have never been known to blossom before March 20. Single blooms came out on that date in 1927. Last year the single buds did not blossom until April 1 and the double blooms did not appear until April 22.

Due to the mild winter, Mr. Henlock thinks many of the trees will be in blossom by Easter Sunday, which comes on April 5 this year. Officials, however, are unable to make definite predictions because of the uncertain effect the drought is likely to have on the "blossom crop."

Mrs. H. L. Mencken, Ill, Is on Road to Recovery

Baltimore, March 2 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sarah Haardt Mencken, wife of H. L. Mencken, author and editor, has been ill for more than two weeks with influenza and pleurisy, but Mr. Mencken said today she seemed on the road to recovery.

Choir Singer Is Sued By Wife for Divorce

Arthur L. Simpson, of S street southeast near Thirteenth street.

Judge Indicates Whiteman Divorce

Agreement Showing Wife Is to Get $600 Weekly Is Exhibited.

Chicago, March 2 (A.P.).—Superior Judge John J. Sullivan indicated today he would grant a divorce to Paul Whiteman, orchestra leader, who instituted suit last week charging the former Vanda Hoff with desertion.

Whiteman exhibited in evidence an agreement made September 11, 1929, by which his wife would receive $600 a week, payments, however, not to exceed one-third of his annual income. He is to have custody of their son, Paul, jr., 7, for three months of the year. In the written agreement the couple stipulated that neither would do or say anything derogatory or harassing to the other and they would cooperate to promote the boy's welfare.

Mrs. Whiteman also took over three insurance policies on which she will pay the premiums, receiving on Whiteman's death an annual income of $12,000 and $80,000 cash.

Bondsman Is Suing Alleged Fugitive

Kronheim Asks Judgment for $3,000 Against James Paschal.

Milton S. Kronheim, professional bondsmen, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant him a judgment of $3,000 against James Paschal.

The defendant, according to Kronheim, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage, following his arrest here, on a New York State warrant. Mr. Kronheim made security on the bond, but so far Paschal has not appeared before the commissioner for removal to New York, although he was scheduled for appearance January 29.

Mr. Kronheim says he is out $3,000 and wants to collect, although he has no idea where Paschal may be.

Foundation Contract Is Awarded.

Contract for the construction of the foundation of the new United States Supreme Court Building was awarded yesterday by the court building commission to the G. B. Mullen Co., Inc., of Washington, for $82,000.

Net Losses Range From 1 to 5 Points With Rails Under Pressure.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—The convalescent stock market began the new month with a relapse today.

Weakness of the railroad issues received more attention than was recorded spotty rallies during the morning and prices eventually gave way in all directions. Net losses ranged from 1 to 5 points, which has been the extent of some recent reactions, but the decline in the standard statistics index covering 90 stocks—3.3 points—was the largest suffered by that group this year.

After early efforts to stir up interest in specialties, motors and motor accessories, bull pool operators stood aside and rather large selling orders were executed for both accounts. Brokerage houses reported that bids being placed well below the market, so that, lacking much intermediate support, quotations slipped off rapidly in the last hour, the most active period of the day. Sales totaled 3,300,000 shares.

Bonus Loan Payments.

Well Street's reaction to the Treasury financing was an expression of relief that the uncertainty was over and that a clearer idea of the demands of the bonus loan payments would be obtained soon, if not immediately. The $1,400,000,000 total of new Government securities to be sold on March 15 indicates that the Treasury expects veterans' borrowings in the next month to total about $200,000,000, although an equal sum will probably be needed before the mid-June financing. Bankers expressed the opinion that the forthcoming turnover of funds would have little effect on money matters.

New York Central was the day's outstanding bear target, dropping 5 points. Selling was prompted by a report in brokerage circles that the road would earn only about $1 a share this quarter, or half its dividend. The market's digest over the week-end of the January carrier earnings resulted in pressure all along the line. Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven, Erie, Missouri Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and Atchison lost 3 to nearly 5 points.

The outlook for the steel industry in the next few weeks seems to have lost some of its luster, largely because buying was dropped below output. At the beginning of the year producers expected the peak of the first half year would be reached in April or May, as is normally the case but it is now thought the top of the seasonal bulge will be witnessed this month, unless business shows unexpected improvement. Wall street rather believes this week's estimates of operating ratios will show a slight shading.

Westinghouse Drops 5.

Reflecting this bearish gossip, steel and other industrial shares were prominent in the decline. U. S. Steel closed 2 points lower and Bethlehem lost 3. Westinghouse dropped 5. Radio, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Union Carbide reacted 1 to 2, while American Can's loss was 3 points. The 14 per cent shrinkage in Sears Roebuck's sales between January 30 and February 26 brought out offerings of that stock, which dropped 2¾. Utilities likewise weakened. American Water Works lost 4 and American Telephone, Electric Power & Light and North American about 3.

Larger visible supplies and bearish weather affected the grains adversely. July wheat lost about a cent at the worst and closed near the bottom Net declines in corn were small. Cotton, relatively quiet, closed 3 to 7 points net lower.

Changes in the foreign currencies were slight. Sterling and the French franc moved narrowly higher and the Canadian dollar went back to par.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—An opening advance in cotton on relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of prospects for a settlement of political disputes in India was checked by realizing combined with local and Southern selling today. May contracts after advancing to 11.48 at the start, sold off to 11.27 in the later trading, and closed at 11.31 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 3 to 7 points.

The opening was steady, 7 to 12 points higher in response to the firmness of Liverpool, the Indian political news and continued favorable reports from cotton cloth markets. Reports of further rains in South Texas, where wet weather is said to be causing some delay in farm work, may also have been a factor on the opening advance which carried March up to 11.22 and October to 11.96. The demand was quite readily supplied at these figures, however, and prices later reacted under realizing or liquidation which seemed to be combined with some Southern and local selling for a reaction.

Offerings were not heavy but there appeared to be very little demand after the early buying had been supplied and prices worked off gradually. March sold down to 11.06 and October to 11.78, making reactions of about 15 to 20 points from the high prices of the morning and declines of 7 to 9 points from Saturday's closing quotations. Closing prices were 3 or 4 points up from the lowest on covering.

Reports of a proposed increase in the Indian tax on imports of cotton piece goods may possibly have been a contributing factor on the reaction, although these advices were in the market here before the opening, and no special feature in the day's news was particularly emphasized in connection with the decline. The opening demand was believed to be partly for trade account and included some foreign buying, but the trade demand was reported less active than last week.

Liverpool cables reported covering with continental and Bombay buying on the improved Indian political situation and said there was a sustained demand for cotton cloth and yarns. Exports today, 35,820, making 5,028,895 so far this season. Port receipts, 13,142. U. S. port stocks, 4,003,255.

BONDS ARE STEADY WITH FOREIGNS UP

Treasury Refunding Plan Finds Buoyant Tone in Mart's Response.

New York, March 2 (A.P.)—A slightly improved tone was displayed by the bond market today in response to the announcement of Treasury financing which removed the uncertainty that has existed for some time as a dampening influence on fixed income securities.

Government obligations reacted at the start of the session, but bidding improved as the day advanced, and all but the two Treasury 3⅛s bonds closed firm. The 3⅛s of 1940-43 closed ⅛ net lower, and Treasury 3¾s of 1943-47 was off three-sixteenths at the close after earlier declines ranging as high as fourteen-sixteenths.

Bankers expressed confidence in the plan arranged by the Treasury for refunding the $1,100,000,000 3½ per cent notes, and obtaining an additional $300,000,000 on March 15 and a large oversubscription was expected. It was generally expected that $800,000,000 of the note issue probably would be exchanged for the new bonds and the Treasury certificates maturing in March, 1932, so that only $300,000,000 of the issue would be repaid in cash. In view of the preference given holders of the 3½ per cent notes, 80 per cent of which are estimated to be held by banks, public participation in flotation of the bond issue is expected to be nil.

Although a large Treasury overdraft, possibly the largest in recent years, is in prospect coincident to the midmonth operations by the Government, bankers expect it will have little effect on the money market.

Corporate domestic bonds were irregular, but showed more signs of life. The volume of business, however, was below the average, even for the dull month of February. Railroad and semispeculative bonds were heavy. There was a moderate demand for some of the high grade utilities at slightly higher prices.

The even balance in the domestic section was reflected in the averages for 30 domestic bonds which held at 97.8 for the fourth successive session.

The buoyant tone of Australian government bonds, which rose 1 to 2 1-24 points, and the wide demand for German obligations were conspicuous features of the rise in foreign section. Argentine governments moved upward in response to a gold shipment to support the peso.

TICKER CLUB PICKS FLATHER AS CHIEF

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co. Official Is Honored at Annual Election Meeting.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

A. Chester Flather, a local comanager of G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., was elected president of the Ticker Club of Washington at its annual meeting yesterday at the Metropolitan Club. Mr. Flather, who was vice president of the organization, succeeds George A. Garrett, resident partner of F. B. Keech & Co.

Arthur Foraker, local comanager of Eastman, Dillon & Co., who had been secretary-treasurer of the club, was advanced to the vice presidency, being succeeded by Chester W. Lockwood, resident manager of Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence. W. W. Spaid, partner in W. B. Hibbs & Co., and Past President Garrett were elected to membership on the board of governors.

The club, a mutual cooperative and protective association of local financial houses having membership in the New York Stock Exchange, has concluded an active first year of existence, having held interesting and important meetings each month.

Houses Are Represented.

The following New York Stock Exchange houses are represented in the club:

Fenner & Beane, Hemphill, Noyes & Co., Harriss & Co., W. W. Lanahan & Co., Mackubin, Goodrich & Co., Maynard, Oakley & Lawrence, G. M.-P. Murphy & Co., Stein Bros. & Boyce, Wright, Slade & Co., Eastman, Dillon & Co., W. B. Hibbs & Co., Westheimer & Co., F. B. Keech & Co., M. J. Meehan & Co., E. A. Pierce & Co.

Anthony E. Kaeser, manager for several years of the travel service bureau of Thomas Cook & Son in the Washington Loan & Trust Co. offices, was presented yesterday with a handsome humidor by his associates of the company upon the eve of his departure for Florida, where he has an orange orchard and farm near Tampa.

The presentation was made with an appropriate address expressing regrets of a wide circle of friends whom he had made during his stay in Washington.

Manufacturers of Aircraft.

The annual report of the Glenn L. Martin Co., of Baltimore, manufacturers of aircraft, for the year 1930 showed net profits from operations of $409,006 and other income of $27,732, making gross income of $436,738 available for interest and other charges. From this amount there was deducted interest of $162,796; amortization of note discount and expense $63,800; experimental and development costs $135,357; and miscellaneous expenses of $861, leaving net income of $73,924 transferred to surplus.

The company's balance sheet as of December 31, 1930, showed current assets of $1,768,238 as compared with current liabilities of $157,736.

The Washington Loan & Trust Co. entertained a number of out-of-town bankers who attended the annual banquet of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, Saturday night, at the Willard Hotel, by taking them Sunday morning on a sight-seeing trip of Washington and vicinity. The trip was concluded with a luncheon at the Little Tea House on Mount Vernon road. The party consisted of 25 men and women and was conducted by a number of officers of the bank.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 2.—Formation of Allied General Corporation, a security distributing organization, was announced today. The corporation has been reconstituted by combining the functions and facilities of Founders General Corporation and Insuranshares Corporation. The realignment marks a separation of the security selling functions of the United Founders Corporation group and Insuranshares Corporation group from investment management operations. Chase Donaldson, formerly president of Founders General Corporation, is president of Allied General.

Pilot Radio & Tube Corporation announced the reopening today of its plant at Lawrence, Mass., with the return of its full working force.

Formation was announced of protective committees to represent holders of first mortgage 7 per cent bonds of Sugar Estates of Oriente, Inc., as well as holders of the first lien 20-year sinking fund 7½ per cent gold bonds, dated November 1, 1924, of Cuban Dominican Sugar Corporation. Joseph P. Ripley is chairman of the committee representing holders of the Cuban Dominican bonds, and F. Shelton Farr is chairman of the committee for holders of Sugar Estates of Oriente bonds.

A shipment of $1,230,000 in gold from the Banca de la Republica Oriental of Uruguay has arrived in New York, consigned to the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

A charge that the directors of the American Department Stores, Inc., operating a chain of stores in Ohio, West Virginia and neighboring States, have impaired the capital of the corporation by paying dividends from sums constituting neither earnings nor surplus was made in a suit brought by Harold Mavis, stockholder, in the supreme court.

The Boston Clearing House Association announced that forthwith it would discontinue announcement of daily bank balances and clearances. This action, it was stated, was in line with the action taken in other cities as a result of the use of such figures in lotteries.

The 1930 decline in commodity prices was reflected in the annual report of American Stores Co., which, although showing a decline in dollar volume from 1929, reported a substantial increase in tonnage sales. Net income amounted to $5,930,149, equal to $4.01 a share on the common stock, compared with $6,594,822, or $4.25 a share in 1929. Total net income for 1928 was $5,570,668, or $3.31 a share, substantially under the total for last year.

George H. Howard, president of United Corporation, announced that Utility Holding Co. had arranged to extend its interest in Niagara Hudson Power Corporation to 20 per cent by acquiring 4,070,000 shares of Niagara Hudson common stock owned by the St. Regis Paper Co.

Montgomery Ward & Co. of Chicago reported February sales of $15,244,975, compared with $18,405,885 for the same month last year. Sales in the first two months of 1931 totaled $31,865,213, which was $4,871,785 less than in the first two months of 1930.

Thompson Restaurants Lose $458,251 in 1930

Chicago, March 2 (A.P.).—The John R. Thompson Co., restauranteurs, today reported for the year ended last December 31 net income of $1,126,585, equal to $3.75 a share on capital stock, as compared with $1,584,836, or $5.28 a share in 1929.

Bendix Aviation Corporation today reported preliminary net profit of $1,183,859, after all charges and taxes, for 1930, equal to 56 cents a share, as compared with $7,416,408, or $3.53 a share, in 1929. The directors voted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share, payable April 1 to stock of record March 10.

Curb Review

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—The Curb Market ran into a flurry of selling in the later hours of trading today, after moving irregularly higher during the morning.

Prejudice against the utilities was most pronounced. Trading was moderately active, although the day's transfers of 613,600 shares were some 200,000 less than on Friday.

Electric Bond & Share dropped more than 3 points; American Gas & Electric and American Light & Traction, about 2, and issues off a point or so included United Light A, Middle West and St. Regis. Niagara Hudson held about steady, in response to report of 1930 earnings of 60 cents a share, approximately the same as 1929 net per share.

Oils eased in spots. Gulf dropped 1½ points, and Cities Service lost half as much. Richfield preferred appeared on the tape a fraction higher, in response to the Cities Service's exchange offer.

Industrials were mixed. Aluminum Co. lost 3½ points. Deere closed a point lower, after recording a temporary gain of 2. The low-priced aviations, including Dayton Engine, Detroit Aircraft and General Aviation, were turned over in some volume, with little price change at the finish. Ford, Ltd., lost a fraction.

In the investment company group, United Founders closed a fraction higher, and the Selected Industries preferred issues broke into new high ground. The coppers failed to reflect firmer metal prices, and Newmont lost nearly 2.

COTTONSEED OIL MARKET.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—COTTONSEED OIL—Quiet. Prime crude, 6.50. Prime summer yellow, spot, 7.40; March closed, 7.50; May, 7.70; July, 7.80; September, 7.88.

OIL QUOTATIONS.

Oil City, Pa., March 2 (A.P.).—Credit balance, 81.85. Runs, 86,425; average runs, 86,413. Shipments, 123,612; average shipments, 61,806.

Investing Public May Be Ignored

Prospective Subscribers to U. S. Issue Are Due for Disappointment.

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—The thrifty investor who may be planning to subscribe to the $500,000,000 bond issue announced today by the United States Government is due for a disappointment, bankers say, unless he holds some of the 3½ per cent notes that have been called for payment March 16.

The explanation given by Government bond experts is that the bond issue—the first since 1928—probably will be absorbed through the exchange offer of the Treasury Department. To encourage holders of the 3½ per cent notes, of which there are $1,100,000,000 outstanding, to exchange them for new securities instead of for cash, the Treasury gives them preference in allotting the bond issue, and also the $600,000,000 12 months 2 per cent Treasury certificates.

It is estimated 80 per cent of the note issue is held by banks and large blocks are in the possession of other large institutions, such as insurance companies. Bankers say in view of the present slack demand for money, coupled with the prospect of the new bond issue being quoted at a premium, there will be a large oversubscription for the entire $1,400,000,000 financing plan of the Treasury Department. Hence the smiles in Wall street when public participation in the bond issue was suggested.

Copper Gain Is Bright Spot of Metal Market

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—An advance of a quarter of a cent in copper today provided a bright spot in the irregularity that characterized price movements in nonferrous metals. Despite the advance, which carried the export price to 10.80 cents, c. i. f. European base ports, foreign sales of copper today were in good volume, totaling 5,000,000 pounds. The domestic price was increased to 10½ cents a pound, delivered.

Bar silver today lost the gain it scored Saturday, dropping back ¾ of a cent in New York, to 27 cents an ounce. The metal also was weak in London, where the price dropped ⅛ of a penny, to 12⅝ pence.

Commercial Failures Show Decided Decrease

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—Commercial failures showed a decided drop in February, as compared with the previous month, Bradstreet's reports.

The total for the month was 2,263, with liabilities of $27,272,228, compared with 3,122 defaults with liabilities of $212,788,043 for January. The figures, however, showed an increase of 5.5 per cent over the 2,144 insolvencies reported for February of 1930.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau.
Washington, Monday, March 2—8 p. m.
Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Cloudy, probably snow or rain Tuesday; Wednesday fair; not much change in temperature; increasing northeast winds, backing to northwest Tuesday night.

For Maryland—Cloudy, probably followed by snow in west and snow or rain in east portion Tuesday and Tuesday night; Wednesday generally fair, except snow flurries in extreme west portion; not much change in temperature; increasing northeast winds, becoming strong on the southeast coast and backing to northwest Tuesday night.

For Virginia—Rain on the coast and rain or snow in the interior Tuesday; Wednesday generally fair; not much change in temperature; northeast gales on the coast Tuesday, backing to northwest and diminishing Tuesday night.

The storm disturbance is central tonight over Florida, Titusville, 29.54 inches, and it is moving northeastward with increasing intensity. This disturbance has caused general rains within the last 24 hours from eastern Texas eastward to the South Atlantic Coast. The rainfall was heavy in the Florida peninsula and portions of Louisiana. Fair weather prevails almost elsewhere, except for light local rains in portions of the Middle Atlantic States and Wyoming, and light local snows in portions of the latter region and western Canada. Another disturbance is centered northeast of Lake Superior, White River, Ont., 29.74 inches, and pressure remains abnormally low off Newfoundland. S. S. Montcalm, 28.94 inches. High pressure prevails over the western half of the United States, northern and eastern Alaska and northern and western Canada. Aklavik, District of Mackenzie, 30.64 inches, and Pocatello, Idaho, 30.54 inches. The temperature has fallen in the Atlantic and Gulf States and it has risen from the Pacific Coast eastward to the Rocky Mountain region, and from western Texas northeastward to the upper Lake region.

The Florida disturbance will move northeastward and the Ontario disturbance will move eastward during the next two days, and precipitation is indicated for Canada and the northern and eastern portions of the United States. Temperature changes will be unimportant.

Storm warnings are displayed at Key West, Fla., and from Cape Hatteras to the Virginia Capes.

KENTUCKY DEFEATS FLORIDA IN DIXIE SEMIFINALS

O'Reilly Sees Penn Victor In Meet

G. U. Coach Leans to Quakers With Coan, Berlinger Shining.

Cornell and Harvard Chief Foes in Intercollegiates.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE University of Pennsylvania Team, says John D. O'Reilly, track sage of Georgetown, will win the tenth running of the I. C. 4-A track and field indoor championships to be held Saturday in New York City.

Coach O'Reilly, let it be stated here, knows his college track. He's seen them come and go, develops stars legion and predicted accurately the future of many a team and individual in his twenty years of experience. Last year he also picked Penn. The result was a tie between Penn and Cornell. In 1929 he leaned to his own Georgetown Team and Georgetown finished a close second.

It is an easier proposition, picking Penn this year, asserts O'Reilly. He figures the Red and Blue to score in ten of the eleven events. In the 2-mile relay only does the silver-haired Hilltop mentor leave Lawson Robertson's squad out of the first five places.

Cornell and Howard Boast Strength.

Cornell, again, and Harvard and New York U. will offer closest contention, declared O'Reilly. Georgetown, he believes, will do as well as may be expected of a small, rather inexperienced team.

Barney Berlinger, giant all-around star, will carry the burden for Penn. This is not O'Reilly's own idea. The collegiate world, as a whole, looks to the strapping Berlinger to do great things. He is picked by O'Reilly, however, to place one-two in the broad jump and shot, and to get at least third in the pole vault. If he does no worse than that, he will set a new record for individual scoring in the big Eastern indoor classic.

Carl Coan, sensational junior who recently knocked off a 4:13 mile to defeat the great Ray Conger, is O'Reilly's choice in the mile run. In this same event is selected Bill McKiff, winner of the mile last winter, whom the Georgetown University coach places third. Bullwinkle, of New York University, outdoor champion, is assigned second place.

Slezak Big Hope Of Georgetown.

Steiner, 35-pound weight throw artist, and the Penn 1-mile relay team are other first-place O'Reilly selections.

Georgetown's team will be composed of Bill Slezak, weight tosser and shot putter; Al Kelly, sprinter; Bernie Bonniwell, high jumper, and a 2-mile team. The personnel of the relay quartet still lacks one member, the nomination lying between Chuck Carlin and John Downing, who will battle it out in a time trial either today or tomorrow. Capt. Vic Burke, Jim Kelly and Jack Mara already have been named on this team.

O'Reilly is hopeful that Slezak will surprise his rivals in the weight and shot. Lately, in practice, Slezak has been hitting near 50 feet in the weight and 49 in the shot—both marks close to winning ones in his class of competition. The 2-mile team has proved its formidability in earlier races and may, thinks the coach, grab off second or third place. Kelly, the dash man, has a look-in in the 70-yard race, according to O'Reilly.

MARQUARD IN NEW JOB.

Atlanta, Ga., March 2 (A.P.).—Rube Marquard isn't through with baseball. This summer he will be bossing the boys of the Columbus (Ga.) Team in the newly formed Dixie Association.

Marquard, a southpaw pitcher and teammate of the late Christy Mathewson when both were with the New York Giants, last year managed the Jacksonville (Fla.) Club.

Old Soldier Picks Nats to Win

THE same Washington Team which finished second to the Athletics last year will win the 1931 pennant, is the belief of William J. Sainter, of the U. S. Soldiers' Home.

Mr. Sainter, an 80-year-old war veteran, was one of the grist of yesterday's contributors to The Post's baseball contest which invites fans of Washington and vicinity to express their views of the Nats' 1931 prospects.

The only doubt in the mind of Mr. Sainter as to the make-up of the Washington Team concerns second base. He is undecided as to whether Buddy Myer, last year's regular, or Jack Hayes, will clinch the post. It is because he believes that the club is due a bit better pitching from the same staff that he predicts the pennant.

CONTEST RULES FEW

The Post's contest is proving a popular medium for local fans to express their views of the team according to the response which it has met. There are no complications. Merely write in an article of not more than 250 words, on one side of the paper, your opinion of the Nats' chances. To the fan who best sets forth his or her reasons for the make-up of the team and where it will finish The Post will present a block of six box seats to the opening game with the Athletics April 14. The contest will close April 1.

Here is a chance for the faithful and the skeptics. Address your letters to The Post's "Baseball Editor." Every fan is invited to participate.

Freeman, Thompson Sign for Title Bout

Cleveland, March 2 (A.P.).—Tommy Freeman, welterweight champion, and Young Jack Thompson, former title holder, signed here today for a 15-round title bout to be fought in Cleveland April 14, subject to approval of the boxing commission.

The boxing commission, which voted today that in future bouts the winner will be picked by two judges with the referee, will consider approval of the title bout Thursday.

The contract for the Freeman-Thompson scrap provides for Freeman to receive 50 per cent of the receipts. Thompson will get 10 per cent. They will weigh in at 147 pounds.

French Tennis Team Changed by Borotra

Paris, March 3 (A.P.).—Jean Borotra, French Davis Cup star, who heads a French team leaving Wednesday for an invasion of American indoor tennis circles today announced a shift in his forces.

He said Rene de Buzelet, one of the most promising of the French youngsters, was unable to go to the United States and that his place would be taken by the veteran, Purre Landry. The other member of the team is Christian Boussus.

Jacques Brugnon, who followed Rene LaCoste to the hospital yesterday to have his appendix out, today was reported doing well. The two operations, following each other so closely, have robbed the French Davis Cup forces of two veterans on whom they were placing high hopes this year.

CLOONAN GETS JOB.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 2.—Tommy Cloonan, who started his professional baseball career in Cumberland, today received a contract from Charleston, one of the four entries in the Middle Atlantic League, which he said he would sign. Cloonan became a free agent as soon as Clarksburg failed to exercise its reserve rights by not sending him a contract before March 1. It is understood that Beckley, another new member of the league, is after Joe Conti, former Cumberland third baseman.

Big Southpaw Impresses Johnson

Griffith Shows Speed With Wet Ball in Brief Workout.

Marberry, 10 Pounds Overweight, Eager to Play, Signs.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 2—While Manager Walter Johnson is so satisfied with his last season's mound staff that he is not paying particular attention to the rookie hopefuls at the spring training camp here, he admitted today that "Lefty" Lynn Griffith's work has caught his eye.

Griffith is just the type of hurler who would appeal to the Nat leader—a big, strong fellow, with a world of speed. In baseball, southpaws generally are referred to as "Cuckoos," but Griffith is a serious-minded chap who is determined to make good, if possible, and is taking his training in a most businesslike manner.

It was not until this afternoon that Griffith suddenly was noticed. A heavy rain prevented the young Nats from toiling this morning and it ruined the planned drill in the afternoon, a downpour hitting the park just after the athletes had donned their uniforms. As Sunday was an off day, Johnson decided on a little work even in the rain, not wanting his boys to have a two-day layoff.

Griffith Shows Plenty.

Griffith, paired up in the exchange of catches with Roy Spencer, suddenly started cutting loose. Trainer Mike Martin quickly warned him, but he declared that his arm felt fine and so was allowed to go ahead. Even with a water-soaked ball he showed plenty.

This rookie has the ideal build for a pitcher, if that counts for anything. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall, with his 176 pounds being well distributed. He will not be 23 years old until next August.

Griffith has been playing pro ball only two seasons, having graduated from the sandlots of Bryan, Tex., to the St. Louis Cardinals in the spring of 1921. He failed to last out the training camp season with the National Leaguers, being shifted to their Houston farm, where he remained until just before the season started, and then was given his release.

League Dropped From Under Him.

Palestine, of the Lone Star League, then picked him up, but this circuit disbanded soon thereafter and Griffith was without a job again. Dallas, of the Texas League, signed him last spring and, although he won his only start, getting a shutout in an exhibition game, he was released by the Steers, and then signed with the Joplin Club of the Western Association.

From all reports, "Griff" looked like a Lefty Grove in that circuit. He participated in 43 games, saving several for mates while filling a relief role, and ended with a record of 21 victories and 13 defeats. In this 281 innings he fanned 245.

"I could bust 'em by 'em in that league," he told Manager Johnson tonight, "but I don't know whether or not I could in this one."

"You keep on plugging and show me a little more and you might get a chance to find out," the Nat leader replied.

Fred Marberry, who reported here last night and who signed up this morning for the same salary he drew last season, took a real workout today. Between showers, he and Sam West went to the park this morning. After waiting around awhile for their mates to show up, they decided to do their "daily dozen." No baseball was played, but both did plenty of running with Trainer Martin on hand to supervise their work.

Marberry, by the way, declares that he is only 10 pounds heavier now than he was in midseason last year. He alternated long hikes with golf rounds while at Hot Springs and took a full course of baths and says he is as hard as nails right now.

The big Texan declares that he is just as anxious to be "right" at the start of the season as is Manager Johnson, but he insists he was in condition when 1930 started. "My poor start last year was not due to lack of condition," he said. "I simply suddenly discovered that I had lost my fast one and had to change my whole pitching style as a result. I was getting my speed back toward the end of last season, just before I was hurt, and believe that I will have a fast ball I can depend upon this year."

Let's hope so.

Outfielder Sam Rice arrived here from Hot Springs this morning, but was excused from any work today.

N. Y. Solons to Hear Tut, Petrolle Today

New York, March 2 (A.P.).—All questions pertaining to the four-round knockout of Kid Tut, Minneapolis junior welterweight, by Billy Petrolle, Fargo lightweight, in their ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden last Friday night, will be thrashed out tomorrow at the weekly meeting of the New York State Athletic Commission.

The purses of the fighters have been held up pending investigation of the authenticity of the knockout and both warriors have been suspended in Minnesota. Tut and Petrolle, with their managers, have been ordered to appear at headquarters along with Referee Johnny McAvoy and the two judges who officiated at the match.

WHETHER you're from Missouri or not there really is a Santa Claus, and if you doubt it his address is Route No. 4, Slater, Mo. Strange as it seems, this Santa hasn't a beard—or even a mustache! He is a young man and lives on a farm, but he is a preacher, so next time you write better make it Rev. Santa Claus.

There is a 9-mile railroad between Pekin, Ill., and Peoria, but if a letter is mailed after 5:30 p. m. it doesn't travel over this railroad. Instead it goes to Springfield and thence to Peoria, arriving at 6:25 a. m. the next morning. If the letter were held for the next direct train to Peoria it would leave at 7:13 a. m. and arrive 22 mnutes later, according to W. M. Cohenour, mailing clerk at Pekin.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address John Hix, care of The Washington Post, and enclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply.

CLEVELAND SUSPENDS MORGAN

Star Fails to Report; Reynolds Holding Out on Chisox.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 2 (A.P.).—Eddie Morgan, erstwhile first baseman of the Cleveland Americans, now honeymooning somewhere in the south, was automatically suspended today when he failed to show up with the rest of the fielders. If he decides that, after all, he doesn't want to be a full-time businessman, he will have to be reinstated by club officials.

With the entire squad in camp, rain and cool weather precluded practice today.

Mack Needs 4 Hurlers, He Says.

Fort Myers, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—Wet grounds kept the Philadelphia Athletics from practicing today, so Manager Mack did the talking for the squad.

"I see by the papers," said Connie, "that I'm looking for a pitcher. The truth is I'm looking for four. I have six regulars, and I want four youngsters who can stand the gaff. Why? Because it looks like a pitching year. The new ball is the reason. The pitchers are chuckling among themselves, confident this is their year. That's why I want some more."

Red Sox Would Use Winsett's Hitting.

Pensacola, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—The Boston Red Sox, with the idea of capitalizing John Winsett's long hitting, are trying to change the Tennessee youngster from an outfielder to a first baseman. The boy has an extraordinary length of arm and leg and a natural ease of adapting himself. Despite these advantages, however, Manager Collins fears he will not be ripe for at least two more seasons, as he is not a clever glove handler, even in his native outfield.

Ruth, Excused, Takes Workout.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2 (A.P.), George Herman Ruth, apparently as enthusiastic about the game that made him famous as he was 15 years ago, turned down a chance for a vacation today.

A heavy rain led Manager Joe McCarthy to excuse all the New York Yankees from work except the pitchers and catchers but Ruth, Earle Combs, Dusty Cooke and Lyn Lary donned uniforms and worked out for an hour and a half anyway.

Reynolds Holds Out On Chisox.

San Antonio, Tex., March 2 (A.P.).—Chicago White Sox officials had a holdout problem to consider today, Carl Reynolds, who tied Babe for third place in American League batting last season, having failed to agree to terms.

Reynolds was reported to have been offered $10,000 for his services, but was likewise reported to have set

Grand National Odds Favor Whitney Entry

London, March 2 (A.P.).—Odds posted today at the Victoria Club on the Grand National Steeplechase, to be run at Old Aintree March 27, showed Easter Hero, J. H. (Jock) Whitney's American jumper, a co-favorite at 100 to 7 against, with Sir Lindsay, also owned by Whitney, and Drintyre.

Shaun Goilin, last year's winner, was posted at 33 to 1, and Gregalach, 1929 winner, at 66 to 1.

The odds on Easter Hero and Sir Lindsay are not long when it is considered that in past races only two or three horses have finished the gruelling grind of four and a fraction miles out of starting fields of two score of the world's best steeplechasers.

4 MAT TEAMS IN SOUTHERN TOURNEY

Event at Lexington, Va., Draws Four of 1930 Winners.

LEXINGTON, Va., March 1 (A.P.). Four Southern Conference teams have entered the second annual wrestling tournament to be held in Jackson Hall, Virginia Military Institute, on March 6 and 7. North Carolina, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Washington and Lee and Virginia Military Institute will enter full teams of eight men each.

Maj. Blandy Clarkson, tournament manager, said tonight there still was a possibility of Duke, which competed in the tournament last year, making a last-minute entry, and that North Carolina State also might enter.

Four of the eight champions crowned last year, when V. M. I. won the tournament, with V. P. I. as runner-up, will compete again this year. Colby Graves, V. P. I. 115-pound champion of last year, will enter the 126-pound class this time. Stuart Will, of V. M. I., is in the same devision, though the new rules have changed the 126-pound class by adding a pound to the maximum weight limit. Capt. Woods Talman, of V. M. I., will defend his 165-pound title, and Tex Tilson, of Washington and Lee, will try to retain his 175-pound-class honors.

Other winners of last year graduated.

Former Big Leaguer To Pilot Coast Club

Stockton, Calif., March 2 (A.P.).—George Burns, former American League star, today took over management of the San Francisco Missions for the 1931 season, replacing Wade "Red" Killifer, who is recovering from an abdominal operation

"IRON HAND" OF M'GRAW APPEARS

Three Tardy Giants Fined; Quinn at Robins' Camp.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 2 (A.P.).—John McGraw's famous "iron hand" made its appearance today. John surveyed his New York Giants and discovered that five regulars had not arrived in camp as ordered and he promptly imposed fines of a day's pay each on three of them. The unlucky trio consisted of Bill Terry, Fred Fitzsimmons and Frank Hogan.

The other absentees were Hub Pruett and Joe Genewich, but both had permission to delay their arrival.

Duffy Lewis to Coach Braves.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2.—Rain prevented the scheduled scrub game between the Boston Braves regulars and rookies today, limiting the practice of the Tribe to slow jogs around the playing field.

President Fuchs, accompanied by Duffy Lewis, one time Red Sox outfielder, arrived in camp today. Lewis will assist Hank Gowdy as coach.

Phils' Pitchers Let Out.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 2—Pitchers cut loose for the first time this season as Manager Burt Shotton drove his Philadelphia Phillies through a long drill today. Elliott, Stoner and Schesser showed a "hop" on their fast balls and appear farthest advanced of the moundsmen. Outfielder Hal Lee reached camp today, two days before the second detachment of players is scheduled to report.

Rain Puts Breaks On Reds.

Tampa, Fla., March 2.—Bad weather prevented the Cincinnati Reds from working outdoors today and Manager Dan Howley put his charges through two brief indoor drills. Weather permitting, Howley plans to inaugurate one-a-day practice sessions tomorrow.

Jack Quinn Reports To Robins.

Clearwater, Fla., March 2.—Catcher Al Lopez and Jack Quinn, veteran spitball pitcher, were in uniform for the first time today as the Robins engaged in a light workout. Lefty O'Doul, Johnny Frederick and Murray Howell, who drifted into the camp over the week-end, were disappointed when not allowed to put on a uniform.

Hornsby Teaches Pitchers.

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 2.—Manager Rogers Hornsby is going to be sure his pitchers know how to keep runners close to bases this season. He put the tossers through another long drill of this kind today.

Later the whole team went through a batting and fielding drill under the hottest sun of the training

Wildcats in Van, 25-18, At Half in Hard-Fought Southern Conference Tilt

Yates and McGinnis Lead Attack for Kentucky.

Cherry, Sub, Shines After 'Gator Leader Is Ousted.

Special to The Washington Post.

Atlanta, Ga., March 2.—Maryland University tonight entered the finals of the Southern Conference basket ball championship tournament by defeating the favored University of Georgia team 26-25 in their semi-final game tonight.

Special to The Washington Post.

AUDITORIUM, Atlanta, March 2.—Kentucky's high-scoring five went into the finals of the annual Southern Conference basket ball championship tournament here tonight by defeating a game Florida team, 56 to 35, in the first semifinal of the night.

The Wildcats showed their eyes were bright in the first half and continued to pepper the corda throughout the second chapter, when they scored 31 points. Florida, which had hung on grimly in the opening period, simply could not summon a defense that could effectively handle McGinniss and Yates, the two Kentucky sharpshooters.

Florida took an early field goal lead over Kentucky when Baker looped one from almost directly under the basket in the opening semifinal game.

Kentucky's passing, with Yates and McGinniss leading in the scoring soon put the Wildcats 6 points in the lead as the first period progressed, but Florida had crept up within 2 of the Kentuckians when the score stood Kentucky, 19; Florida, 17.

Capt. Waters, of the Gators, went to the sidelines on four personal fouls within a short time after the period opened. Cherry, who went in for Waters, looped three field goals to aid the Florida attack.

Two field goals in rapid succession by McGinniss, Kentucky's diminutive forward, soon had the Wildcats pulling away from the Gators and when the half closed Kentucky was leading 25 to 18.

Maryland, the dark horse from the North Atlantic section of the conference, was to meet Georgia, which finished the regular season on top of the pack, in the second semifinal game of the night.

Most experts viewing previous proceedings anticipated a gruelling defensive struggle between Maryland and Georgia, but some few felt that the Old Liners and Bulldogs would finally start hitting the basket.

3 Records Forecast In Collegiate Games

New York, March 2.—New records for 1 mile, 2 miles and pole vault are forecast for the I. C. A. A. A. track championships to be held here Saturday.

Carl Coan, Penn youngster, who scored a sensational victory over Ray Conger in 4:13 recently, is seen as almost certain of breaking Jimmy Connolly's 4:17.8 college mile record. Joe McCluskey, of Fordham, has hopes of beating the 2-mile standard of 9:22.8. McCluskey this season has been timed under 9:20 three times. The third new mark seen is in the pole vault in which Everett Colyer, of Cornell, has done better than the 13 feet 7¾ inches, record of Fredy Sturdy, formerly of Yale.

Lott Defeats Van Ryn For Pan-American Title

Miami Beach, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—George Lott, Chicago, won the singles title in the Pan-American tennis championships today for the second successive year, defeating John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., 6—2, 1—6, 6—2, 6—4, in the finals.

The first three sets were played in a drizzling rain before a handful of spectators. A downpour before the start of the fourth set forced the players to move into a glass-enclosed court to complete the match.

English Women to Bid For Another Golf Title

St. Augustine, Fla., March 2 (A.P.).—The English invasion of Florida women's golf tournaments will make its third stand here this week. Led by Diana Fishwick, the British champion, the English team has failed to win at Palm Beach and Ormond and will face even stronger opposition in the Florida East Coast championships starting tomorrow.

Maureen Orcutt, one of the "big four" of American women golfers, has entered. She joins Helen Hicks, the Palm Beach winner; Martha Parker, the Ormond South Atlantic champion; Marian Bennett, New Britain, Conn.; Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, and a dozan sterling golfers to defend the American colors.

Miss Van Wie, defeated by Miss Hicks at Palm Beach, is the defending champion in the East Coast tourney.

Tech Bows to Eastern In Practice Fray, 37-29

Eastern's Basket Ball Team gained a 37-29 decision over Tech yesterday afternoon in Eastern Gym in a game which Tech generously offered to play in order that the Lincoln Parkers might be in the best of condition for their quest of the Washington and Lee court title.

Eastern used its entire complement of players and enjoyed a fairly comfortable lead from start to finish. Coach Guyon's reserve players came through in good style while they were in the gray, but it was the regulars who put the finishing touches on the game.

COLO. FAVORS MUTUELS.

Denver, March 2 (A.P.).—Pari-mutuel betting at authorized race meetings would be allowed under a bill passed today by the Colorado House, 34 to 27. The bill goes to the Senate, where supporters claim enough votes to win.

WIN BERMUDA TITLE.

Hamilton, Bermuda, March 2 (A.P.).—Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, and Sarah Palfrey, of Boston, won the mixed doubles final of the Bermuda tennis championships today, defeating Berkeley Bell, of Dallas Tex., and Virginia Rice, of Boston, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5.

MARINE GAME DELAYED.

Parris Island, S. C., March 2 (A.P.).—Because the airplanes bearing the Quantico Basket Ball Team did not arrive here until late today, the basket ball game scheduled for tonight between Quantico and Parris Island was postponed until tomorrow. Bad weather delayed the planes

WOODSIDE WINNER.

Woodside basketers last night eked out a 1-point decision, 20-19, to defeat the Kensington Howitzers and gain first place in the Montgomery County Basket Ball League. The eventual winners at one time were trailing, 10-0.

TEAMS AWAIT START OF A. A. U. COURT TOURNEY

Outstanding Favorites Absent

No Unlimited Team Has Monopoly on Star Players.

Post Will Publish Pairing of Clubs Tomorrow.

IT'S the lull before the storm in basket ball circles of Washington and vicinity, as virtually every team of note in this section anxiously awaits the start of The Washington Post's fifth annual A. A. U. championship tournament, which opens Monday night at the Tech-High Gymnasium.

While there are some scattered games scheduled by the teams which set a new record for entries in an A. A. U. sectional tournament, the majority of teams are using the last few days in brushing up on their play before the furious action, known only to tournament play, gets under way.

A. A. U. Officials To Make Draw.

District A. A. U. officials will make the draw for the seven classes tonight, and the result will be published in tomorrow's edition of The Post. Interest is particularly keen as to how the record group of unlimited clubs will line up.

Unlike previous years, when there have been one or two outstanding favorites among the entries, the lists this year show that few teams stand out. Likewise, the eligibility lists, which will be published in The Post later this week, bring out the fact that star players are sprinkled throughout the division, with no team havinga monopoly on the so-called leading playsrs.

The serious business of weighing the players of the four lighter classes will start tomorrow night at the Boys' Club. Third and C streets northwest, between 7 and 9:30 o'clock.

Boys Club Scales Are Tested.

Players in the 10 and 115-pound classes will be weighed tomorrow, with 130 and 145-pound players being scheduled to report Thursday night. District A. A. U. officials will be in charge. The famous Boys' Club scales, long a dread to some of the beefy youngsters, will be tested and sealed today.

The schedule for Monday and Tuesday nights' programs will be announced later in the week.

Swetman and Haas In Terminal Feature

Doug Swetman and Harry Haas, lightweights, will hook up tonight in the feature bout of a card of five scraps at the Terminal Gymnasium sponsored by the Washington Terminal Athletic Association.

In addition to this event, Matchmaker Jack Whiteley has garnered a presentable supporting bill. Gus Wolfgran, 210-pound protege of Whiteley's, is bracketed with Frank Vance, 173-pound slugger.

Much interest is being displayed over the Jackie Ryan-Frankie Mayhew scrap. Mayhew has, a 2-pound advantage on his man, weighing 126, but will have to step all the way to gain the verdict.

In the other bouts, Pau' Dagikos and Joe Swetman mix matters, while Ben Hall and Bill Ketchum round out the bill. Both these matches are of the lightweight variety.

"Reds" Ball will be the third man in the ring.

Special to The Washington Post.

PROBABLE candidates for the Florida Derby to be run Saturday, closing day of the meeting, have opportunities during the early part of this week to get conditioning workouts under colors. The feature today, as on yesterday, is devoted to the exploitation of 3-year-olds. The race is fourth on the program, is called the El Comodore, at a mile and a half, and while including some valuable young horses in the field, is under claiming conditions.

KENSINGTON, on a heavy track, appears a shade the best of the field, his last race adding to his chances, for he beat Outburst and Batty, coming from behind, in 1:46 1-5, on a track that was not fast. UPSWEEP'S last race makes him a keen contender on paper. There is a chance that BLUE LAW may wake up in this race.

FIRST RACE—AURICA, freshened up by a rest from racing for a fortnight, looks best on a heavy track for the first race, a claiming affair for fillies at six furlongs. LITTLE AMERICA is rated the contender.

SECOND RACE—This field is made up of fillies. GALAPAN just missed last out, beaten a head by Francis D in an upset, but she should run ahead of the field in this if Eaby will keep his eyes open. VOLCRY should improve. SKETCH can do better than her recent races show.

THIRD RACE—WOODGAIN, a reliable mudder, may repeat in the third race. He beat MINERALOGIST last out on a heavy track. The latter should be the contender again.

FIFTH RACE—LAHOR again finds the track conditions to suit him, and should beat the four-horse field in the Charity Claiming Handicap, at a mile and seventy yards. He should have little trouble in trimming PLAY FELLOW'S DREAM and BROWN TRAP, the contenders, probably in the order named.

SIXTH RACE—GLENNO should beat WISECRACK again, both starting in the sixth race. This was the order of their finish last week. BRUSH led SANCTION home last week and should be in the money in this race.

SEVENTH RACE—ALL COLUMBIA can retrieve her defeat last week by JIMMY JINGLE. It was one of those upsets. The daughter of Flying Ebony has won three races in the South and she was backed to favorite in her last start but lost by a neck to a horse she can beat at any distance.

NEW TENNIS QUEEN IN ACTION

Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland, Calif., tennis star, celebrated news of her selection as No. 1 in the national ranking for women tennis players in 1930 with a brisk workout at the Berkeley Tennis Club. She displaced Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, who did not compete in last year's national championship.

C. U. AIMING FOR TRACK TROPHY

Sees Navy Team as Chief Rival in Meet at Brookland.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY track athletes have high hopes of bettering their showing of last year in the indoor carnival scheduled Saturday night in Brookland gymnasium. In 1930 the Cardinals scored only six points as Maryland University's well-balanced squad ran away with the team trophy.

This year finds Catholic University much stronger and Maryland weaker, the latter having lost several stars by graduation. From present indications the Cardinals' Saturday night will receive their hardest opposition from the Naval Academy team.

Coach Dorsey Griffith is looking for fine performances from Lyons in the dashes, Krick and Fraatz in the hurdles, Garofalo in the 2-mile run, and the 2-mile relay team which is to be selected from Garofalo, Ragusa, Farris, McGuigan and Hickey. Griffith will hold time trials tomorrow night in the gym to determine the make-up of his 2 and 1-mile quartets.

INDUSTRIAL COUNCIL REVIEWS EXPANSION

85 Delegates From Over U. S. Attend Parley at Capital Chamber.

Industrial expansion throughout the country during the past year is being reviewed by the American Industrial Development Council at a conference which opened yesterday at the United States Chamber of Commerce and will continue through today.

The conference is being attended by 85 delegates, including industrial bureau managers of chambers of commerce and community organizations throughout the country. Industrial representatives of railroads are also in attendance.

D. A. Skinner, secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the delegates yesterday morning. Talks were made throughout the day by departmental heads of the United States Chamber, Director of the Census Stewart, Edward R. Dewey, chief of the industrial marketing division of the Census Bureau, and Dr. R. J. McFall, also of the Census Bureau.

George C. Smith, of St. Louis, president of the council, is presiding at the sessions. In his keynote address yesterday he declared that the salesmanager, and not "some finance board" will deliver the country from the present depression. He attributed the slump to the lack of a set of controls to slow business down or speed it up as conditions warrant.

The conference will close with an election of officers this afternoon.

Mate Was Cruel, Wife Tells Court

Mary B. Murphy Asserts He Told Stories About Her, in Divorce Plea.

Charges that her husband discussed his intimate marital relations with other persons, and also told exaggerated stories about her, feature a suit for limited divorce and alimony filed yesterday in District Supreme Court by Mary B. Murphy, of Delafield street northwest, near Twelfth street, against Donald V. Murphy, said to be a prominent business man of Syracuse, N. Y.

Mrs. Murphy, through Attorney Madison L. Hill, tells the court that, although her husband was away from Washington attending to his business for long periods of time, they were happily married until April 1929. At that time, she alleges, he began a systematic course of cruel treatment toward her, which caused her to become nervous and hysterical.

The wife also declares that in November, 1930, Murphy told her he would no longer support her, but would allow her $100 a month for the children, or $40 a month if he continued to make payments on the house. She states that Murphy has asked her to come to New York to live, but that he has never provided her with a home there, and that she has refused because of his treatment of her.

Richard Lawton Ends 40 Years of Service

After more than 40 years in the Government service, Richard Lawton, veteran clerk in the Adjutant General's Office of the United States War Department, will be transferred to the civil service retired list April 1. A leave of absence has been granted him to that date.

For many years Mr. Lawton has been employed in the compilation of the Army Register and other official publications of the War Department. On the eve of his retirement he was presented with a traveling bag for use on his forthcoming trip to his birthplace in Ireland. Besides the gift from his associates he was given a personal letter of commendation by Maj. Gen. C. H. Bridges, adjutant general of the Army.

Dr. Miriam Van Waters Will Address Women

Dr. Miriam Van Waters, judge of the juvenile court of Los Angeles, Calif., will address the Voteless District of Columbia League of Women Voters at luncheon this afternoon at 12:15 o'clock at the Hamilton Hotel. Dr. Van Waters will speak on "Adolescent Delinquency."

Other honor guests will include Sanford Bates, director of the Bureau of Prisons; First Assistant Superintendent of Schools Stephen E. Kramer and Dr. Paul J. Ewerhardt, psychiatrist of the Washington Child Guidance Clinic. Mrs. F. B. Croxton, chairman of the school hygiene committee of the league, will preside.

Pastor Will Lecture For Benefit of School

An illustrated lecture for the benefit of the Bishop Payne Divinity School will be presented by Dr. Z. Barney Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, at 8 o'clock tonight in the parish hall of the church. His subject will be, "Our Work Among the Negroes."

The Bishop Payne Divinity School, located at Petersburg, Va., is the only Episcopal Theological Seminary devoted exclusively to the training of Negroes for the ministry. A program of Negro spirituals will be presented tonight by a group of girls from the National Training School.

Paint Salesman Sees Better Business Ahead

Following an inspection survey covering ten cities of the Atlantic seaboard, E. L. Lazarus, director of sales promotion for a national paint house, yesterday reported a better business outlook than at any time in the last eighteen months.

Paint jobbers, he said, are doing more business than they have for eight years, and in all lines there seems to be "more confidence and sales activity." Leaving Washington January 11, Mr. Lazarus visited New York, Rochester, Buffalo, Atlantic City, Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Norfolk and Richmond.

Messenger Is Honored At State Department

Richard H. Hawkins, for 50 years a messenger in the foreign administration division of the State Department, yesterday was presented with an embossed leather billfold, containing 50 $1-bills—a bill for each year of service. The presentation was made by Assistant Secretary of State Wilber J. Carr as a tribute to Mr. Hawkins' long record.

In addition to the gift, he received a personal letter from Secretary Stimson complimenting him on his "long and satisfactory record." In the letter Secretary Stimson said: "The uniform courtesy and diligence with which you have performed your duties is appreciated by all with whom you come in contact."

Income Tax Facts

NO. 36.

Various penalties are imposed by the statute for failure to file a return and pay the tax on time, and for making a fraudulent return. Discrimination is made between failure and "willful failure" to file a return. For failure to file a return on time the penalty is 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, unless a return is later filed and it is satisfactorily shown to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue that such failure was due to a reasonable cause and not to willful neglect. If a taxpayer exercised ordinary business care and prudence, and nevertheless was unable to file a return within the prescribed time, the delay is due to a "reasonable cause."

For willful failure to make a return the penalty is not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than one year, or both, and in addition 25 per cent of the amount of the tax. For willfully making a false or fraudulent return the penalty is not more than $10,000, or imprisonment for not more than 5 years, or both, and in addition 50 per cent of the amount of the tax.

CLEANUP OF CAPITAL SET FOR LATE APRIL

Commissioner Reichelderfer and Employment Group Agree on Time.

The National Capital will undertake its annual spring-cleaning job in a big way the third and fourth weeks of April, the District committee on employment decided at a meeting yesterday afternoon.

Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the committee, called on Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of District Commissioners, and an agreement was reached on the date for the campaign. It was set late purposely to avoid any possible post-season snows or cold waves.

A small committee inside the employment group will be named later to direct the drive and the cooperation of the several trade bodies, garden clubs, civic organizations and the like will be invited. An especial effort to make the clean-up campaign the most thorough in recent history will be made, Mr. Delano said, because of the nearness of the Washington Bicentennial celebration.

An added scheme to give work for unemployed truck owners will likely be attempted this season. As the District engineering department is unable to cart away all the trash collected in the various neighborhoods during the campaign, the committee will seek to organize householders and raise a small fund for employing a community truck.

Elwood Street suggested at the meeting yesterday that the drive be enlarged to include all needed repair and rebuilding work, but the committee decided not to adopt such an expansive program even though it would encourage all improvements.

The committee also issued a statement denying that it would be disbanded at once, despite its action at a previous meeting. As yet the smaller executive committee that is to carry on the work has not been appointed and no action in this direction is expected until after the cleanup drive.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

CONFEREES AGREE ON EXTRA SUM FOR MT. VERNON ROAD

700,000 as Additional Fund Is Favored After Attacks.

HOWELL AND SIMMONS RAP COST AS EXCESSIVE

Final Argeement on Second Deficiency Measure Is Expected Today.

Provision of $2,700,000 additional for completion of the George Washington memorial boulevard running along the riverside from Washington to Mount Vernon was agreed to yesterday by House and Senate conferees on the second deficiency bill.

Senate conferees acceded to an amendment proposed by the representatives of the House providing that the $2,700,000 should be made to complete construction of the boulevard, the cost of which has been the subject of sharp and caustic criticism in both House and Senate.

Howell Attacks Cost.

This amendment is not thought to mean much of anything beyond an expression by Congress that advance estimates of the cost of public works should be more accurate than were the estimates of the cost of constructing the boulevard.

Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, who had held up consideration of a separate bill providing the additional moneys on several occasions, declared the excess of the cost of the boulevard beyond the estimate originally authorized by Congress was "outrageous."

In the House Representative Simmons (Republican), Nebraska, declared that if the road were covered with silver dollars from here to Mount Vernon it could not cost more than it seemed likely to cost.

Fess Defends Bureau.

Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, defended the Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture, in charge of building the boulevard, declaring that when the engineers had made their first estimate of the cost it had been expected another route would be chosen. Subsequent to the congressional authorization of the road, Senator Fess said, the commission in charge had deemed it better to have the road built along the Virginia bank of the river, which meant that large fills had to be made across marshy land and the cost of bridges had to be increased materially.

As agreed to by the conferees the second deficiency bill also carried the item of $450,000 for subsistence for Government employes abroad.

Final agreement on the measure is expected today. Conferees are to meet again this afternoon. Except for one or two amendments the conference report was approved by both House and Senate yesterday and agreement on the items in dispute is expected today.

Doctor Blames Poor Eyes for Auto Mishaps

Baltimore, Md., March 3 (A.P.).—Defective eyes will cause the traffic deaths of 5,000 persons in the United States this year, according to Dr. Edward H. Silver, of Washington, who spoke today at the concluding sessions of the Tri-State Optometric Association's second annual convention here.

Dr. Silver advocated that all States follow Maryland's example in making compulsory vision tests a prerequisite to the granting of motor vehicle driving licenses. Delegates from the District of Columbia and Delaware as well as Maryland attended the convention. Dr. Silver is chairman of the motor vehicle commission of the American Optometric Association.

Annapolis Citizen Reported Missing

2 Boats Employed to Drag Harbor Near Places He Was Seen.

Annapolis, Md., March 2.—Authorities of nearby cities have been furnished with a description of G. Paul Molden, 41, who has been missing from his home here since last Friday morning.

Local police, at the instance of Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, employed two oyster boats, the crews of which have been dragging the local harbor with grapplings. Molden is said to have been last seen along the harbor front Friday afternoon.

According to his wife, Molden has been suffering from amnesia and left his home presumably to go to work. He is said to have had about $100 in his pocket. Employes at the East Street Garage, which he conducted, said Molden was at the establishment only a short time Friday.

Virginia Matron Is Taken by Death

Mrs. W. E. Pollard, Mother of Prominent Official, Dies at Kenilworth.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 2.—Mrs. Effie Brownley Pollard, 58, wife of William E. Pollard, of Kenilworth, and mother of Commonwealth's Attorney Charles E. Pollard, of this city, died this morning.

Mrs. Pollard was a native of Wilson, N. C., but the most of her life was spent near Petersburg.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Pollard is survived by six children, Commonwealth's Attorney Pollard, Mrs. Dorothy Cumbes, of Richmond; Miss Elizabeth E. Pollard, Wilbur D., James M. and Robert B. Pollard, of this city; six sisters, Mrs. Ida Kirby of Baltimore; Mrs. Susie McMullin, Mrs. Mary C. Woodall, Mrs. Bessie Hall and Mrs. Charles Nunnally, of Richmond, and four grandchildren.

MONTGOMERY ACTS ON DROUGHT RELIEF

Loans for Six Farmers Are Given Approval by Federal Committee.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post.
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

While the Federal drought relief committee was meeting to approve six loans under the Federal relief act, the disaster relief committee of the Montgomery County Chapter of the Red Cross was meeting in the Rockville High School to consider plans for the alleviation of drought suffering in Montgomery County.

The Federal committee, of which State Senator Robert G. Hilton is chairman and Otto W. Anderson, county farm agent, is secretary, approved the applications of six farmers who wish to borrow money from the Federal Government. The applications have been sent to the Federal board in Washington for final action. The money must be expended for seed, fertilizer and other crop needs, and a first right lien on the property must be given as security.

The Red Cross relief committee, which is headed by Frank B. Severance, Gaithersburg banker, plans to begin the distribution of seed to farmers within two weeks, and material relief will be extended to the more than 1,000 families in the county which have been rendered unable to support themselves by the drought.

F. Bernard Welsh, chairman of the special collection committee which had charge of the collection of drought relief funds in the county, appeared at the meeting and turned over a check for $6,193.34, which has been collected. This is nearly double the quota which was set for Montgomery County, the amount of the quota, 3,500, being raised in the suburban areas alone. The upcounty sections were given small quotas because they are within the drought relief area.

Practically every Red Cross worker in the county attended the meeting and heard the detailed plans discussed. Under the supervision of the National Red Cross, the relief work will be carried out by the local relief committee. The relief work will be confined to actual drought cases, unemployment cases being left for the Social Service League.

Montgomery County public health nurses made 3,675 visits in the past fiscal year, according to the report of Miss Hermine Badenhoop, chief nurse. This number includes the usual school visits. There were 1,410 cases which received only one visit, because of the heavy demand on the department, while 454 cases were carried for several visits.

Funeral services for Stanley B. Gaither, 57 years old, of Gaithersburg, a mail carrier for the Rockville Postoffice, were held yesterday at the residence. Burial was in Forest Oak Cemetery.

Mr. Gaither, who was 57 years old, died suddenly while delivering mail Saturday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Gaither.

Acceptance of space at 6710 Wisconsin avenue to house the proposed farm woman's market, sponsored by the Montgomery County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, was announced yesterday by Mrs. James D. King, of Germantown, president of the council. Mrs. John C. Newell, of Bethesda, has been asked to act as manager of the market, but has not accepted as yet.

The market will serve a dual purpose. It will provide an outlet for the work of the farm woman and at the same time present the opportunity to purchase farm products while they are fresh. It is not expected that the market will be opened before June 1.

A meeting of the finance and business management committee will be held within the next two weeks, according to Mrs. Frank B. Swart, chairman. The meeting will consider further financing plans, selection of the manager and other incident matters pertaining to the opening.

COUNTY ZONING LAW CHANGES ARE URGED

Bethesda Chamber of Commerce Adopts Report of Its Special Committee.

Changes in the zoning regulations which affect the metropolitan area of Montgomery County were advocated in the report of the zoning committee of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce which was adopted last night at a meeting in the county building. The regulations provide for more stringent control of rezoning uses.

The chamber adopted a resolution asking the State Roads Commission to take the necessary steps to obtain a permanent fund for use in beautification of State roads, with provision for the permission of assistance by interested towns and communities. Edward H. Jones reported that the joint committee of the chambers of the county, which is preparing plans for an advertising booklet, will hold a meeting March 20. Capt. Chester Wells, chairman of the special committee on hastening the park program, and Luke I. Wilson, chairman o fthe special committee on beautification and widening of the Rockville pike, reported progress.

County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner told the chamber that members of the State Roads Commission, who had viewed the roads, had informed him that two culverts on the Rockville Pike will be widened this season, that seevral bad sections on the Old Georgetown road are to be improved and special care of the sides of the East-West Highway will be included in this summer's program.

C. M. Groninger, divisional freight agent for Baltimore of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, addressed the chamber. He said that the recently opened freight station at Bethesda has been far more successful than the company expected and that improvement of facilities is under consideration. The freight station was obtained largely through the efforts of the chamber.

Mate Kissed Another Wife's Plea Charges

Asserting that her husband petted and kissed another woman at a party last New Year's Eve, Amy I. Thornton, of Eighth streets northwest near M street, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to grant her a limited divorce from Reginald J. Thornton, whose business address is given as Canal street southwest near South Capitol street.

The Thorntons were married March 29, 1930, but have no children.

ALEXANDRIA GROUP TO NAME DIRECTORS

Seven Members of Chamber of Commerce Board to Be Nominated.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

James T. Preston, secretary of the chamber of commerce, mailed out ballots for the nominations for the board of directors. Balloting will close Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Each member of the chamber was sent a complete list of the membership to select from.

There are 14 directors, and only 7 are to be named now, the remaining 7 to hold over until 1932. The result of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the chamber March 16.

The directors whose terms expire this year are: Gardner L. Boothe, Robert S. Jones, Robert G. Carter, Clyde C. Lamond, Benedict Weil, George F. Downham and George E. Warfield.

The following will hold over until 1932: D. C. Book, Harry Hammond, L. H. Dudley, Frank W. Noxon, John Barton Phillips, Fred C. Goodnow and Carroll Pierce.

John H. Trimyer, W. L. Norford, J. Kenneth Aitcheson, Francis H. Fannon, E. Gorman Ridgely, J. William May and A. M. Remschel have been appointed to count the ballots and supervise the election.

The city school board members recently invited the members of city council to visit the city schools with them, and yesterday Mayor Carroll Pierce, Councilmen Edmund F. Ticer, Thomas J. Fannon, Arthur Herbert and Clyde C. Lamond met Chairman Urban S. Lambert and E. E. Lawler, of the school board, and made an unofficial visit to various school buildings in the city.

Police Captain W. W. Campbell, in his report for February, announces 257 arrests, a slight increase over January. Lodgings were furnished 581 persons at the police station during the month, 415 white and 166 Negro. Automobile accidents investigated by local police, numbered 27 in the city and four outside. The total value of property reported either lost or stolen was $470.50, of which amount police recovered $356.

C. Page Waller, president of the Retail Merchants Credit Association, will address the Rotary Club today at 12:30 o'clock at George Mason Hotel on the activities of that organization and its service to the merchants.

City council will hold an informal meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon to hear the local zoning and planning commission report on its findings and consider a tentative ordinance to be submitted by them. They will also consider the map prepared by Commission Engineer Irving Root.

David Rankin Barbee, historian and feature writer for The Washington Post, will address the members of the Washington Society of Alexandria and Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, on March 11 in historic Gadsby's Tavern on records relating to John Gadsby. It is stated the portraits of John Gadsby and his wife, which were recently located and reconditioned, will be on exhibition.

The Alexandria Garden Club will sponsor a lecture at 10:30 o'clock this morning at Virginia Public Service Building, by B. Y. Morrison, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Historic Gadsby's Tavern, which is now the home of Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, is now being kept open to the public, with no fee charged, but a voluntary offering taken. Miss Kathrin G. Uhler is in charge.

Postmaster F. Clinton Knight, who is service officer of the Alexandria American Legion Post, yesterday had 600 veterans sign their bonus papers in his office at the postoffice. He immediately mailed the applications to the Veterans' Bureau.

Exhibition of Paintings To Be Repeated in 1932

Baltimore, March 2 (A.P.).—A Pan-American art exhibition held at the Baltimore Museum of Art since January 15 will be repeated next year, it was announced today. The exhibition closed yesterday with a total attendance of 32,730 registered.

One hundred paintings by Latin-American and Canadian artists will be stored until a tour of the larger museums of the country starts this fall. Thirty-four works of Americans will be returned.

PROGRESS IS MADE ON ARLINGTON ROAD

Leaders Active in Plans to Assure Completion of Route to Bridge.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County will have a convenient approach road to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge, despite the failure of Congress to provide for the construction of the first two miles of the Lee boulevard, is a prediction of leaders in the movement to have the county open a road through Fort Myer Heights.

The road, known as the Washington street approach, connects with Wilson boulevard at the courthouse and follows Washington street through Fort Myer Heights to the bridge head. It is the plan to have the road completed this year. It will serve Clarendon and Ballston. A connecting road from the Lee highway soon to be improved through Lyon Village to a point on Wilson boulevard near the courthouse will serve that subdivision as well as Cherrydale, Livingstone Heights, Leeway and Falls Church.

The road will also serve the bridge traffic originating in Glebewood, Ashton Heights and Lyon Park. These communities will have direct access to the bridge via Pershing Drive, through Fort Myer military reservation, and over the military road to Rosslyn, connecting with the Washington street bridge approach.

Proponents also point out that it will serve the Lee Boulevard traffic until such time as arrangements can be made for extending the latter road through Fort Myer military reservation.

At the monthly meeting last night the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association perfected plans for calling a meeting soon of committees appointed by various local associations which have indorsed the Washington street approach. It is planned to combine all such committees into a central body for the purpose of securing the necessary action on the part of the county for the construction of the road this summer.

To date the following organizations headed by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce have indorsed the movement and have appointed committees, Lyon Village Citizens Association, Clarendon Citizens Association, Ballston Citizens Association, Livingstone Heights Civic League, and Lyon Park Citizens Association.

In a letter addressed to the Fort Myer Heights Citizens Association yesterday, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth, who is chairman of the special committee to acquire the needed rights of way for the project, stated that as soon as he receives the plot of land from the county engineer's office he will proceed to make every effort to obtain all rights of way.

The charge of manslaughter against John Edward Anderson, of Washington, was dismissed by Judge Harry R. Thomas, in Police Court yesterday. Anderson was held in connection with the death of Louise Horn, 21, of 2414 K street northwest, Washington, who was killed when the automobile which Anderson was driving crashed into a tree on the Lee highway at Cherrydale, Friday.

Anderson was represented by Attorney H. Bruce Green, of Clarendon.

The cadet corps of the Washington-Lee High School yesterday was raised to the level of the colleges and first-class military schools of the county by the announcement from the War Department that it had been appointed a junior reserve officers training corps.

Announcement of the appointment was made at a special assembly of the student body by Lieut. Col. C. S. McNeil, director of military science and tactics at the school.

County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp and Principal S. P. Vanderslice, attending the assembly, congratulated the cadets, faculty and especially Col. McNeil for having brought the corps to such a high standard of efficiency.

According to Mr. Vanderslice, all high school cadets are now eligible for officers training and upon completion of the course here and after attendance at summer camp, will be eligible for a commission in the Reserve Corps of the United States Army.

Plans have been completed for the second annual public relations dinner to be given by the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County at the Army-Navy Club in Arlington County Friday evening, March 13, at 6:30 o'clock.

Miss Charl Williams, of Washington, field secretary of the National Education Association, will be the principal speaker.

Among the honored guests will be Gov. John Garland Pollard, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, member of Congress from Florida; Mrs. Ruth McCormick, member of Congress from Illinois; Representative-elect Judge Howard W. Smith, Representative R. Walton Moore, Judge Walter T. McCarthy, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Delegate Hugh Reid, Albert H. Cohen, president of the Arlington County Monarch Club; A. F. Thelander, president of the Arlington Rotary Club; Louis C. Carl, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce; Harry A. Fellows, president of the Arlington County Civic Federation; Mrs. Ruby G. Simpson, president of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County; Mrs. Bertha Kelly, chairman of the Arlington County Chapter American Red Cross; County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, the Rev. Elmer Lucas, president of the Ministerial Union of Arlington County; Mrs. Margaret Germond, vice president of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs of the State, and Mrs. Mary W. Troth, president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Alexandria.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Clark, 75, who died Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Louis J. Lesieur, 364 Wilson boulevard, Clarendon, will be conducted at St. Charles Catholic Church at Clarendon tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock by the Rev. J. A. Curran. Burial will be in Forrest Glen Cemetery, Md.

Mrs. Clark is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lesieur, of Clarendon, and Mrs. Benjamin F. Farmer, of Burlington, N. J.

The annual banquet of Arlington Lodge, No. 193, I. O. O. F., will be held Wednesday evening, March 11, and not tomorrow night as previously announced. The banquet will be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon.

The Arlington County Republican Club will hold a special meeting tonight in the rooms over the Clarendon Lunchroom, Wilson boulevard, at Clarendon. President J. Foster Hangan requests that all members attend as many matters of importance in connection with the coming political campaign for county officers will be considered.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Matthew Fontaine Maury School at Clarendon will hold its March meeting Thursday night at the schoolhouse.

The night having been designated as "fathers' night," the committee announces that a special program has been arranged and all fathers are urged to attend.

The monthly meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation will be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Woodrow Wilson School at Fort Myer Heights, which heretofore has held its monthly meetings in the afternoon, announce that the March meeting will be held in the school auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The feature of the meeting will be the presenting of a founders' day program.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

CALVIN COOLIDGE, MILK DICTATOR.

Little Boy Cal, come blow your horn,
The sheep are in the meadow,
The cows are in the corn.

* * * *

FORMER PRESIDENT CALVIN COOLIDGE is said to have been offered $1,000,000 for a five-year term as czar of the milk industry in New England. The milkmen want Calvin to be the Will Hays of the farm, the Judge Landis of the cowsheds. Whether he will find time to do his newspaper column, carry out his duties as an insurance man and still be able to be New England's Big Butter and Milk Man remains to be seen.

* * * *

To the general public it will seem a job to which Mr. Coolidge is peculairly suited. There is something decidedly reassuring in the very thought of Calvan Coolidge standing behind every bottle of milk New England gets.

* * * *

The former President was a farm boy. The people think of him as something of a rural character. Even the cows would probably feel more contented with Calvin Coolidge in their corner.

* * * *

"Milk From Contented Coolidge Cows!" come to think of it, wouldn't be half bad as a slogan.

* * * *

The former President's presence as a Dairy Dictator would inspire public confidence in the milk supply. It might even make it a more popular drink. What would be a more effective boom for the milk business than half-page advertisements showing Calvin Coolidge, a bucket of milk in his hand and a cow at his side, looking out at newspaper readers with that familiar expression of stern and rockbound honesty?

* * * *

And in big type something like "You Can't Go Wrong With Coolidge Certified Milk," or "Keep Cows With Calvin?"

* * * *

Of course, the former President would have a busy time if he should choose to accept the job. There would be the possibility of his getting confused a bit. He might find himself sending one of his daily editorials to the New England Milkmen's League and erroneously giving his newspaper syndicate a set of suggestions for milking the cows. It would be all very complicated.

POSSIBLE DIARY OF AN EX-PRESIDENT.

MON.—Up early and milked the column and wrote the cows. This can't be right. Milked the cows and wrote the column, I mean.

Tues.—Christened new boat, attended meeting of insurance directors and officiated at corner stone laying. Pretty late writing column.

Wed.—Very exasperating day. Couldn't get started on my newspaper work because of conference as milk czar. Dairymen want me to submit ideas for a standardized milk wagon. Am afraid I am undertaking too much.

Thurs.—Caught train for New York for insurance meeting. Wrote newspaper column on train. Couldn't get any ideas, so wrote article impressing on American public the fact that a cow is a four-legged domestic manner of value to humanity through the fact it supplies it with fresh milk.

Fri.—In all-day huddle with milkmen over a smaller quart bottle. Fear I am near a collapse.

Sat.—Have collapsed.

COUPLET AFTER OBSERVING THE HEADLINES.

Count that day lost which doesn't see
A "New Insult to Italy."

AFTER the Senate has concluded its investigation of the Wickersham report it should logically take up the next most difficult task of unscrambling an egg.

The Cartoon of the Month, in this department's opinion, was Mr. Wortman's, in the New York World, showing the little daughter in the Great American Home asking, "Please, mummy, can we have some gin bottles to play house with?"

QUEEN, BEHAVE YOURSELF!

QUEEN MARY of England announces that she is opposed to long skirts. A few months ago Her Majesty admitted she had taken to smoking cigarettes. The world awaits news at any moment now that she has been seen strolling around Buckingham Palace in beach pajamas.

A Kansas City man shot his wife for listening to Rudy Vallee on the radio. Probably a Harvard man.

Painters are threatening to adopt a half-size brush in order to make jobs last longer. The idea that there is any way to slow up the modern painter is absurd.

$357,500 INTEREST PAYMENT PASSED

Wardman Official Announces Board Had Not Acted in Matter.

A semiannual interest payment of $357,500, which was due yesterday, was met by an announcement of officials of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., that "the board of directors of the company at this date has not taken any action in the matter."

This statement means that interest on $11,000,000 of first and refunding mortgage bonds, secured by deeds of trust on ten local properties, was not paid. These bonds were sold by four nationally known security houses.

Usually the failure to meet an interest payment of this sort results in the beginning of foreclosure proceedings by bondholders against the properties securing their bonds. The statement that no action was taken in the payment of interest was issued by Humphrey Lloyd, controller of the company.

Mr. Lloyd's statement added that "committees have been formed to protect the interest of the bondholders and the cooperation of all interested parties, including the management and the bondholders committee, is being given toward conserving the interests of the bondholders and other parties."

The bonds were part of an authorized issue of $16,000,000 made when the properties concerned were taken from the hands of Harry Wardman in 1928. They were secured by the first and refunding mortgage on the Wardman Park Hotel, Carlton Hotel, the Chastleton Hotel, Stoneleigh Court, Cathedral Mansions, The Highlands, the Boulevard, Davenport Terrace, 2700 Connecticut avenue and the Department of Justice Building.

Debt Argument Ends in Slaying

West Virginia Merchant Is Killed in Row Over Customer's Bill.

Welch, W. Va., March 2 (A.P.).—An argument over a bill in a little store at Shabby Run, several miles from here, today led to the slaying of the storekeeper and the serious injury of his debtor.

McDowell County officers said S. H. Ferguson, 72, owner of the store, and Mack McCoy, argued over a small bill owed by Mr. McCoy. Mr. Ferguson, they said, shot McCoy in the back and the latter went home and notified a brother.

The brother, officers said, went to the store, shot Mr. Ferguson and fled. A search for him was started. Mack McCoy was brought to a Welch hospital.

ASSEMBLY IS READY TO BEGIN LAST GRIND

Question of Billboards on Roads One of Important Bills in Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 2.—Entering the third and final lap of the 90-day biennial session, less than five weeks of which now remain, the Maryland General Assembly reconvened tonight prepared to get down to the real grind of work. Although fewer bills have been presented in either the Senate or House up to this time, compared to the last several sessions, the files are fairly well filled. Sessions will be held for full weeks, with night meetings also getting under way soon in order to keep pace with the calendar.

Thus far the number of important measures presented has been comparatively few and there has been little to enliven deliberations of either branch. However, there are several bills attracting much attention upon which warm contests are in the offing.

Billboard Advertising.

Notable among the issues are the campaign being waged to place severe restrictions upon billboard advertising along public highways, by placing a substantial license fee thereon, opposition from the county aolons to any plan to place daylight saving in effect in Baltimore City during the coming summer; a battle against the movement to modify the Sunday blue laws, by permitting moving pictures and open selling of certain merchandise in Baltimore City on Sunday, and providing "home rule" in the counties to decide by question, bills to prohibit the manufacture and sale of oleomargarin or other butter substitutes, and the bill to ban purse and bucknet fishing in any of the waters of the State.

The measure has strong backing from the State Conservation Department and many sportsmen's organizations. That the bill will pass through the House is indicated as a result of a test vote of a few days ago when effort was made to delay consideration of it. Opponents of the bill, however, are pinning their hopes on killing the bill in the Senate, and they are looking to Senator S. Scott Beck, of Kent County, as their champion to fight it.

Road Program.

Waterton, of Mr. Beck's home county, and those of Talbot County, have been the principal advocates of maintaining the use of the purse and buck nets, but the Kent and Talbot representations in the House were unable to muster sufficient strength to bar progress of the bill.

The administration's road program is embodied in another bill that will come up for consideration shortly. This involved a bond issue of nearly $5,000,000, and there are a number of other road measures of local interest to the several counties on the files. Incidentally, the State Roads Commission has just handed to Gov. Ritchie a report embracing recommendations for a bond issue of $5,130,000 to carry out a road and bridge construction program which would include, among other things, beginning widening a road north to Philadelphia to 40 feet, the same as was done with the Washington-Baltimore boulevard. Two million dollars is asked for the first steps in this direction. The governor is making a study of the recommendations.

A bill of State-wide effect, giving all municipalities or other areas in Maryland zoning and planning authority, is ready for introduction in the General Assembly tomorrow, it was learned tonight. The measure is now in the hands of Dr. George L. Edmonds, chairman of the Montgomery County delegation in the House, who will sponsor it.

Seven bills relating to interior affairs of Montgomery County were among a group of new measures introduced in the House of Delegates tonight.

All of the bills were presented by Dr. Edmonds. Three of the bills provide for bond issues and the others embody administration actions.

MARLBORO DRIVER IS FREED IN DEATH

Ignatius N. Mayhew Held After Fatal Crash Trial on Hit-Run Charge.

Although a coroner's jury last night cleared Ignatius N. Mayhew, of Marlboro, of any blame in the death of Henry Garner, of Mellwood, Mayhew is being held in bond of $1,000 on a charge of hit-and-run.

According to police, Mayhew kept on going after his car struck Mr. Garner, who was walking along the Marlboro pike near his home. Mayhew returned to the scene of the accident about an hour afterward and gave himself up. He said that he was frightened at the time, which was why he did not stop.

The coroner's jury, impaneled by Judge Harry I. Anderson, called the accident which resulted in Garner's death "unavoidable." Mayhew said that he did not see Mr. Garner until after the collision, due to the rain and to the blinding lights of an approaching car. Mr. Garner's companion, Mitchell Moran, said that he jumped aside just in time to escape being struck.

A coroner's jury will meet Wednesday night in Marlboro to fix the blame for the death of Hilary Jackson, colored proprietor of a roadhouse near Woodyard, Md., who died 24 hours after being struck in the head in a fight at the place.

Edward H. Stewart, 39, of New York avenue near Ninth street northwest, held in Jackson's death, claims that he acted in self-defense when he struck the other with the barrel of a shotgun. He says that Jackson fired the gun twice before it was wrested from his hands.

The fight was the climax of a party at the house last Saturday. Two other men and two women, who were in Stewart's company, have been located and summoned to be present at the inquest, according to Lieut. Tom Garrison. Judge Harry I. Anderson will impanel the jury.

Week-end raids in the county netted a quantity of liquor and a gaming table, as well as the alleged proprietor of one establishment. The arrested man is N. P. Phumby, operator of the Weeping Willow Inn on Central avenue near Chapel road.

Sheriff W. C. Hopkins led the raid, which was occasioned by numerous complaints from neighbors. Warrants were secured by Lieut. Garrison. Phumby was taken before Judge Griffith and charged with possession and setting up a gaming table. His bond was set at $2,000.

Shades of Chicago! Somebody has stolen a street marker from the town of Hyattsville, and strangers in the town are unable to find the corner of Wine avenue and Franklin street without inquiring.

The sign was twisted off its base and carried away. Chief of Police Anderson suspects that the marker was taken by children rather than gangsters, and will inquire among the schools in the neighborhood.

An addition to the town tax of Riverdale of 10 cents per hundred for four years is proposed as a means to raise money for the purchase of new fire-fighting equipment for the community. The proposal is embodied in a bill which is to be introduced in the Legislature at this session, as all amendments to town charters must be approved by the State Senate and House of Delegates.

It looks as though the list of candidates in the next town election in Hyattsville, on May 4, will depend on the wives of the present incumbents.

When asked if he would run again for mayor, Dr. Hilary T. Willis, who has held this post twice before, said, "You'll have to ask my wife." And this, in substance, was the reply of the others when they were canvassed.

Others whose terms expire are: O. G. Dudrow, First Ward; Harry Boswell, second Ward; E. M. Gover, Third Ward, and E. B. Hilley, Fourth Ward.

Wives are known not to be too enthusiastic about the civic jobs, as the council meetings often extend far into the night. Of late, in connection with the pending amendments to the town road law, there have been a number of special meetings and hearings.

With a score of 3,303 out of a possible 4,000, Hyattsville's Company F, of the First Regiment of the National Guard, has taken first place in the State target contest. They will represent the State in the national target shoot.

Members of the team will receive silver medals and the company will get a silver trophy. The final competition in the State contest was held in Baltimore, where they fought it out with teams from Fifty-eighth Brigade Headquarters, Company F of the Fifth regiment, and the First separate company.

Sergt. N. H. Spicknall led the team with 360, while Sergt. A. P. Shanklin was next with 356. Others, in the order of their scores, were Private Edgar C. Blackman, Private Wallace B. Taylor, Corpl. W. L. Spicknall, Lieut. Hugh T. McClay, Sergt. Joseph B. Troy, Private James A. Liverette, Sergt. C. H. Hayes, and Corpl. William F. Thomas. Jefferson Dix was captain of the team, and Lieut. Samuel L. Crosthwaite acted as coach.

Members of the Hyattsville Chamber of Commerce, including the business promotion committee will go to Annapolis tonight to see the latest developments in community publicity. They will see what has been done with sound and color motion picture photographs.

The show is sponsored by the State committee on national publicity for Maryland.

Those who are expected to attend are William T. Jennings, president of the chamber; C. D. Anderson, secretary; A. H. Seidenspinner, chairman of the business promotion committee; Daniel C. Fahey, jr., Arthur Owens, Irvin Owings, L. L. Gray, Dr. H. T. Willis, Charles L. Irvin, J. M. Botts, S. H. Harvey, G. Hodges Carr, Henry Hiser and J. T. Norment.

The play given by the Independent Players in St. Luke's Parish Hall for the benefit of the Bladensburg rescue squad will clear nearly $100 for that organization, it is expected. Andrew Gasch, chief of the squad, said that all reports are not in, but he expects nearly that sum.

The players donated their services for the show, which was given under the direction of the Cottage City Women's Club.
